MORE PAY CUTS IN OFFING, U. S. OBSERVERS SAY

Railroads Expected to Act Soon.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The 10 per cent wage cuts announced by the United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, and other concerns in the iron and steel industry last week are but the prelude to a more widespread reduction of labor pay, according to officials in touch with the leaders of commerce and industry.

In fact, the wage reductions in the steel industry are only the more spectacular manifestation of a general movement for the employment of more men at lower rates of pay that has been in progress for several weeks, its reports to the administration indicate.

The first intimation that large scale reductions of wages were under consideration by the great corporations of the country was given in the application of the railroads several months ago for a 15 per cent freight rate increase. The carriers said that rather than reduce wages they were asking for more revenue. The implication was that unless the interstate commerce commission should allow a rate increase the alternative of a wage reduction would be resorted to.

Early Ruling Expected.

It is an open secret in the transportation world that the carriers will ask to lower the pay of rail workers if the roads fail to obtain a favorable decision by the commerce commission. The ruling is expected shortly. Unlike other corporations, however, the railroads could not reduce wages by a mere vote of their boards of directors. Under the federal law, wage reduction proposals would be subjected to negotiation with the brotherhoods, which would consume several months.

One of the significant aspects of the wage reduction movement is the silence of the White House on the subject. President Hoover is being pressed by organized labor to denounce the action of the steel companies and other large corporations as a direct violation of the pledge given him by the big employers, after the stock market crash in the fall of 1929, that they would initiate no wage reductions. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, accused the steel corporations of a breach of faith.

Represented as Regretting Step.

The White House secretariat represents the President as regretting the step taken by the steel companies because of his belief that any reduction of the purchasing power of workers now would retard the recovery of prosperity. At no time, however, has there been any sugestion at the White House that the employers had broken faith with the President.

Some members of the cabinet say that while wage reductions are regrettable, they are inevitable with the cost of living declining. Wages went up, they point out, when the cost of living began rising during the war and now they are coming down in the wake of the decline in the cost of food, clothing, fuel and rents. They regard the silence of the President as a recognition of the working of an immutable economic law.

Text of Agreement.

Furthermore, it is asserted by high officials of the administration that Mr. Hoover would be the last one to charge the large employers with breach of faith, for the reason that there has been none. The understanding entered into by the large employers and leaders of organized labor with the President on Nov. 21, 1929, was as follows:

"The President was authorized by the employers who were present at the meeting's conference to state on each individual behalf that they will not initiate any movement for wage reduction, and it was their strong recommendation that this attitude should be pursued by the country as a whole. They considered that aside from the human considerations involved, the purchasing power of the country will thereby be maintained.

"The President was also authorized by the representatives of labor to say that in their individual views and in their strong recommendation the country as a whole that no movements beyond those already in operation should be initiated for increases of wages, and that every consideration should be given by labor generally in the handling of its problems.

"The purpose of these declarations is to give assurance that conflicts will not occur during the present time which will affect the con-

GERMANS AGREE TO TEAM WITH PARIS ON TRADE

Berlin Gives French Great Welcome.

Quit Gold Basis

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Norwegian government announced tonight that Norway will temporarily suspend the gold standard.

The decision was made at a cabinet meeting held shortly before midnight. It was also decided to place an embargo on gold exports.

The central banks of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland announced that they had decided on joint measures for the future to maintain the parity of currency.

Sweden Off Gold Standard.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Swedish state council decided to suspend the gold standard tonight until Nov. 30, and the national bank discount rate was raised from 6 per cent to 8 per cent.

Exportation of gold by any bank other than the Rigsbank or foreign national banks is prohibited under the order and the state bank will suspend gold payments until Nov. 30, unless a notice of resumption is given before that date.

BY SIGRID SCHULZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Pierre Laval, French premier, and his foreign minister, Aristide Briand, arrived in Berlin today to the accompaniment of German cheers, and before the day was over they had reached an agreement with German statesmen for the appointment of a non-political commission to work out a scheme of closer coöperation between the two countries in economic as well as financial problems.

The commission will be given extraordinary power to accelerate this coöperation—another stride forward in the matter of liquidating the ancient enmity between France and Germany.

Though Premier Laval had stressed the fact that politics and finances would not figure in his negotiations with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, the problem of reparations and their connections with the debts of America's war allies will be discussed both in the plenary session and in private conversations between Premier Laval and Chancellor Bruening.

France Wants Compromise.

The French premier wants to be able to present a Franco-German compromise to President Hoover when he calls on him in Washington in October. Since the Germans are anxious for an extension of the year's grace on war debts and reparations and the French, on the other hand, are eager to have Germany resume reparations as soon as possible, Laval has suggested a compromise providing for Germany to resume payments in kind on a large scale at the end of the Hoover holiday.

Orders for the benefit of France would be placed in the German chemical and electrical industries. In exchange for financial support through French capital, these industries would endeavor to form international cartels with similar industries of France. The president of the Paris chamber of commerce, Paul Buisson, a prominent man in the chemical industries of his country, entered today's negotiations at this point.

French and German officials stress the fact that though today's negotiations touched on the questions of debts to America and problems affecting other countries, they were careful to "avoid agreements which might violate interests of third parties."

Settle Details Today.

Details of the new commission's functions will be settled tomorrow.

Tonight in the hall of Bismarck's palace, where the French and German statesmen met in 1878, the French premier and German chancellor pledged to strive jointly for "closer Franco-German coöperation, the key to the solution of part of the troubles with which the world is suffering."

Chancellor Bruening eulogized the French guests and praised M. Briand, "whose name is forever linked with that of the late Gustav Stresemann and Frank B. Kellogg in the anti-war pact.

"While the Kellogg pact marks definite progress in the world of politics, no such progress has been achieved in the business world, and the economic situation has developed into the main cause of anxiety for statesmen," he continued.

Dr. Bruening repeated his belief

If the professional stock market bear, who profits on bad news, keeps on trying to convince the public that American gilt-edged securities are mostly gilt—

Bank Will Pay Depositors in Full and Quit

Notices were put in the mail last night telling the depositors of the Mayfair State Savings bank, 4436 Lawrence avenue, to call and get their money, as the bank is going to quit accepting deposits on Sept. 30. T. B. McGrath Jr., president of the bank, said that more than sufficient cash is on hand to pay out every cent of the deposits, which amounts to $600,000. The bank, organized by McGrath, opened in April, 1926.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson said this is the first time he ever heard of any bank in the country voluntarily going out of business and paying 100 cents on the dollar.

Gets Money in One Week.

President McGrath said that a week ago the bank began calling its loans and that in the week sufficient money was collected to pay all the 6,000 depositors. So far this year, he said, the bank has collected and paid out to depositors more than $1,500,000.

"We are closing because we can't make money," Mr. McGrath explained. "It is impossible to earn enough money to pay the operating overhead and a reasonable return on the capital invested.

"Due to general conditions we do not blame the people for withdrawing their deposits, but in doing so they have denied themselves the conveniences and opportunities that this sound bank gave to this neighborhood."

Points to Bond Record.

A statement issued by Mr. McGrath said the bank had sold $2,000,000 of mortgages and bonds in its five and one-half years of existence without loss of a penny to the purchasers.

Mr. McGrath, who lives at 3741 North Harding avenue, is a lawyer. He is 40 years old and said he has resided in the vicinity of his bank since boyhood.

George M. Getschow, president of the Heating and Piping Contractors' National association and head of the Phillips-Getschow company is chairman of the board of directors of the Mayfair bank. Other directors are E. L. Bernard, A. W. Gast, Al F. Gorman, former city clerk; George M. Jensen, Edward McClure, Stefan Mizialko, Joseph J. Quinn, George I. Reuss, Carl Thorgerson, Frank Wilkins, Thomas W. Plant, Clarence Hatzfeld and A. T. Terp.

Mr. McGrath said that in the further liquidation of the bank's assets it is expected that $65 to $75 will be realized for each share of stock.

350 ONE-LEGGED FOLKS NEEDED TO USE THIEF'S LOOT

If the thief who looted the automobile of Charles Weiss, 113 South Franklin street, last night can find 350 one-legged persons, men, women, and children, he may be able to dispose of his stolen goods. But he may have trouble in finding a market, for the one-legged customers must all be minus their right leg.

Weiss, who is a shoe salesman for a company at the Franklin street address, left his car parked at Franklin and Lake streets last night. In the car were seven cases of shoes with fifty shoes to a case. When he returned to the car the seven cases were gone. All the shoes were for the left foot. Weiss valued the loot at $700.

Ninth Movie House Bombed in Union War

The Music Box theater, 3729 Southport avenue, was bombed early yesterday morning. It is the ninth motion picture house to become the target of bombers' attacks since the inception of the dispute between members of the Allied Independent Theaters' association and the Motion Picture Operators' union, headed by Thomas E. Maloy.

The bomb was thrown against the north wall of the lobby near the sidewalk. It was unusually powerful, damaging the box office and the side wall of the lobby. Occupants of thirty-four apartments were routed from their beds and windows were shattered in adjoining stores. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Policeman Chases Bombers.

Policeman Theodore Johnson, assigned to guard the theater, said he was in the alley when the explosion occurred. He ran to the front and saw the bombers' car speeding south in Southport avenue. He gave chase in his own car, but lost sight to the bombers' car in Cortland street near the north branch of the river.

Stanly Nawratz, owner of a garage across the street, saw two men drive up in a sedan. He said one of them got out, ran to the theater lobby and then back to the car. A moment later the blast came.

Harry Lasker, manager of the theater, said he had pleaded with Capt. Hugh McCarthy of the Town Hall station for a police detail to guard the theater late Saturday night. McCarthy, he said, would let him have but one man, explaining such were his orders.

Manager Assails Police.

"I am going to find out what's the matter with the police," Lasker said. "Something is wrong either in the commissioner's office or with the captains. The police are not taking proper methods to stop these outrages. I am going to demand the proper authorities do their duty."

The theater owners have refused a demand of the union to employ two operators for each theater and are employing nonunion operators. Saturday the owners refused terms offered by Maloy, who is under indictment. The latest bombing was considered by owners as retaliation for the refusal. Maloy has consistently denied the union has a hand in the bombing. The owners have offered a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the bombers.

Autos Claim 10 Lives; Four on Crossings

Four persons were killed in two grade crossing accidents yesterday in which automobiles were struck by trains, and two others met death in a collision of two automobiles. The total automobile deaths for the day in Chicago and vicinity was ten.

In an accident at the Park avenue crossing of the Burlington line in Hinsdale three elderly persons were killed. At the Carpenter road crossing of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad one was killed and one injured. A head-on crash of two automobiles in Cicero avenue, between 91st and 92d streets, Oak Lawn, claimed the lives of a Riverside dentist and a Chicago man and injured eight, four seriously.

Accident at Hinsdale.

Victims of the Hinsdale accident were Henry G. Buchholz Sr., 70 years old, retired contractor; Herman Drake, 60 years old, and Mr. Drake's wife, 55 years old, also of Hinsdale. The Drakes had been guests until midnight at the home of Mr. Buchholz, and the latter was driving them home.

The auto was struck by the North Coast Limited, a crack Burlington train. The locomotive hit the automobile squarely and hurled it against a freight car standing on a nearby track. Mr. Drake was a retired painting contractor.

Train Hits Truck.

John Schaull, 45 years old, a truck gardener of 5312 Mulford avenue, Niles Center, was seriously injured in the accident at the Carpenter road crossing, and his helper, Victor Johans, age 40, who lived with Schaull, was killed.

The two were riding in Schaull's vegetable truck late last night when it stalled on the tracks at the crossing. A northbound train hit the truck and hurled it against a signal pole. The helper was killed instantly. Schaull was taken to the Belmont hospital.

Two Killed in Collision.

Dr. Joseph E. Jaros, 38 years old, 233 Olmstead avenue, Riverside, and John J. Geraghty, 37 years old, 5606 South Fairfield avenue, a watchman, were killed in the Oak Lawn collision. Those seriously injured were Mrs. Anna Jaros, 30 years old, the dentist's wife; Elaine Jaros, 6 years old, a daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Paus, 101 Southcote road, Riverside. Less seriously injured were Ethel Jaros, 13 years old, another daughter of Dr. Jaros; Richard, 12 years old, and Norman, 9 years old, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paus, and Harry Philips, 5612 South Fairfield avenue.

Dr. Jaros was killed instantly and Geraghty died shortly after the accident in the Little Company of Mary hospital at Evergreen Park.

According to the information given to the police by witnesses, Geraghty, who was driving north in Cicero avenue, with Philips as a passenger, swerved his car out of the line of traffic to pass another car and met the Jaros car head-on.

Other Cook County Deaths.

The three deaths occurring in Cook county and four others increased the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 907. The victims:

Daniel McCarthy, 36 years old, 3400 Pioneer avenue. Fatally injured when his automobile collided at Fulton street and Ogden boulevard with another driven by Patsy Scalo, 262 North California avenue. McCarthy's death occurred soon afterward in the county hospital.

Thomas Evans, 68 years old, 1204 South Oakley avenue. Died in the Alexian Brothers' hospital of injuries received on June 20 in front of 2649 West Roosevelt road.

Joseph Bernhardt, 38 years old, 4639 North Hamlin avenue, died in the American hospital of injuries received on Aug. 20 at Grace street and Sheffield avenue.

John Victor, 57 years old, 4536 South Justine stret. Died in the county hospital of injuries received a week ago at 46th street and Ashland avenue and was knocked to the pavement.

BRITISH FIGHT HONGKONG MOB; 9 ARE KILLED

Wang Attacked by Students; May Die.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 28 (Monday).—Thousands of Japanese are fleeing to zones of safety as the result of anti-Japanese demonstrations throughout China, according to a dispatch to the Tokio Asahi. The Chinese government, it is stated, has refused to comply with a request to protect Japanese. Anti-Japanese riots have been reported at Hankow, Peiping, Hangchow, Kiukiang and Hongkong.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, China, Sept. 28 (Monday).—(AP)—Foreign Minister C. T. Wang was probably fatally injured when he was attacked today by a group of students who invaded the foreign offices to voice their indignation at Wang's alleged failure to induce the league of nations council to effectively intervene in the Manchurian crisis.

HONGKONG, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Declaring a state of emergency exists, the British colonial government late today called out troops to quell rioting mobs of Chinese at Kowloon, nearby on the mainland after several days of anti-Japanese demonstrations.

Police were armed with riot guns and ordered to shoot without warning if necessary.

A crowd of Chinese entered the home of Shimziro Yashashita, a Japanese, in an isolated district of Kowloon, killed him, his wife, mother, two sons, and a nursemaid. Only a three year old baby was spared.

Police and soldiers arrived to find a mob of 1,000 Chinese wrecking the dwelling and in a fierce fight which followed two Chinese were killed by bayonets of the soldiers. Ten were arrested.

Burn Japanese Goods.

Tonight comparative quiet was the rule. A few minor outbreaks occurred, however, and some Japanese goods were destroyed in street bonfires. During the height of the disturbance many Japanese were attacked in isolated streets and injured sufficiently to require hospital treatment. Practically all Japanese shops have been wrecked and Japanese nationals are segregated in school buildings for protection.

With no more Japanese to attack, the mobs turned their attention on Chinese shops selling Japanese goods and wrecked many of them. Chinese householders are throwing their Japan manufactured household utensils into the streets, some littered with unwanted property presenting remarkable sights. Authorities used steam rollers to crush the discards in order to facilitate removal.

Child Killed by Bullet.

Work of the police in halting demonstrations was complicated by the congested condition in parts of Hongkong, and by riot organizers who used children to throw stones and start demonstrations. One child was killed by a police bullet while a majority of those arrested were mere youths. Exemplary sentences were imposed.

Authorities said they suspected communist influences were behind the rioting which the Chinese pursue sporadically with terrible vindictiveness. Even troops have been bombarded with bricks and flower pots.

Military authorities assured the Japanese consul he would have full protection. Some Japanese, who have been segregated at different points, have decided to return home.

At Kowloon two British destroyers were berthed alongside the wharves as protection for the big Japanese liner Asama Maru and the large Japanese shipping offices. Although these have not been damaged, several branch offices have been wrecked.

Japan Replies to U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 28.—[11:30 a. m. Monday.]—Japan's reply to Secretary of State Stimson's note asking Tokio to refrain from further hostilities in Manchuria was sent to the American charge d'affaires, Edwin L. Neville, this morning by the foreign office. It follows:

"The Japanese government is deeply sensible of the friendly concern and fairness of the attitude with which the American government has observed the recent course of events in Manchuria. Sharing with the American government the hope expressed in your note, this government has already caused the Japanese military forces in Manchuria to refrain from any further acts of hostility unless their own safety as well as the security of the South Manchurian railway, and the safety of Japanese lives and property within the railway zone is jeopardized by the aggression of Chinese troops or armed bands.

"Every care has been and will continue to be exercised by the Japanese forces to observe all the requirements of international law and international agreements, and to avoid any action calculated to prejudice an amicable settlement of differences between Japan and China. The Japanese government is confident that by frank and unimpassioned discussions between the two parties in conflict, that in the light of their true and lasting interests, an adjustment will be found to set at rest the existing situation of tension in Manchuria."

New Manchurian Republic.

A Mukden dispatch to the Tokio newspaper Nichi Nichi reports the establishment of an independent republic in Manchuria and Mongolia which has definitely decided to be based on the principle of opposition to "the autocratic rule of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, militarist." It is understood the Nanking government has agreed to recognize the new government, which, it is stated, will strive to protect the rights of citizens in the northeastern areas.

Another dispatch from Mukden reports that a recently organized peace preservation committee, composed of nine Chinese civilians, including Yuan Chin-kai and Yu Ching-kan and consisting of administrative, finance, justice, and legislative department members, has completed the drafting of a final concrete plan looking to the restoration of order and the preservation of peace in Manchuria and Mongolia by the Chinese. This movement is distinct from that of the secessionists.

It is understood the Japanese military authorities would be satisfied to have any Chinese, no matter who, assume control of the area as long as order is restored, but doubt is expressed whether the committee could thus simply take the situation into its hands.

In view of the fact that any movement in Manchuria is likely to have a most important bearing on the deportment of the Japanese army, Tokio, it is understood, has dispatched orders to its headquarters in Manchuria strictly prohibiting Japanese military forces from participating in any way with such an organization.

SECEDES FROM MANCHURIA

A dispatch from Mukden to Tokio yesterday reported the establishment of an independent republic in northwest Manchuria and Mongolia.

The Chinese government at Nanking is reported to have agreed to recognize the new government, which is opposed to the régime of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, the Manchurian war lord.

The darker shaded area of the map locates the new republic, which is located in the Barga district and Mongolia.

The dotted portion of map shows territory in south Manchuria now held by Japanese troops. This area includes all territory south of a line running west from the port of Kainei, near the Corean frontier, to the Mongolian frontier and including the cities of Kirin and Mukden.

PEACE IN SIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28. [Monday.]—A hopeful view was taken in Nanking today that Japan will call off further military operations outside the Manchurian treaty zone as a result of the United States note urging peace. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, was asked to defer his proposed return to Manchuria and instead come to Nanking for a conference.

In Chinese official circles there is a feeling that Japan may forcibly retain certain railways recently built in Manchuria by alleging that no part of the money advanced by Japan has been repaid. These lines were built to connect with the Japanese owned South Manchurian railway, but since then China has built other lines paralleling that road, and this has long been a sore spot to Japan, probably being the motive for Japan's present campaign rather than for territorial acquirement.

Says Japanese Are Retiring.

A foreign office spokesman said tonight:

"Owing to the note of Secretary of State Stimson of the United States, and the attitude of the soviets, Japanese militarists have been forced to abandon their forward movement, and retire within the railway zone. Negotiations following can have only one final object, the resumption of full sovereign rights for China over Manchuria, but reparations to China must also be included in any arrangement that is made. Yet the civilized world will hear with amazement that the Japanese are still attacking with aerial bombs and machine guns trains running from Peiping to Mukden. That railway is in undisputed Chinese territory.

"Japan thinks that through the action of the league of nations she gained a success, but the plain facts are that when M. K. Yoshizawa, chief Japanese delegate, undertook to withdraw the Japanese troops to within the railway zone, Japan's militarists suffered a defeat."

Repaint Captured Planes.

PEIPING, China, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A foreign official dispatch from Mukden said today the Japanese had two airplane squadrons there and were repainting with Japanese insignia forty or fifty planes captured from the Chinese. The principal Chinese banks were expected to reopen tomorrow. Foreign telegrams from Harbin reported that Japanese airplanes occasionally flew over the city but that north Manchuria was quiet.

Chicago Chinese Protest Japan's Manchuria Drive

As a protest against the Japanese invasion of Manchuria, 1,000 Chinese of the city gathered in a massmeeting yesterday at 22d street and Wentworth avenue. Resolutions asking America's intervention in favor of China were adopted. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent association.

WOUNDED BY BOBBERS.

LINDBERGHS TO SURVEY FLOODED AREA OF HANKOW

Agree to New Flights to Help Sufferers.

NANKING, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh agreed today to extend his sphere of operations in behalf of China's millions of suffering flood refugees.

Dr. Heng Liu, head of the national flood relief commission's health staff, asked the American and his wife to fly over the area adjacent to Hankow to carry out survey work similar to that which has given the commission such valuable information concerning Kiangsu province conditions.

Lindbergh agreed to take off tomorrow if a heavy rain which started tonight abates. Accompanying the flying colonel and his wife will be Dr. Borcic, health expert of the league of nations, who is visiting in China. They will stop at Wuhu to inspect relief work going on there before continuing to Hankow, where they expect to spend several days making surveys over Hupeh province, especially along the Han river, where conditions are believed to be bad.

Praise Lindbergh's Work.

Officials were loud in their praise of services the Lindberghs have given, and applauded their readiness to undertake work in the Hankow district, for conditions there were extremely bad with disease, especially cholera, rampant.

Col. Lindbergh today refused to discuss the trying conditions he has encountered during the survey flights he has made over the grand canal district within the last few days. He referred questioners to his report on conditions he made to the commission. In it he told of many thousands of square miles of land under water, inhabitants living in boats or roof tops and crowded on rapidly eroding dykes. The report says:

"Sept. 21 we made a reconnaisance of the flooded area between the grand canal and the Yellow sea. We found this area extended from Taichow on the south almost to the old bed of the Yellow river on the north with a total area of 8,000 square miles badly flooded.

"The walled city of Hinchwa was badly flooded and the surrounding fields were covered with several feet of water. The nearest ground free from flood water is more than 25 miles south of the city. Literally hundreds of small villages throughout the entire area are standing in water, which, in many instances, covered all but the roofs. Those inhabitants still remaining are living in small boats moored in the streets. In many instances walls of the houses had collapsed.

"When we flew over this area the wind had whipped up the waves over the fields and the few dykes remaining were being eroded away rapidly. Thousands of refugees had congregated on dykes lining the grand canal and on an uncompleted road just south of the flood area.

"The city of Fowning on the north was badly flooded. On the east the flood water had almost reached the sea and in the far northeast section the flood water was held back only by the dykes which originally were constructed to keep out the high tide of the sea. Water was pouring with a high velocity through numerous breaks in the grand canal into this area and there were no signs of receding levels east of the canal.

All Crops Destroyed.

"Sept. 22 we flew over the area west of the grand canal. In the upper section of the Hwai river floods were receding and water was within the river banks. Wherever the floods had drained off inhabitants were replowing their fields and repairing what was left of their homes. Crops in the area of the actual flood have been completely destroyed.

"As we approached the grand canal from the west there was very little sign of receding of the flood and none of the fields had drained sufficiently to be plowed. In all there were several thousand square miles west of the grand canal completely flooded and much more where crops had been severely damaged.

"Sept. 23 we covered two districts. First we flew southwest of Nanking over the cities of Taiping, Wuhu, Kaoshun, and Suiyang. East of the Yangtze the district was badly flooded. The city of Wuhu had suffered the worst.

Water Up to Roofs.

"Water was standing in the streets of the walled city of Taiping and in Kaoshun and Suiyang. In the country districts many houses were in water almost to their roofs and many had collapsed. There were, however, high points of land and hills much closer to the flooded areas than in the grand canal district and many refugees had constructed temporary shelters just above the water line.

"The second area visited was west of the Yangtze in the district around and south of Chao lake. Floods had again caused great damage in hundreds of square miles in this district. The city of Chaoien, however, was only partly flooded."

YACHT COLLIDES WITH STEAMER; SIX ARE INJURED

Newport, R. I., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Six persons were hurt and a marine tragedy narrowly averted late today when the Aloha, famous square rigged Barkentine yacht of the Commodore Arthur Curtis James, collided with the mail steamer Sagamore off Fort Adams in Newport harbor.

All the injured were members of the Sagamore's passenger list of 30. They were caught on the deck of the small motorship when it was raked by the dolphin striker iron rod of the James' yacht.

With her starboard lifeboat stove in, her companionway housing toppled over and a portion of her stern rail splintered, the Sagamore was able to dock in Newport and land the injured for hospital treatment.

U. S. PREPARES TO PROSECUT TAX PLOTTE

Attorney Melnick Tells Side of Case.

Federal officials continued the investigation yesterday of the "Terry Druggan plot" through which, it is said, Druggan expected to save himself and his beer twin, Frankie Lake, from going to a federal penitentiary. The basis of the alleged plot is a charge that Druggan had given $75,000 to some one who was—to use it for bribes in connection with the trial of Capone and Lake for income tax evasion.

Assistant attorneys general from Washington, where another investigation is under way regarding the efforts of Druggan and Lake to compromise for $150,000 their tax claim of $517,000, said they believed the matter would be ready for presentation to a federal grand jury soon. United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said he would not rest content to see that proper punishment is inflicted on those involved in the alleged conspiracy which he said was intended to reflect upon him.

Melnick Discusses Case.

Morrisville Attorney Leopold Melnick was interviewed about the case. Melnick represents Al Capone in criminal proceedings against the latter's enemy for failure to pay taxes on his million dollar income. He said he was interested only in the civil proceedings involving Druggan. He declined to say whether he had been questioned by agents of the department of justice.

"I represent some people whose property is tied up through government liens issued against Druggan," Attorney Melnick said. It was understood he was referring to Albert Weiss, from whom Druggan bought the Burnham farm.

The government attached the farm in connection with its income tax claims against Druggan. It was explained that the lien which the government filed against the farm included Pick's interest in the property, amounting to the portion of the purchase price remaining unpaid by Druggan.

Harold Hayes, owner of the Hayes hotel, who says he acted as agent for Druggan and is said to have told government officials much of the plot story, has stated that Attorney Melnick was not acting for him.

Denies He Was Kidnaped.

"Were you the attorney who is said to have been kidnapped by Druggan's gangsters because the expected results had not been obtained with Druggan's money?" Melnick was asked.

"No, that's a lie," Attorney Melnick asserted. "I acted in Druggan's behalf with the utmost good will and in the utmost good faith. I had nothing to do with any fixing. There was any fixing. What I did was open and aboveboard. I defy any one to say that I have I ever met the political fixer or the clergyman mentioned in connection with those stories."

This reference was to Rollin Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee and formerly commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, who has been a government investigators he received a letter from the Rev. Bernard Vaughland of Louisville, Ky., asking clemency for Druggan and saying Druggan was not a bad fellow.

Lucas' Reply to Clergyman.

Lucas said he replied to the clergyman that he had nothing to do with the criminal charges against Druggan and that later Druggan came to him personally and, he said, with a letter of introduction from Father Boland.

"That was none of my affair," Attorney Melnick said when asked about any knowledge he might have had of Druggan's visits to the city and to Mr. Lucas.

"I have a right to refuse to answer questions about my client's business," the attorney explained. "Whatever took place between us was confidential and privileged and I do not have to reveal it to the government."

Melnick was told that Harold Hayes said he had put up a large amount of cash to help Druggan and was asked if he knew what had become of the money.

Money Ready for Taxes.

"I understood," he said, "that there was a large amount of money ready to pay Druggan's taxes when the government was ready, but kept it in settlement of his civil liability."

Attorney Melnick said he would state that although he was associated with District Attorney Johnson, their relations were only as between friend and lawyer. District Attorney Johnson's brother-in-law, Attorney Edward D. Swanstrom, occasionally referred legal matters to him, he said.

"As a public official Mr. Johnson is absolutely honest and fearless. I acted in good faith in defending my clients' affairs with him," said Melnick. "As a lawyer I had a perfect right to do so."

United States District Attorney George E. Q. "I represent some people whose name is tied up through government hearings issued against Druggan," Attorney Melnick said. It was understood he was referring to Albert Pick, for whom Druggan bought Sanola oil.

The government attached the farm in connection with its income tax case against Druggan. It was explained that the lien which the government filed against the farm jeopardized Pick's interest in the place, according to the portion of the purchase price remaining unpaid by Pick.

Harold Hayes, owner of the Metropole hotel, who says he acted as an agent for Druggan and is said to have told government officials much of the latter's story, has stated that Attorney Melnick was not acting for him.

The reference was to Robert H. HUSBAND TELLS HIS VERSION OF SEWER SLAYING

John Chorak, 39 years old, formerly of 9747 Houston avenue, who was arrested at Beaver Dam, Wis., on Saturday, confessed yesterday to Capt. Thomas Wolfe and Assistant State's Attorney Malachy Coghlan that he killed his wife, Emily, on June 3.

The body of Mrs. Chorak, who was 42 years old, was found on July 4 in a sewer manhole at 98th street and Houston avenue. Chorak fled from Chicago the following day.

According to Chorak, the death of his wife was accidental. He said that she had been friendly with a man known to him only as Tony and that she was out late on June 3. They quarreled over this and she took a butcher knife and tried to stab him, Chorak continued. Then, he maintained, he merely pushed her and she fell down. Half an hour later he discovered that she was dead and in fright wrapped the body in a blanket and took it to the sewer, where he concealed it.

Prosecutor Coghlan's theory is that she was not dead when she was placed in the sewer and probably died of strangulation and sewer gas. A charge of murder has been placed against Chorak.

Judge's Niece Gets Parental Blessing After Elopement

Parental forgiveness and the usual blessings were understood to have been extended last night to Mrs. Mary Trude Sills, daughter of Walter S. Trude, realty dealer, and her husband, William H. Sills, with whom she eloped to Crown Point Friday night. The bride is a niece of Judge Daniel P. Trude and lived with her parents at 5419 Hyde Park boulevard. Both she and Sills enrolled in classes at the University of Chicago on Friday. The only objection to the match, relatives explained, was the extreme youth of the couple.

2 ARE BOOKED AS BLACKMAIL BOMB PLOTTERS

Morris Bogoslowski and Charles Fried, who were arrested on Thursday after an alleged attempt to force several physicians to pay them blackmail, were booked yesterday on charges of bombing, conspiracy to extort and extortion. Several days ago a third member of their gang, Joseph Haddad, was charged with the same crimes and also with carrying a concealed weapon.

The trio were arrested by detectives in an office in the Temple building. They had gone there, according to the police, to receive a blackmail payment of $2,000 from Dr. Elmer D. Howe, 6701 Greenview avenue. Dr. Howe's attorney, Cameron Latter, informed the police of their plot. The doctor's home has been twice bombed recently.

MOVE MILLIONS IN LOOP AS 2 BANKS MERGE

Union Is Joined with the Bank of Commerce.

In the Sabbath desertion of the loop yesterday afternoon more than $12,000,000 in assets was transferred from the Union Bank of Chicago, 25 North Dearborn street, to the Chicago Bank of Commerce, 7 South Dearborn street. The combined banks are to conduct business under the name of the Chicago Bank of Commerce beginning this morning.

The transfer was effected without an untoward incident. Officials of the banks requested a police detail shortly after the merger was announced at midnight. Chief of Detectives John Norton and Deputy Chief Lawrence Rafferty headed a detail of fifteen men.

Police Guard Assets.

No effort was made to block traffic because of the quiet of the loop. Express trucks guarded by police and private detectives made the short journey. Clerks worked late into the night transferring records, so that business will function smoothly today.

Negotiations toward merger had been in progress several months. Directors of both institutions met throughout Saturday. An agreement was reached at midnight. Directors of the Union bank will join the board of the Bank of Commerce today and the officers and staff of the former institution will be on hand in the new bank to greet customers.

Union Bank 26 Years Old.

The Union bank was 26 years old and had absorbed the Guardian National bank at 105 South Dearborn street a year ago. The Bank of Commerce opened April 12, 1930. It absorbed the Old Dearborn State bank last March. Henry S. Henschen is president of the Bank of Commerce and Edward A. Schroeder is cashier. Daniel V. Harkin was president of the Union bank and Le Roy H. Tolzien cashier.

The total resources of the Bank of Commerce, as of June 30, were $7,714,004, and those of the Union bank $12,185,059. Deposits of the Bank of Commerce were $5,004,225, and of the Union bank $7,447,692. The capital stock of the Bank of Commerce was $1,500,000, surplus $750,000 and undivided profits $59,000. The capital stock of the Union bank was $1,300,000, surplus $1,000,000 and undivided profits of $308,000.

JERSEY SENATORS LEAD MOVEMENT FOR 4 PER CENT BEER

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—United States Senators Dwight W. Morrow and Hamilton F. Kean and all of the Republican members of congress for New Jersey will meet in Newark tomorrow at the invitation of Representative Isaac Bacharach of this city, and leaders here believe a proposal for the legalization of 4 per cent beer will be drafted to be submitted to President Hoover and national leaders. Mr. Bacharach, who is ranking member of the ways and means committee, admitted calling the conference, but refused to affirm reports of its purpose.

"Wait until the meeting and you will have a good story," was all he would say.

Local leaders closely associated with him are confident, however, that a beer plank will be adopted and that a bill may be drafted for consideration at the next session of congress.

It is known that during the Moose convention here last montht Mr. Bacharach, Vice President Charles Curtis, and Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania conferred as to the popularity of 4 per cent beer as a campaign issue.

GERMANS AGREE TO TEAM WITH PARIS ON TRADE

Berlin Gives Frenchmen Great Welcome.

that only a "close cooperation between France and Germany will stabilize the peace which Europe needs to be able to carry on trade with the new world."

The chancellor implored his countrymen and Laval and Briand not to let the "memory of the past erect obstacles to Franco-German cooperation."

Cries of "Vive la Paix," and shouts of "hoch," mingled with waving of hats, punctuated the arrival of Laval and Briand in Berlin. They were received formally by Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius. All wore top hats and black coats.

Great Military Display.

In the railway station a girl in white presented flowers to the visitors, while outside, the streets were lined by nearly as many police and soldiers as there were spectators.

Never since the days when the czar of Russia called on the kaiser has there been such a display of police and military forces. The streets about the railway station were roped off. But this extraordinary precaution to guard the Frenchmen from harm did not prevent the crowd from giving vent to their enthusiasm. Most of the cheers were for Briand, who gaily waved his hat in acknowledgment.

Even the streets from the station to the Hotel Adlon where the visitors are staying were lined with soldiers and police as the automobile carrying the visitors whizzed by. At the hotel the crowds raised such a din that both Laval and Briand were forced to step to a balcony to acknowledge the cheers.

Tells Purpose of Visit.

Then, the French premier revealed the purpose of the visit to Berlin in the following statement:

"Our visit is to be an important date in the history of Franco-German relations. To revive confidence and restore faith and sincere collaboration is indispensable. Even if perhaps we cannot as yet indulge in an ambition to eliminate all misunderstandings still separating our nations, if today we must have prudence and not touch certain delicate problems, at least we have the will to investigate all possible solutions for swiftly preparing a better future for our mutual relations.

"In the economic field we can immediately proceed to action. We shall act. Solicitous to guard the interest of my country, I shall endeavor to combine this duty with a realization of effective international solidarity. Conferences in Paris and London will have been a felicitous prelude to discussions which now must take a concrete turn. I have proposed a method to the German government. Together we mean to form an instrument in the shape of a Franco-German committee which is to make possible examination of all economic questions of interest to both of our countries.

"World Watching Us."

"Our immediate task may be modest in appearance, but if we accomplish it, if we get practical results, we shall have rendered the best service to the cause of rapprochement. Working in the realm of reality, we shall progress with greater certainty on the path to the ideal of harmony and understanding which shall be common to us both.

"I come to Germany as the head of the French government. I come with Aristide Briand, good worker in the cause of peace. Our encounter in Berlin with the chancellor and foreign minister of the German people takes on a stirring character. The world is restless; unprecedented economic crisis has fallen on it; eyes are on us. Our understanding must come about at last, for that foremost will bring us welfare."

Foreign Minister Briand found time during the day's events to visit the grave of his old friend and opponent, Gustav Stresemann, Germany's late foreign minister. There he placed a wreath of chrysanthemums.

The French statesmen lunched at noon with Foreign Minister Curtius and tonight were dinner guests of Chancellor Bruening.

Welcome Pleases French.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The reaction of the French press to the reception of the French government chiefs on the first day of their Berlin visit tonight consisted of a struggle between Gallic emotionalism provoked by the size and warmth of the welcome on the one hand and a fundamental Gallic realism which is determined to yield the Germans nothing without exacting the utmost possible.

Newspapers printed sentimental details of the visit, such as of workmen rushing from their beds to wave handkerchiefs out of windows in the chill morning as the ministerial train slid through the industrial suburbs of Berlin. At the same time editorials almost unanimously followed the example of the semi-official Le Temps and gave warning that little or nothing must be expected from the conference except good will.

GOLD ACTION IN SCANDINAVIA FAILS TO STIR U. S.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Bankers here said tonight they expected the effect of the suspension of the gold standard in Sweden and Norway to be negligible as far as Wall street is concerned, since neither country had any appreciable balance here.

It had been rumored here for several days that several of the countries whose finances were tied up in London, particularly Sweden, might follow the London example in temporarily suspending the gold standard. Swedish finances are linked closely with those of London, where Sweden maintains large balances. Sweden last week raised its discount rate to 6 per cent to conform with the rate at London.

Norway and Denmark, as well as Sweden, do most of their international business with London. A meeting of the Danish cabinet has been called for tomorrow morning and it is believed that Denmark might follow the steps of its northern neighbors. Among other countries which Wall street feared might go off the gold standard was Japan.

Suspension of the gold standard is expected to cause further declines in Scandinavian currencies in the exchange markets, although it will probably serve as an impetus to exports of goods from Sweden and Norway, whose buying power, however, will be curtailed due to the lessened value of the currency.

2 ARE KILLED, PILOT INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

Ship Nearly Plunges Into Stream of Traffic.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Sept. 27. [Special.]—Two passengers were instantly killed and their pilot critically injured late this afternoon when a plane dropped off into a spin while attempting a landing here. The plane crashed nose down by the side of Stewart avenue, which separates the field from Mitchel field, and narrowly missed a long stream of Sunday traffic. At least 7,500 visitors to the air ports witnessed the accident.

Of the two passengers, one was about 22 years old and unidentified. The other was Frank Dehl, Jr., of Flushing, Queens. The pilot, Stanley C. Bateman, also of Flushing, was taken to Nassau hospital in Mineola where he had not recovered consciousness up to a late hour. He was granted a private pilot's license only six weeks ago.

Circles to Try Again.

According to witnesses at the field, Bateman tried to land the Waco biplane on the field, but it bobbled. He was about to touch and he then took off for another circle and a new try. As he came around the south side of the field running before a strong wind, he tried to glide to a landing. A sudden gust of wind reduced the plane's speed, and it dropped off on a stall on its right wing and gained momentum rapidly in its spin earthward. After three flashing turns it crashed almost vertically. It was completely demolished.

Lieut. George Johnston of Mitchel field was near-by and rushed to the scene to find the switch still on and the fuel pouring from the burst tank. He quickly shut the switch and with the aid of Privates John Hood and Joseph Lohman extricated the two men from the wreckage.

Three in Plane Killed.

Fonda, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Three men were killed early tonight as their airplane crashed on a hill near the emergency landing field four miles northwest of here. The dead: Jose William Ellis Jr., 24, of Buffalo, brother of Dr. Samuel S. Ellis, Buffalo, brother-in-law and Dr. R. Bartow Read, pilot and owner of the plane; New York City.

The ship struck the ground with great force and bounded along about 50 feet before splintering into a heap of wreckage against a stone wall.

The two passengers were hurled about 100 feet. Read's body was found in the wreckage. Identification of Dr. Ellis was made through a Psi Upsilon Kappa key, Harvard, '23.

DOOLITTLE SEEKS MORE SPEED FOR 'FASTEST PLANE'

Maj. James H. Doolittle, who won the $10,000 Bendix prizes and set a coast to coast air record of 11¼ hours on a dash from Los Angeles to New York three weeks ago, landed his small Laird 400 racer at Ashburn airport, 55d street and Cicero avenue, yesterday afternoon. E. M. [Matty] Laird, builder of the plane, whose factory adjoins the airport, will devote the next ten days to streamlining the racer so that it can attain even higher speeds. This is Doolittle's first visit to Chicago since he left to take part in the transcontinental race.

Maj. Doolittle flew from Indianapolis to Chicago, a distance of 186 air miles, in 46 minutes, or at an average speed of about 216 miles an hour. Asked if his speed had broken the record for flight between the two cities, he said he did not know whether there was an existing record or what it was, but that wherever he flew the green and orange plane it had shattered all previous speeds.

Aims at World Record.

Maj. Doolittle refused to disclose all his plans for future record breaking efforts, but he reiterated that his plane is the fastest ever built for long distance speeds. He said he would attempt to break the world's record for speed in land planes, which is 278 miles an hour. "If Matty can make the ship fast enough."

Thirty minutes after he had landed Jimmy Haizlip, his assistant and also a well known racing pilot, landed at Ashburn field in the Lockhead Vega owned by the Shell Petroleum corporation, for whom Maj. Doolittle is director of aviation. They had taken off together at Indianapolis but Maj. Doolittle left the Lockhead, the fastest transport plane, far behind.

Flies to Racine Air Show.

A few minutes after the Lockheed landed Maj. Doolittle and a party of friends stepped in and the plane took off for Racine, where an air show was being held.

Since leaving Chicago a month ago for los Angeles to start in the transcontinental race, Maj. Doolittle has flown his racer to New York, back to Cleveland, then to Hartford, Conn., at an average speed of 255 miles an hour, the fastest he has averaged, back to New York, to Cincinnati, Memphis, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Chicago.

The racer is powered by a supercharged Wasp Jr. motor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 27. An organization, "Saor Eire" [Irish Freedom], which the Irish press calls bolshevik, met at Dublin today to discuss its future policy. The founder is Sean McBride, son of Maj. John McBride, whom the British executed after the 1916 rebellion. His mother, well known in America, is Maud Gonne, known as the "Irish Joan of Arc."

Basing its aims on the proclamation of the republic issued by leaders of the 1916 rebellion, "Saor Eire" hopes to organize the small farmers and industrial workers of all Ireland to achieve its object, which includes the ousting of British imperialism and Irish capitalism, and the consolidation of the republic of Ireland on a basis of possession of land, instruments of production, and exchange.

The organization has extended its sympathy to the Indian peasantry in its struggle for freedom, to the oppressed Chinese, the Cuba, the Philippines, and to the "Negro people oppressed by American imperialism." A large number of detectives watched the meeting but did not interfere.

AKRON CRUISES FOR NEARLY FOUR HOURS IN FOG AND RAIN

Akron, O., Sept. 28.—[1 A. M.]—(AP)—The navy airship Akron was moored to her mast at 12:10 a. m., eastern standard time, today after cruising through a fog and drizzling rain for three hours and 40 minutes in its third test flight. The landing was delayed about an hour and a half because the huge portable mooring mast became stuck in the mud outside the dock.

Shot, Goes to Hotel in Loop and Calls Doctor

A man giving his name as Ernest L. Bevington, 8 South Sinclair road, Toledo, O., registered at the Morrison hotel early this morning, and a few minutes later called for a physician. He was found to be suffering from a bullet wound several hours old, which, he said, he received when he fled from a Negro who tried to hold him up at Wabash avenue and Roosevelt road. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where he refused to talk. Police are investigating his story.

FIND PRISONERS SELECTING OWN TRIAL JUDGES

Change of Venue Sytsem Under Scrutiny.

A study of the "change of venue" system now in vogue in the Cook county Criminal courts is expected to be made by the Chicago Crime commission as a result of statistics which show that a number of defendants, especially those with some semblance of pull or political power, virtually select their trial judges.

The commission report, made public yesterday, shows that during the last year two judges made records which caused those charged with crime desirous of being tried in other court rooms to take changes of venue. Judge Philip Finnegan had more changes of venue taken from his court during the year of 1930-'31 than any other judge on the Criminal bench.

Finnegan Makes Reputation.

Judge Finnegan made a reputation of giving the defendant just what he was allowed by the law and no more, according to the crime commission records. The prosecution was given the same consideration. The commission says that before long the report spread through the jail that a defendant could not expect more than an even break in Judge Finnegan's court. Soon an unusual number of change of venue petitions were filed before the judge asking that cases be transferred to other courts.

Judge John Prystalski is another judge from whose court defendants frequently take changes of venue. During the regime of Maclay Hoyne as state's attorney, Prystalski and James C. O'Brien, two assistant prosecutors who worked together, made a record for sending murderers to the gallows.

The Case of Serritella.

The most recent case of change of venue was that of State Senator Daniel Serritella, Capone lieutenant. Serritella, who was city sealer under the former administration, and his former chief deputy, Harry Hochstein, are under indictment for conspiracy to defraud the public by sanctioning short weight sales by merchants while they were in control of the sealer's office.

The case was assigned to Judge Prystalski as a result of a change of venue taken by Serritella from Judge Finnegan before the summer vacation period. When the case was called before Judge Prystalski after the fall term of court opened this month, the state demanded an early trial. Judge Prystalski ruled that the defense had had plenty of time to prepare and ordered an early trial.

This was not satisfactory to Serritella and he was ultimately allowed a change of venue when he said in open court that he did not feel he could get a fair trial before Judge Prystalski.

"The state is entitled to some right," said Assistant State's Attorney Harold M. Keele, the prosecutor in the Serritella case, yesterday. "It seems that the defendant is always looking for the best of it and under existing laws he usually manages to get a little edge, one way or another."

Mr. Keele said the laws should be changed so that a defendant cannot take a change of venue to jockey for more time before he is tried, or because he fears that the judge will interpret the law strictly for him as well as for the prosecution.

Under the present system all that is necessary is for the defendant to file a petition saying he believes the judge to be prejudiced and for a similar affidavit to be filed by his lawyer or some citizen. It is not necessary now, Mr. Keele said, to show that the citizen or defendant filing the affidavit has any ground for the belief he states.

HUNT ABROAD FOR SWIGART HEIRS ENDS IN FAILURE

The two month hunt through Germany for an heir to the $350,000 estate of the late Charles F. Swigart, former alderman of the old 14th ward, is ended, according to a Paris dispatch. George L. Reker and Thomas A. Walpole, both attorneys, are returning to Chicago without having found any one they believe entitled to a share of the estate.

Reker and Walpole made their headquarters at Baden-Baden while hunting for rightful heirs. They searched records as far back as 1715, and were stormed by scores of claimants, but their mission proved futile. Suits now are pending here in the Superior and Probate courts in behalf of 31 cousins of the former alderman, who are seeking to share in the estate.

Swigart, whose family name in Germany was Schwigart, came to Chicago at an early age and built up a profitable express business during the civil war. He served in the council from 1892 to 1894, and then entered the real estate business. He died in 1917, and in 1928 the State Supreme court awarded the estate to an incompetent sister, Miss Emma Swigart. The sister died last spring and the battle over the estate was reopened.

AIMS TO COLLECT FOR STATE ON OLD FORFEITED BONDS

$1,000,000 Outstanding, Prosecutor Says.

Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, who is in charge of the bond department of the state's attorney's office, announced yesterday that he is starting a campaign to recover some money on the 1,000 or more bonds, totaling over $1,000,000, which were forfeited during the period of 1910 to 1924. The prosecutor has made a complete list of these bonds in which no settlements were made with the state.

A. C. DE WITT.

"Under previous administrations no vigorous effort was made to collect on many of the forfeited bonds," said Prosecutor De Witt. "We realize that we are going to have a hard time collecting on most of these bonds, but we are going to attempt some salvage for the county treasury."

OFFERS PLAN TO KEEP RUM ISSUE OUT OF 1932 RAC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Dr. Mal.]—Samuel B. Pettengill of So Bend, Ind., the first advocate of prohibition repeal to be elected from Indiana, came out today with a do barreled scheme for submission of repealer to the people without in ging the issue into the presidential tion next year.

He would have congress pass a winter a resolution for repeal Amendment of the 18th amendm with a provision that it should submitted to state conventions ch after Jan. 1, 1933.

Issue Must Be Decided.

"Bread is more important than and jobs than gin," said Congress Pettengill. "Nevertheless, gra its relative position to other nomic questions—wheat, cotton, etc.—the fact remains that prohi is bound to get into the 1932 camp It is the one question upon which people are ready to vote. Upon nomic questions the public mi unsettled. Upon prohibition Congress, either for or against. Th ing so, it is certain to enter int dismiss the mandate of next message.

"In a campaign of economic madness of the importance of prohibition prohibition is bound to be because from the standpoint taxation, cost of government, crime, etc., it is also an economic question. With the continued in of the public in this problem as a by the recent action of the Amer Federation of Labor, war veterans' pensions, etc., it is futile to a truce of silence upon it. It is to be disposed of, both for its sake and also in order that things can be disposed of.

How Plan Would Work.

"The suggestion is: That co this coming winter adopt a reso for the repeal or amendment 18th amendment; that the reso provide that it be submitted fo election or rejection by conventi the several states called for th purpose of passing upon this question and further that the reso tion provide that such conventi chosen after Jan. 1, 1933.

Congress Would Permit State Tests in 1933.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Samuel B. Pettengill of South Bend, Ind., the first advocate of prohibition repeal to be elected from Indiana, came out today with a double barreled scheme for submission of a question to the people without injecting the issue into the presidential election next year.

He would have congress pass this winter a resolution for repeal or amendment of the 18th amendment, with a provision that it should be submitted to state conventions chosen after Jan. 1, 1933.

Issue Must Be Decided.

"Bread is more important than beer and jobs than gin," said Congressman Pettengill. "Nevertheless, granting its relative position to other 'economic' questions—wheat, cotton, jobs, etc.—the fact remains that prohibition is bound to get into the 1932 campaign. It is the one question upon which the people are ready to vote. Upon 'economic' questions the public mind is unsettled. Upon prohibition it is not so. It is certain to enter into and control the mandate of next year's campaign.

"In a campaign of economics recognition of the importance of other questions prohibition is bound to enter because from the standpoint of taxation, cost of government, cost of crime, etc., it is also an economic question. With the continued interest of the public in this problem as shown by the recent action of the American Federation of Labor, war veterans' organizations, etc., it is futile to expect a truce of silence upon it. It ought to be disposed of, both for its own sake and also in order that other issues can be disposed of.

How Plan Would Work.

"The suggestion is: That congress this coming winter adopt a resolution for the repeal or amendment of the 18th amendment; that the resolution provide that it be submitted for ratification or rejection by conventions in the several states called for the sole purpose of passing upon this single question and further that the resolution provide that such conventions be chosen after Jan. 1, 1933.

"What would be the result? The prohibition question will have been taken out of next year's campaign. It will have been pending before the American people, awaiting their decision. Instead of continuing to dodge the issue, they will be meeting it in the method prescribed by the constitution and at a time when it can be decided upon its merits. Neither party, nor any candidate for federal, state or local office next year need declare himself upon the prohibition question."

GANDHI LINES UP BRITISH COTTON MEN ON HIS SIDE

Drives Slick Bargain on Visit to Lancashire.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANCHESTER, Sept. 27.—Having driven a slick bargain with bankrupt Lancashire cotton interests, which have secretly agreed to support his political demands in return for a preferential tariff on their goods if India obtains self-government, Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, ended his whirlwind tour of the north and departed at midnight for London.

While highly pleased with the results of his Lancashire conversations, Gandhi is worried about his chances of doing any business with Great Britain while the nation's statesmen are occupied with a general election.

Threatens to Go Home.

"If British statesmen want to postpone their decision about India on account of the general election then I am going home," Gandhi said today. "It would be most inconvenient to wait here during an election and mark time. We have been already here two weeks and have not made any progress. Of course, if the British think that a settlement of the Indian problem is unnecessary now there is no use remaining. It is up to English statesmen to decide that."

The mahatma spent last night at Hey's farm, near West Bradford. He said he got his first real sleep since his arrival in England. He spent all day conferring with cotton manufacturers and workers. He did not conceal the fact that his week-end trip had been more successful than beyond his fondest dream. The cotton magnates and union officials seemed pleased too.

In their presence the "holy man" informed interviewers he had agreed that if India should be granted self-government, he would propose to prohibit by a tariff the importation of all foreign cloth except Lancashire's. And leading cotton industrialists said Lancashire would urge its members in parliament to back Gandhi's political demands.

Lines Up Cotton Industry.

"You see," Gandhi explained, "it would just be a case of friendly business relations between two equal partners."

Gandhi was thinking politically and the cotton men of the new business that an independent India would bring.

"We would not like to discriminate against Japan, the United States or Europe, but naturally two happy equal partners like India and Great Britain could not be blamed for making an arrangement to their mutual interests," Gandhi said.

The Manchester manufacturers puffed at their cigars obviously contented. Gandhi grinned. Everybody was happy.

Magnates Eye Business.

"We do not care about the political aspect of the question so long as business is resumed, awakening Lancashire's cotton graveyard," said one of the big cotton manufacturers. "The workers would be happy, too. They estimate that if England could supply the cloth which is now being imported into India from Japan, China and continental Europe, it would mean that millions would be earning decent wages again.

Gandhi stated that he was amazed with the backwardness of Lancashire's industries.

"I am no mechanic," he said, "but I saw enough yesterday to show me that the English are using antiquated machinery which probably explains their inability to compete with other countries. The machinery in the Bombay and Ahmadabad mills are 100 per cent more efficient."

Kingsford-Smith Pauses to Pick Up Some Brandy

JHANSI, India, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who is en route from Australia to London hoping to set a new record time for the flight, landed here tonight from Calcutta, where he had stopped to obtain brandy because, he said, he had been suffering from fainting spells.

CHICAGO-BORN HOLY LAND CULT FIFTY YEARS OLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 27.—The 50th anniversary of the foundation of the American colony in Jerusalem by Horatio Spafford, Chicago lawyer, was celebrated yesterday.

The colony is a self-supporting religious community. It was first planned to build a 400 room house to accommodate 400 saints who would foregather to await the second advent, but this scheme was abandoned.

The departure of Attorney Horatio Spafford with his colonists for Palestine was recalled last night by Chicagoans. Bowman C. Lingle, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, said that some of his distant relatives went with the expedition. Some members of the colony, including daughters of Mr. Spafford, visited in Chicago a few years ago.

tinuity of work, and thus to maintain stability of employment."

Among the employers present were Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of United States Steel; E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation; Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors; Walter Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company; George Laughlin, chairman of the board of the Jones and Laughlin Steel company; E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel company; Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator company; Henry Ford, Walter Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey; Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company; Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison company; Pierre du Pont, chairman of the du Pont company.

The dispute over the pledge given the President turns on the interpretation of the phrase "during the present situation." Organized labor contends that when pledge was given in November, 1930, the country was entering upon a situation that still obtains. The employers hold that "the present situation" was viewed at the time as a temporary condition that would extend over only a few months at most.

Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.] who was secretary of labor at the time, is authority for the statement that there was a gentlemen's agreement reached at the White House conference that the understanding as to wages was for a fixed period, his impression being that the period was to be six months.

Gentlemen's Agreement.

Representatives of organized labor are said to have insisted that the agreement run for six months only, after which they would be at liberty to seek wage increases. Mr. Davis persuaded them to waive the stipulation in writing in consideration of a gentlemen's agreement.

Charges that the Hoover administration had abandoned its opposition to wage reductions were voiced by organized labor last summer when Representative Francis B. Condon [Dem., R. I.] made public a letter he had received from Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont in reply to a protest to the President that the White House agreement was being violated by certain Rhode Island manufacturing concerns. In responding for the President, Mr. Lamont said the government could not intervene.

"As the period of the depression lengthens," wrote Mr. Lamont, "many corporations which were not well protected by reserves accumulated in years of good business find themselves at the present time in extremely difficult positions. Many of them already have cut dividends and salaries. Some of them are faced with the prospect of closing down altogether and thus creating more unemployment or alternatively seeking temporary wage reductions."

JOB COMMITTEE NAMED BY HOOVER WILL MEET TODAY

Numerous Plans Expected at Session Here.

Numerous plans for improving employment conditions will be presented to the unemployment committee of President Hoover's relief organization when it meets in Chicago today. The committee is headed by Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker.

H. A. WHEELER. [Kaufman-Fabry Photo.]

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, a member of the committee, is expected to advance a proposal that the unemployed be pro-rated among various industries for absorption into the ranks of their workers. Extension of the five day week and the guarantee of minimum periods of employment are other projects scheduled for discussion.

Other Chicagoans on Group.

Besides Chairman Wheeler, Chicagoans on the committee are W. Rufus Abbott, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company; Edward N. Hurley, manufacturer and war time head of the United States Shipping board, and Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester company and former head of the federal farm board.

On the eve of the meeting the Illinois Manufacturers' association made public a report of its employment committee, drawn up after several months study, vigorously attacking unemployment insurance in which the state or national government is a participant. Such insurance, the report asserts, in reality amounts to the dole which has worked out so disastrously in England, Australia, Germany and other countries.

Cite Voluntary Programs.

In place of compulsory unemployment insurance, the report points to the voluntary, private efforts of a number of corporations in the United States, of which it says:

"As contrasted with the colossal failure of the British system, a number of employers in the United States are slowly but surely developing along orderly and scientific lines a system of real unemployment insurance."

Among the plans cited is that of the Procter and Gamble company, soap manufacturers, which guarantees its workers forty-eight weeks employment a year. If work is slack in one department, that company shifts the employés to another, or sets them to work on maintenance and repair work on the factory premises.

Agreements between trade unions and employers' associations in various trades, under which workers and employers contribute to an insurance fund, are another method described in the report.

Another plan discussed is that of the General Electric company, under which employés for whom the minimum number of weeks of work cannot be found receive 65 per cent of their weekly wage from a fund contributed to by the company and the employes.

WELFARE COMMITTEE WILL SEEK COUNTY CHARITY FUND TODAY

The county public welfare committee will meet today with a group of bankers and economists to discuss means of raising a fund of $10,000,000 which is the quota set for the county government for unemployment relief during the winter. The meeting was called by Miss Amelia Sears, county commissioner and chairman of the committee.

Several plans have been proposed, but none has met the approval of the committee which is seeking a program to place before the county board tomorrow.

Among the suggested methods was that of President Emmett Whealan of the county board. He is preparing a bill for the special session of the legislature under which half of the state gasoline tax would be utilized for state wide relief. In the bill Cook county is apportioned $8,500,000.

Other plans called for the diversion of a percentage of the highway taxes, a state income tax, and a state sales tax.

CUBA'S FAMOUS WOMAN COPPER DIES FROM DRUGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 27.—Nieves Gomes, the only policewoman in Cuba, and known for her detective ability throughout the island, died tonight after a two months' illness, a result of drug intoxication.

She had an outstanding record in the arrest of petty thieves, both men and women and was also prominent in several sensational criminal investigations. She had worked as a detective for the last 30 years, having commenced her police work two years after the establishment of the Cuban republic, Jan. 20, 1902.

Miss Gomez came from Spain when she was 16 years old and joined a vaudeville company but later she became a notorious thief. In 1901 she was persuaded by Mario Menocal, then president, and Havana's first chief of police, to abandon vice and robbery activities. He then made her a policewoman.

PUBLIC BUYING NATION'S NEED, GIFFORD AVERS

Chairman Gives Program to Aid Unemployment.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Consumer buying was the pilot recommended by Walter S. Gifford tonight to lead the nation from the untoward morass of depression.

"If the public buys neither goods nor work the public that is indirectly discharging now," the President's national relief director told the country in the first of a series of addresses on the white's relief problem.

W. S. GIFFORD.

He advocated a three point program of community planning to meet unemployment problems where they exist. It included:

1. Appointment of a state-wide committee of leading citizens by the governor.

2. Organization of an emergency committee in needy communities.

3. Determination by this committee of the probable unemployment load and the development of ways to meet it by providing employment or relief.

4. Reports to the state committees of plans of the local groups.

Gifford said the emergencies like the present one occur in this country as seldom "there is not and probably ought not to be permanent organization to cope with it." He described its condition as temporary and best met by voluntary mass efforts of the people.

Says Employers Aid.

"Employers have already to an extraordinary degree," he said, "spread employment available in their own plants among their workers. Many have gone the limit.

"A high percentage of those gainfully employed are working full time, either on full wages and salaries or with reductions no greater than the decrease in the cost of living. They constitute . . . a main source of work. They can . . . give work or buy things which give work in manufacture.

"Business can spread out its available work . . . but, broadly speaking, it can't give additional work unless the consumer buys its products. It is your depression and mine, and when and how we get out of it lies in each person's power to some degree."

Gifford said 6,000,000 was the estimate "most generally mentioned" for the number of unemployed. He explained the total of jobs cannot be measured accurately but that "each city, town, or county can know its own problem accurately enough for practical purposes."

The worst problems are in the large cities, he said, which "happily have the most accumulated wealth to meet the emergency."

"There is every indication that these great centers can and will take care of themselves," Gifford said.

AUTHOR'S SIX MONTHS IN RUSSIA DECIDES WHAT TO TELL BORAH

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Ellery Walter, young author, returned today after six months abroad—four of them in Russia and the other two in twelve countries extending from the Polish border of the soviet down to Constantinople—studying the developments of the third year of the five year plan.

He carried credentials from Senator William E. Borah to Stalin, for two months taught in a technical school in Moscow, and traveled 15,000 miles through Russia, Siberia, and Mongolia by train and airplane.

"I am going to tell Senator Borah," Mr. Walter said, "that it would be a mistake for the United States to recognize the soviet now. It would be wiser to wait at least another two years. The Russian people are truly unhappy. They do not know what they are doing.

"I counted thirteen trains each with 2,000 men, women, and children bound for Siberia—not criminal or political prisoners, but poor peasants who would not agree to having their land confiscated by the government."

URGES AMERICA TO SEE WARNING IN ENGLISH DOLE

Britisher Writes of Evils in System.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A scathing denunciation of the British dole system and a plea to America to "keep its head in the present situation" are voiced by Sir Ernest J. P. Benn, prominent English publisher and business man, in an article to appear in the next issue of Nation's Business, official organ of the United States chamber of commerce.

Sir Ernest attributes to "post-war madness" the dole and other uneconomic measures which he says have put England in the "worst political fog in its history."

Outlines Development of Dole.

Three political parties in England, Sir Ernest asserts, are dependent upon the continuance of unemployment and an "enormous and powerful bureaucracy grows and fattens upon it." England is spending six hundred millions a year on unemployment alone, he says.

A complete understanding of the problem confronting England at present, according to Sir Ernest, involves going back to 1909, "when we had just adopted old age pensions and destroyed the foundations of thrift."

"In 1909," the article continues, "we established labor exchanges. In 1911 unemployment insurance was first introduced. We had accepted the idiotic idea that it was the duty of the state to find us work. The speeches of the politicians at that time told us that unemployment which was then less than 3 per cent was to be wiped out, poor relief was to disappear, rates were to pass into history and we were to enjoy the rest of our lives in a well ordered, properly organized, scientifically planned state. This was the beginning of the 'planning idea,' now so popular.

Bureaucracy Steps In.

"But we reckoned without the bureaucratic bug," he continues. "No sooner had we provided a few thousand clerks with jobs on schemes devised by professors and experts than we discovered their futility and were driven to adopt insurance against the very thing which they were already paid to prevent. The history of the ministry of labor should be a warning to America. It is now an enormous institution spending more money than Gladstone ever spent on the whole of the government of the empire and repesents today a huge vested interest whose life depends upon the absence of the thing it was invented to provide."

"It is a great mistake to worry about the much discussed abuses of the system. It is the system itself which is fundamentally wrong, and abuse is inseparable from it."

NEW YORK TENEMENT FIRE TOLL FOUR DEAD; SIX OTHERS MAY DIE

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With the death in Bellevue hospital today of Pauline Eliakin, 10 years old, the list of fatalities resulting from the fire which had swept a 7 story tenement in Avenue C in the early morning hours rose to four. Six persons were still in a serious condition in Bellevue, while 26 families were homeless and in most cases destitute as a result of the blaze.

Launch 'No 1932 Tobacco' Movement in Kentucky

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 27.—(AP)—About 300 Harrison county tobacco growers launched a movement here today for a "No 1932 tobacco" plan.

CRIPPLE IS NEAR DEATH AS STILL EXPLODES, BURNS

Raymond Bruening, 38 years old, a paralytic, was burned so seriously that he may die, and his mother, Mrs. Emma Benzin, 56 years old, received minor burns in an attempt to rescue him last night when a still exploded in the basement of their home at 3252 Roscoe street.

Bruening and his mother were carried from the burning building by firemen. They also rescued his stepfather, William Benzin, who is also a cripple. Bruening and Mrs. Benzin were taken to the Martha Washington hospital.

"We made moonshine because it was the only means we had of making a living," Benzin told police who questioned him about the still.

Directors Vote to Close Bank in San Antonio

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 28 [Monday].—(AP)—Directors of the City Central Bank and Trust company announced last night that the bank's affairs had been placed in the hands of James Shaw, Texas commissioner of banking, and that the bank will not open today, pending readjustment of its affairs. The July statement of the bank showed resources exceeding $16,000,000 and deposits of nearly $11,000,000.

IN CELL 23 YEARS FOR ANOTHER'S CRIME; HE'S FREED

Chester, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Freed by the deathbed confession of another, Jesse Lucas left Menard prison today after serving 23 years for a murder he always insisted he did not commit.

Mayor T. B. Wright of Mount Carmel, Ill., met him at the prison gates and took him back to his home town.

A deathbed confession by George R. Pond, a farmer who lived near Decker, Ind., that he killed Clyde Showalter, a young stock buyer, 24 years ago, gave Lucas his freedom.

What officials now have decided was a miscarriage of justice almost caused Lucas' widowed mother to end her days in prison. Mrs. Lucas, who died three years ago, was indicted with her son and both were found guilty of the murder of Showalter, whose body was found floating in the Patoka river 26 years ago. A new trial, however, was obtained for Mrs. Lucas and she was freed.

OPEN TONIGHT

IN FACT, when we recently sent out a questionnaire to the thousands of women who trade here, asking what it was that first led them to this Largest of Furniture Stores, the overwhelming reply was that "My Friend Told Me to Come." . . . We thought it might be our reputation of 64 Years of Good Furniture at Low Prices, our Fame for the Widest Varieties, our policy of Truth in Advertising, or some of our Unusual Services, such as Smyth-made Upholstery, not to be had elsewhere—but that was not the case. The main recommendation was by word of mouth from a satisfied friend.

A GOOD Name is the foundation of reputation. It is the Name of the Store with which you deal that puts in that extra quota of Full Value which you can't see at the moment of purchase. Especially is this your safety guaranty in furniture. The looks can only go so far as style and individual appeal are concerned. The wear, durability, the inside worth depend upon the Name of the Store that sells it.

BARGAINS.

Watching the stock market gyrations can easily become an obsession. To the victims of this obsession a movement of a couple of points one way or another becomes an event and a swing of five or ten points, such as occurred in some securities on Thursday and Friday, assumes world shaking significance.

This is a curious phenomenon. Probably if the truth were known it would be discovered that the greater part of the stocks and bonds owned on Sept. 20, 1930, were held by the same owners on Sept. 28, 1931. A relatively small proportion of the securities meanwhile have traveled about from owner to owner at quotations which have dropped gradually over the year. In large part, those who have bought and sold these floating securities have been persons whose judgment in business or anything else is not given great weight by their contemporaries. Some of them, to be sure, are shrewd almost to the point of clairvoyance in forecasting market trends, but many more of them are gamblers pure and simple, operating on a shoestring and possessed of shoestring minds. A look into the customers' room of any good sized brokerage will confirm this impression.

The stock market, most of the time, can be characterized as a nit-wit's show. It is so today not only because of the kind of people who are trading in and out of it but more especially because of the prices at which they are valuing securities. This is not the place in which to deal with current quotations in detail, but in general it is obvious that prices are at bargain levels. Companies which are earning their dividends and whose dividends yield a fair return and frequently much more on the buying price of the securities are regarded as having a future overcast with gloom.

This might be a reasonable attitude to take by any one who believed that the nation's economic machine was rapidly disintegrating and that its greatest and strongest industries were therefore doomed. Not many people think that way. If they did, we would have scenes of panic hereabouts which would be recorded in the history books from now on.

There is much disagreement on what has caused the depression and at least as much disagreement on what will cure it, but few men of judgment think it incurable. That being so, it is worth while to observe that the cost of replacing a great many of our industrial plants is considerably above the total value of their securities. When recovery comes, the price of replacement will be still higher. In addition, these industrial plants are being run by men of proved competence and the depression has led to the introduction of economies in operation which promise substantially increased profits as soon as conditions improve.

Of course, if everything is going to the dogs, all these considerations are without meaning. If a recovery is coming, however, an investment today in an essential industry is going to prove extremely profitable in years to come. It cannot be otherwise. A lot of people five or ten years hence are going to wonder where their brains and courage were in the autumn of 1931 when Steel was selling below 50 and New York Central in the lower 60s. A lot of people are wondering today why their grandfathers didn't hang on to the old homestead in what is now the loop.

The nit-wits may drive stocks lower, though many of the stocks are bargains today. And if the stocks are bargains, the bonds are even more advantageously priced. It is not a market in which to operate on a narrow margin of equity, but it is the most favorable market for investment that this country has known in a generation.

THE UBIQUITOUS UNCLE SAM.

An Iowa farmer who submits to the inspection of his herd and has his cows condemned is indemnified in an amount at least two-thirds of the appraised value of the animals. If the carcass can be used for meat, under government inspection, the price is additional salvage for the herd owner, deducted, however, from the total before reparation. Otherwise he takes a third of the loss, the state pays him a third and the United States pays the balance. Good old Uncle Sam, the good and soft egg. A farmer has a sick cow appraised at $150, if well, and it costs the American government at Washington, if there is no salvage, $50. If there is a most value in the sick cow that saves a few dollars for the federal treasury.

An urban dweller has some sick stock and all he expects is a visit from an internal revenue inspector to discover how he got that way in his income tax schedule. It is safer to be truly rural. Urban disasters are a man's own fault, but anything that happens in the barnyard is a charge on the federal budget.

That a state should recognize a public responsibility in protecting the milk supply and be willing to assume some of the loss in destroying infected cattle may be sound policy. The people of the state can control the expenditures. One state can protect itself against another by embargoes. It is typical of American folly that the United States should have any part in the matter. If it is to pay out its money when a farmer submits to the law it is justified in sending in its troops to make him submit when he resists. If it matches one Iowa dollar with a federal dollar it can match an Iowa bayonet with a federal bayonet.

The states will keep on unloading their responsibilities on Washington until some day one will find a brigade of federal troops taking possession of its statehouse.

FOR THE CITY'S CHILDREN.

Recent efforts to establish new tag days have not been without success and the public will have to exercise discrimination if authorized tag days are not to suffer from unfair competition. The multiplication of tag days became a nuisance some years ago and the city council wisely restricted them for the protection of the public from rackets in the guise of charity, allowing only three or four days in the year to be devoted to charitable institutions approved by the Association of Commerce as honestly and efficiently run. Thus contributors could be assured that their money would not get into the pockets of grafters or be wasted by incompetent if well intentioned organizations. Tag days for useful charities are justified as giving an opportunity for people of small means to make contributions conveniently, but their benefits would be greatly reduced and offset if there were too many of them and if any organization with a little political pull could go out on the streets for what they could pick up. The returns for legitimate tag days are a substantial aid to worthy charities, and they should be strictly safeguarded for their sake and for the protection of the public.

One of these authorized tag days comes on Oct. 5. It will be devoted to the Children's Benefit league, which represents 50 children's charities, all indorsed by the Association of Commerce. These charities are doing useful work and represent disinterested and competent service. This tag day was the first established in Chicago, and the league announces that in the 22 years of its existence there has never been so great need for generous contribution as in this time of depression. All our charities are under special pressure and the league hopes for and we trust will have a liberal response. The public may be sure that its money is greatly needed and will be well employed by the fifty indorsed charities which the league represents.

HOODLUMISM AGAINST THE CHINESE.

Members of the Chinese colony in Chicago complain that hardly a day passes in which "Chinese are not insulted, jostled, struck, beaten, and brutally attacked by hoodlums." Offenses against them range from petty vandalism to extortion and murder. The Chinese Consolidated Benevolent association, representing business, religious and family organizations, has appealed to the mayor, state's attorney, and Association of Commerce for relief and should have it promptly. There are 6,000 in the Chinese colony and they are an orderly and generally law abiding community which this community owes it to itself to respect and protect. That they should be made special victims of hoodlumism and the low race prejudice which covers its lawlessness is intolerable to the city's self-respect as a civilized community. The Chinese are far from home and belong to a nation disordered and in great tribulation. It cannot bring the pressure stronger governments can bring upon ours for justice to its nationals. It should therefore be a point of honor for America to protect the Chinese within our gates from persecution and Chicago authorities should lose no time in stamping out the offenses of which the colony complains.

THE EXTERMINATION OF ILLINOIS PHEASANTS.

The slip in the game laws which has been construed to leave hen pheasants outside protection might easily result in the extermination of this bird in Illinois after it has been successfully planted in the state. Sportsmen will not take advantage of the mistake, but meat hunters will slaughter the hens and seem to be doing so. Times are critical for many of the game birds. Water fowl have been severely hit by drought in their breeding places and, although the hunting season has been shortened by executive act, conservationists ask the hunters to be even more considerate and pass the season by entirely. The Illinois pheasants are even more completely at the mercy of the man with a gun. Evidently the law cannot directly aid them, but it can do so indirectly.

The meat hunters are liable to arrest for trespass when they go on land to get the birds, and property owners by forbidding shooting can reduce the slaughter. Sheriffs and county law officials can help by acting quickly upon complaint and by aiding the farmers and other owners in keeping the killers off the land. Prosecution for trespass can be made almost as costly and inconvenient to hen pheasant shooters as prosecution under game laws. This appears to be virtually the only remedy for the unexpected evil, and if the pheasants are to be preserved it must be applied.

Editorial of the Day

HARNESSING A STAR.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

About the time of Chicago's first world's fair, the Columbian exposition, a ray of light started on its journey through space from the star Arcturus, 240 trillion miles from the earth. Forty years later this light will arrive at the earth, be focused through the lenses of the forty inch telescope of the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis. The light will fall on a photo-electric cell and the effect of the impact will be amplified, sending an impulse over the wires to the exposition grounds to throw on the switches for illumination inaugurating the 1933 Chicago exposition.

Nothing could more strikingly demonstrate human progress in the past four decades. It will be the first time in history that man has harnessed energy from beyond our solar system to perform a task on the earth. Forty years ago, even ten years ago, such a demonstration would have been considered impossible. The theme of the exposition—"a century of progress"—is vividly carried out by this device. What another century may bring is beyond human imagination today.

CARE OF THE DIABETIC.

JOSLIN estimates that there are one million people in the United States who have diabetes. This is nearly 1 per cent of the entire population, including those who are too young to have the disease. Of these, more than a quarter of a million either have or are due to have gangrene of the feet. Of these, thirty thousand will lose their lives from diabetic gangrene unless they take better care of themselves and are given better surgical care than now prevails. So much by way of proof that the subject is of importance.

The disease has four levels, on all of which there is room for improvement. Many otherwise doomed to diabetes could spare themselves by habitually eating less. The foods which should be especially limited are those which contain sugar or starch. Of these, sugar is most harmful.

Of those who have diabetes, a large proportion take poor care of themselves.

At the next level, diabetics can prevent gangrene of the feet in most instances. The presence of excess sugar in the blood is quite harmful to the blood vessels in which it is contained. Therefore, every person who has had diabetes for any considerable time, or who has neglected himself, can be certain that his blood vessels are in poor condition.

He is liable to have one break in his brain, causing apoplexy. If he neglects his feet and legs he is quite likely to develop gangrene. Most of this danger can be avoided by washing the feet daily, by extra caution in trimming the nails and cutting corns and calluses, and by protecting the skin against blistering and rubbing. Care should be exercised against freezing or even severely chilling the feet.

If gangrene should unfortunately develop, there is still a chance to escape serious consequences. It is generally agreed that radical surgery in gangrene of the feet due to diabetes, and also that due to frostbite, Raynaud's disease, and Buerger's disease, is wrong. It is very much better to do no surgery at all, unless it is especially indicated and, even then, to trim rather than to amputate.

Dr. Samuel Barbash says the use of diathermy, is of service in gangrene of the feet and legs in diabetes. Using it will limit the amount of tissue lost, and will greatly decrease the need of amputations. Others think the use of hot water will serve somewhat the same purpose. This applies to the gangrene of frozen feet, Raynaud's, and Buerger's diseases as well.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA.

T. A. W. writes:

1. Is there such a disease as catarrh of the stomach? If so, what are the symptoms?

2. I have had a bad cough for almost 18 months and I raise a lot of mucus continually. Our local doctor says I have chronic bronchitis, and another doctor says it is bronchial asthma. I believe I raise a pint of mucus every 24 hours. I get very sore across my stomach at times, which makes me think that the trouble is located there. I have had X-rays and mucus tested several times for tuberculosis, but I am free from that.

REPLY.

1. It is a long time since we have heard of "catarrh of the stomach." It is a loose and meaningless term, once used extensively. Now it is taking its place with the dodo and other extinguished birds.

2. My guess is that your physicians are right—both of them. You have a chronic bronchitis. On this bronchial asthma has been engrafted. There is a pretty good chance that you have a bronchiectasis—a third story in this house. The stomach soreness is a result of the effort "to raise."

SENSE OF SMELL LOST.

S. L. A. writes: If a person loses his sense of smell, is there any kind of treatment that would restore it?

REPLY.

No.

REPAVING ONLY REMEDY.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—The streets west of Stony Island avenue and south of 71st street are in a shocking condition. They are full of deep holes, worse than any country road. The sewers are in bad condition also, and when a heavy rain falls the streets resemble streams rather than highways. I understand there is money to pay for repairing these streets in the funds collected by taxing automobile owners, and certainly there are plenty of men who could use the work. R. M. K.

Report is made that the streets the writer refers to are old macadam pavements paved many years ago which are now beyond repair and any moneys expended for repair work would be a waste of funds. The only remedy is the resurfacing or repaving of these streets by special assessment.

SKATING ON BOULEVARDS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would you please tell me whether there would be any legal objection to grown people skating on the boulevards—as, for instance, to and from school? N. S. H.

Sec. 2709 of the municipal code provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person to skate on roller or ice skates upon any street or public way in the city, except on the sidewalks thereof, and at street intersections while crossing from one side of the street to the other."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VEHICLE TAXES.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Why is it necessary for residents of Chicago to pay a vehicle tax on pleasure cars ranging from $10 and upwards? The state vehicle tax law on that item reads as follows: "If he does reside in a municipality he may be required to pay a tax on a motor truck, or on a motor driven commercial vehicle, according to the following schedule . . . When the municipality has a population of 150,000 or over the rate on a vehicle of 25 horsepower or less cannot exceed $10; over 25 horsepower, $20." Please explain. F. J. H.

Section 28 of the motor vehicle law is not limited to trucks or commercial vehicles. Apparently, you have examined only section 671 of the cities and village act.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. A. A.

LEAVING LAKE COUNTY, ENTERING NEWTON.

It had always been a mystery to us as we charged our faithful car over hill and dale why they put those signs up on the road at the county boundaries. What difference does a county make in a motorist's life? Now, with state lines it's different. In some states you are supposed to drive not faster than thirty-five miles an hour and in others the sky's the limit. But we never particularly cared what county we were in any more than we worried what township or school district we were driving through. Yet the county signs are always bobbing up. But now we know. Those signs mean a lot to some people. We took him aboard in Newton county. He was a hitch-hiker standing patiently out in the middle of the road and we either had to hit him or make a sudden stop. So we stopped and he immediately piled in. He was a shabby man with long gray whiskers, and as he did not wear a green cap we knew he was not a college freshman walking back to school. He did not seem to have a gun with which to bat us over the head so we drove on and the hitch-hiker sat silent on the back seat. Suddenly he burst into tears. Between sobs he pointed at the sign, which had just bobbed up:

LEAVING NEWTON COUNTY,
ENTERING BENTON COUNTY.

"Pardon these tears," moaned the hitch-hiker, "you see I have lived man and boy in dear old Newton county for thirty-five dam years. It's breaking home ties to come tearing out of the old place. I think of all the happy days I spent down on the farm in Newton county, the ups and downs, the sad days and the glad ones and I can't help weeping. You don't mind, do you?" We told him to go ahead and have a good cry and he'd feel better. So he wept away all over the back seat until another sign bobbed up:

LEAVING BENTON COUNTY,
ENTERING WARREN COUNTY.

There was a fresh outburst of weeping from the rear seat. "Lissen," said the hitch-hiker, "these county signs don't mean nothing much to you, but they're a lot to me. I married my third, or was it my fourth, wife in Benton county. Oh, a fairer, prettier bride than Jane, or was that Fannie, never did the sun shine on. I've had plenty of wives since then but none was so lovin' or cooked such good corn bread as Jane or Fannie, as the case may be. Pardon me, I must think back on those happy days." He thought back on the happy days until the next sign:

LEAVING WARREN COUNTY,
ENTERING FOUNTAIN COUNTY.

Again there was a terrible outburst of weeping from the rear seat. "I'm sorry," sobbed the hitch-hiker. "These county signs mean nothing to you city folks raring through the country in your big cars. But they're tragedy, yessir, tragedy to other folks. You dash across the line from Warren into Fountain county and you see nothing but the cement highway. But me, what do I see?" We couldn't guess what he saw, but he told us. He saw an old unpainted homestead with a dear old mother at the doorway as she stood there long ago her boy to greet. And he saw the old apple orchard and a dear old father, and the clover fields and the old school house down the leafy lane. Yessir, the hitch-hiker had been born right back there in Warren county and he was leaving it. He wept until the sign said:

LEAVING FOUNTAIN COUNTY,
ENTERING PARKE COUNTY.

The hitch-hiker sobbed like a child. "I'm going out o' old Fountain county," he said. "My pap and mam moved down there when I was jist seven years old. We had a home over there along the Wabash, where the moonlight streaming through the sycamores and 'cross the meadow comes the smell of new mown hay. I can't stand it no more. I gotta gittout and wander down the road, back to the Wabash and the sycamores and the whippoorwills singing sweetly in the wild wood." We stopped the car and he opened the back door and stumbled out carrying with him the sweet, dear memories brought back by these dear county boundary signs, carrying the memories of his dear old Indiana home, or rather homes. And it was not until we stopped for gas twenty miles farther on that we found it was not only memories of his dear old home he carried, but also our raincoat and a suitcase which he had dropped out of the car just before he had asked us to stop and let him out.

"I know that bum," said the gas station man. "He was in the calaboose here five days. He said he was a New Yorker going to California to get a job in the movies."

LEAVING PARKE COUNTY,
ENTERING VIGO COUNTY.

PROMINENT MEMBERS of the administration are continually being reported seeking facts about beer. One of the pleasantest facts we recall about beer was that before the great drought it cost a nickel, five cents, the glass. And now the speakeasies charge fifty and seventy-five cents a glass, and it's synthetic beer at that. We will think up more facts from day to day. R. H. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 28, 1915.

LONDON.—The third day of "the great offensive" of the allies on the west front has ended with the British and French maintaining their positions in the face of counterattacks which brought out some of the most desperate fighting of the war. The British and Germans are heavily engaged in the regions of Hulluch and Loos, between La Bassee and Lens. On the northern end of the line in Belgium the Germans are bombarding the Belgian positions and various towns. The German counterattacks northwest of Hulluch have been repulsed with heavy losses, according to the British official report, which adds that to the east of Loos the British offensive is progressing.

ARDMORE, Okla.—A spark from a workman's hammer ignited a 250 barrel tank car of gasoline here, and from the ruins of two city blocks, razed by the resulting explosion and the fires which followed, thirty-five bodies had been recovered up to midnight. Fifty persons are believed to have been crushed to death under falling walls or burned to death while pinned in the debris of stores, wholesale houses and the Ardmore railroad station.

IPSWICH, Mass.—Benjamin Stickney Cable, president of the United Charities of Chicago and assistant secretary of commerce and labor under President Taft, was killed when the automobile of Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago, in which he and Mr. Crane were riding, was hit squarely in the side by a light touring car owned and operated by Dr. David L. Edsall of Milton.

SEPTEMBER 28, 1901.

CANTON, O.—The will of President McKinley, filed for probate here, disposes of an estate estimated to be worth between $225,000 and $250,000. Mrs. McKinley is to have a life interest in the entire estate, except for $1,000 a year which is to be paid to Mr. McKinley's sister, Helen, his mother, the original legatee, being dead. On the death of Mrs. McKinley the estate is to go to brothers and sisters of Mr. McKinley. George B. Cortelyou and William R. Day will act as executors.

CHICAGO.—The recently formed union of employés of the South Side Elevated company called a strike for 5 o'clock this morning when demands for an increase in pay were refused. Despite the strike, which began promptly at the hour set, the trains started on regular service. They were manned with nonunion crews. During yesterday the men had demanded of President Leslie Carter a horizontal increase of 20 per cent in wages.

SEPTEMBER 28, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Charles J. Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, will be tried before the Supreme court of the District of Columbia. Although there is one decision which holds that the court has no jurisdiction in a case where the assault was committed in the district and death took place elsewhere, more recent decisions have declared in favor of the jurisdiction of the court. District Attorney Corkhill has but little doubt that Guiteau's defense will be insanity. The assassin has had several offers from lawyers in different parts of the country to defend him, some of them men of fair reputation. The great question, however, is whether Guiteau can be taken from the jail to the court and back again without being mobbed.

CLEVELAND, O.—Mrs. Garfield, her children, and Grandma Garfield, accompanied by Private Secretary Brown, Gen. Swaim and Col. Rockwell, left here in a special train for Mentor, O., the Garfield home. The city is being rapidly cleared of the multitude of strangers who came here for the Garfield funeral. Pickpockets conducted their operations among the crowds that were in the city with the utmost boldness. Not less than a dozen Chicagoans were the victims. George Schneider, president of the National Bank of Illinois, was forcibly seized, slugged and robbed of his diamond pin and pocketbook. His loss was not less than $1,000.

THE SLAUGHTER OF HEN PHEASANTS.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Bob Becker is most courageous in his article of Sept. 22 appealing for protection to hen pheasants. But protection should be immediate; a remedy should be created without waiting for the special session of our legislature. It has been alleged that the city hunter destroys the farmer's stock and property in his anxiety to kill game during the open season, and this writer again arises to inquire about our rural brothers. And what greater maliciousness could exist than the killing of these hen pheasants, yes, slaughter, as the birds sail out over the line of shooters, their number thinned, and the tumult of the scene is dully punctuated by the thud of dropping birds on the coarse turf?

Only yesterday the story was related by a resident of Barrington that his neighbor killed twenty-six hens on last Monday, and that had been his second successive big day. And we find we must depend upon the trespass law—and the farmers all know each other. They likewise know the whereabouts of the birds on these hot days and wait in blind to destroy the poor hens which have no protection in law or self-defense.

And the department of conservation must be congratulated for the wonderful progress they are making in their backward march. They have conveniently regulated the duck season for "murderers' row" along the Illinois river without authority from the legislature but must depend upon the trespass laws to protect hen pheasants. E. P. MOLONEY.

PASSENGER FARES.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 20.—The contention of the railroads that increased passenger rates would result in increased revenue seems erroneous inasmuch as it seems to have driven most people to ride in buses and autos.

I personally travel every day for weeks and weeks on the railroads. I carry a large trunk containing samples, consequently the railroad is my only form of travel.

I know for a fact that just as soon as passenger rates are reduced from the present exorbitant "war time" rate of 3.6 cents per mile to some reasonable rate such as 2.5 cents or 2 cents per mile it will enable about 100,000 men to travel again and earn a decent living.

The war is over—everything is reduced—food, clothing, and other necessities—so why not railroad passenger fares?

The railroads have the depots, the tracks, the rolling stock, the personnel, and plenty of tickets, so why not use them all and fill the empty cars at 2 cents per mile instead of running them mostly empty at 3.6 cents?

S. L. SANDERS.

THE HIGH COST OF WHISTLING.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—I noted an article in a recent issue of the daily paper stating that it costs the railroads of the United States about $7,000,000 a year to blow their whistles. It seems to me that of this amount the Rock Island must spend at least $5,000,000 and a great proportion of this going past Morgan Park. A MORGAN PARKER.

THE BAR ASSOCIATION'S CONVENTION.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Returning from the Atlantic City meeting of the American Bar association, I read in last Saturday's TRIBUNE, in an editorial, "Lawyers on Prohibition Law," the following: "The American Bar association has repeated its decision on federal prohibition. At the Atlantic City convention Thursday the vote on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment was 13,709 for, and 5,625 against."

This is incorrect. There were only 1,727 members present, about 7 per cent of the membership. No vote on the question was taken. What the writer of the editorial probably had in mind was a statement by President Boston of New York, giving the result of the poll of the association last year. There are over 26,000 in the American Bar association (about one-sixth of the total number of lawyers in the country), but there are never as many as 10 per cent of the association present at any meeting. The vote of the American Bar association on the question cannot be taken as indicative of the sentiment of lawyers throughout the country. Moreover, more than 50 per cent of the association is made up of lawyers from the cities, which are generally wet.

Whatever may be the opinion of the bar as a whole throughout the country, take it from me as a fact that the convention just ended at Atlantic City was in all respects the dryest I have ever attended since the passage of the Volstead act. EDWARD T. LEE.

THE EMBATTLED IOWANS.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Your editorial of Sept. 23, entitled "Laws and Laws," seems to have been written by one not conversant with conditions in Iowa.

In metropolitan centers of these United States much of the contempt for the 18th amendment is due, whether consciously or not, to the racketeer methods so frequently employed by the teeth of the law. In rural districts in Iowa such tactics are seldom resorted to in any serious degree. As a consequence the law does not there inspire the animosity and mulishness which it encounters in the larger cities.

As regards the enforcement of the tuberculin test act, however, Iowa farmers are faced with the same condition which faces urbanites with respect to the prohibition situation. Numerous instances exist—though more or less effectively shushed—of stock being condemned as being tubercular, being paid for at a poor price and subsequently appearing in the Chicago stockyards. After a few blows like this the farmers very naturally come to regard with suspicion any man who wants to test cattle in the name of the state.

Of course the repeal of this act cannot be considered in this case as it might in the prohibition muddle. The only solution is compulsory submission to the owner of the stock of definite, tangible proof—and I don't mean merely a certificate which can never subsequently be verified—that the stock is actually infected and then means of insuring that such infected stock is destroyed and not spirited away in order to swell some one's accumulation of long green at the expense of the health of others.

GEN. MacARTHUR PAVES WAY FOR JUGO-SLAV LOAN

Acts as Hoover Agent in Moratorium Deal.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 27.—Two soldiers—the Serb diplomat, King Alexander I, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army—exchanged compliments today, paving the way for a bankers' exchange of signatures.

Coincident with Gen. MacArthur's audience with the Balkan king, it was learned from a well informed source that Gen. MacArthur is none other than the personal agent of President Hoover, and the object of his trip is to iron out the Serbian moratorium problem of the two powers—France and Jugo-Slavia — on which Jugo-Slavia has been dickering since last July.

One of the chief obstacles in the negotiations in Paris between Secretary Mellon and Premier Laval, was the French insistence on an American loan to compensate its Jugo-Slavian ally for the $8,000,000 hole in its budget, which the moratorium would create.

U. S. Bank Investigates Loan.

A convention was signed between America and France on July 7 to ascertain the position and the effect of the moratorium on the smaller European countries and the desirability of doing something for them.

Up to now nothing has been done, and the other day at Geneva Dr. Yeftslav Markinkovic, the Jugo-Slavian foreign minister, announced that his government had accepted the moratorium under the express understanding that some relief for his country would be forthcoming.

An American bank is investigating the situation. It is believed the loan will not exceed $8,000,000. Jugo-Slavia hopes that this sum will be sufficient to save the dinar, which has been hit by the depreciation of the British pound sterling, and thus avert an internal moratorium.

MacArthur Gets New Decoration.

Gen. MacArthur was presented to the king by John Dyneley Prince, the American minister. They were driven to the palace in a car sent them by the king, and were ushered into a handsome drawing room where King Alexander awaited them, wearing the uniform of a Serbian general. Gen. MacArthur wore on his uniform the grand cross of the French Legion of Honor. He received from the king the Order of the White Eagle, the highest decoration in Jugo-Slavia.

"I understand your majesty is rated as the greatest soldier in Europe," Gen. MacArthur said. The king smiled and responded with a somewhat similar compliment.

LAST URUGUAYAN OF PRE-FREEDOM ERA DIES AT 115

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 27. — The death of Señora Eduviges Almada de Lomano, 115 years old, is reported at Carmelo. It is believed she was the last survivor of the epoch of Uruguay's wars of emancipation, when Fernando José Artigas was fighting to establish it as an independent republic.

Uruguay's fight for independence began in 1810, when the Uruguayans joined the people of Argentina in a revolt against Spain and established an independent confederation under the protector, Artigas. The Spaniards were driven from Montevideo in 1814.

The country, however, was weakened and demoralized by its efforts, and the Portugese in Brazil claimed the territory. In 1817 they captured Montevideo and drove Artigas into the interior until he was forced to take refuge in Paraguay, Uruguay being annexed to Brazil as the Cisplatine state. In 1825 the Uruguayan patriots known as "the twenty-three," under Juan Antonio Lavalleja, took up the fight, and Uruguay won its independence three years later.

IGOE ASSAILS DISMISSAL OF WARDEN KNESS

Victim of "Patronage Politics," He Says.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the legislature, last night termed the dismissal of Frank L. Kness, veteran deputy warden at the Joliet penitentiary, "patronage politics."

Kness, who for the last five years until a month ago had been in charge of the new prison at Stateville under Warden Harry C. Hill, was relieved of duty Saturday. Oren Coleman, former sheriff of Williamson county, where he took an active part in breaking up the Birger and Shelton gangs, was given the Stateville post. He was appointed to the prison staff a month ago, and although nominally a subordinate of Kness, was drawing a higher salary.

Member of Two Groups.

Representative Igoe was a member of the legislative committee which investigated the prison riots at Joliet last spring, and also of the prison commission which returned recently from a European trip for the purpose of studying prison conditions abroad.

"I consider Kness the best informed man on prison administration in the state," he said. "I think he can owe his dismissal to the fact that he spoke up and told the committee investigating conditions at the prison that the trouble there was due to two things: crowding and lack of employment for the convicts and the inmates' dissatisfaction with the treatment received from the state parole board."

Another Deputy Quits.

Deputy Warden George Erickson, in charge of the old prison at Joliet, resigned at the same time that Kness was fired. His job went to Edward M. Stubblefield, former sheriff of Macoupin county, who had been his assistant for the last month.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

INSISTS RUSSIA'S AMBITION IS TO ANNEX EUROPE

Nations Warned Moscow Is Preparing for War.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Sept. 27.—The soviet government's refusal to take part in the preliminary disarmament discussion and also to send delegates to the Pan-European commission of the league of nations which meets tomorrow to discuss the economic non-aggression pact is part of a general line of bolshevik policies to withdraw from European affairs, according to Charles Ozols, Latvian minister to Moscow for six years. He is conducting a strong campaign to force Latvia to adopt a more definite foreign policy towards Russia.

Ozols, a leading authority in northeastern Europe on Russia, said Moscow is gradually alienating Russia from Europe, and that activities of soviet diplomats at Geneva and other European capitals are intended to increase discords between European countries.

Has War Fever.

"The bolsheviks' present five-year plan and the coming five-year plan are designed to prepare Russia for war against Europe," said Ozols. "When the differences between European countries finally result in conflict, Russia also will start military action. The mistake of foreign countries is to think that Russia only has designs against the Baltic states. Commissars informed me in Moscow that they don't want the Baltic states but they do want to annex Europe.

"Today the bolshevik economic aggression is more serious than the threat of its military aggression. Agricultural machinery, sewing machines, and a wide variety of manufactured foodstuffs are being dumped into Latvia and other countries, and, under the leadership of skilled American and German engineers, the soviet industries are attempting to destroy Europe's industries.

"Steps must be taken to control soviet dumping, and European countries and America must attempt to cancel the commercial privileges enjoyed by the soviet trade monopoly. At present foreign manufacturers cannot sell goods in Russia without special permission from the monopoly. Therefore the only possible defense is to refuse the soviets the privilege of selling their goods in separate countries without obtaining special permission.

Sees Danger to Europe.

"The only possible method of combating the soviet trade monopoly is for the individual countries to establish organisms to control their trade with Russia. This accomplished, much of the soviet menace will be removed."

Ozols, who spent several years in America as a member of the former Russian government's railway commission during the war, and who is both an engineer and economist, believes the present chaotic economic situation in Europe is awakening leaders to the danger of the threat from the east.

"However, even if foreign countries succeed in combating bolshevism's present destructive trade methods, this will not save Europe unless the diplomats and statesmen cease viewing Russia with the naive eyes of children," he concluded. "I can assure my country, Europe, and America that Moscow commissars have now even greater hopes of a world revolution than 10 years ago, and under communist leadership Russia is preparing for war against Europe and the rest of the world.

Visions Red Revolt in Germany.

"It is a great mistake for foreigners to thing that Latvia and the rest of the Baltic states are not a safe investment for capital because their frontiers touch Russia. The day the bolshevik troops arrive at Riga there will be a communist revolution proceeding in Berlin. The security of the Baltic states is exactly the same as the security of Germany and other European countries."

BANDITS SHOOT AT WOMAN.

Two burglars fired several shots at Mrs. Pauline Nuchowski early yesterday when she awakened in her quarters in the rear of her dress shop at 1654 West 18th street and discovered them ransacking the place.

BLAME BANDITS FOR $25,000 FIRE; GARAGE LOOTED

Damage estimated at $25,000 was caused yesterday by a fire, apparently started by burglars, in the garage of the board of education at 321 South Damen avenue.

Battalion Chief Joseph E. Sullivan said that the loss on the building itself was about $10,000. He found that the interior of the place had been looted, that papers had been torn from all the desks, tires hacked off automobiles and electrical equipment piled up where the flames would reach it easily.

The physical evidence tended to show that a fifty gallon tank of gasoline had been tipped over on the floor and then ignited.

PRIESTS WARNED TO KEEP PULPIT FREE OF POLITICS

Costa Rican Clergy Told to Shun Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 27.—The Catholic clergy of Costa Rica has been warned to refrain from actively engaging in political activities as the election campaign for the presidency becomes more vigorous. The warning is issued in a circular letter signed by Rafael Oton Casto, archbishop of San José; Antonio Monestal, bishop of Alajuela, and Augustin Blessing, apostolic vicar of Limon.

There are three candidates in the race for the presidency—former President Ricardo Jimenes, Manuel Castro Quesada, former minister to Washington, and Carlos Maria Jimenes. The last named has the support of Dr. Rafel Calderon Munoz, leader of the church party. Though a theosophist, former President Jimenes is said to have the backing of a large number of the Catholic priests. The elections will be held next February.

Complaints Result in Warning.

Many complaints that the priests have been actively engaged in campaigning for their favorite candidates either by statements to the press or by sermons from the pulpit resulted in the letter admonishing the priests not to let their political affiliations interfere with their prime mission within the Catholic church.

The following instructions were sent to every priest in the republic:

1. All priests must observe complete public abstention in the present political campaign—in writing, whatever form or manner, and even more so in using the pulpit, since the latter practice would amount to converting the sacred altar into a tribunal of profane interests not related to our divine mission of saving souls.

Barred from Political Clubs.

2. You are strictly prohibited from forming members of committees, clubs, and all classes of assemblies or meetings of a political character; likewise from taking part in the publication, administration or management in any form of the press, or publication of any political party.

3. Before launching or accepting the candidacy for congress, priests must strictly observe the orders contained in Canon 139 of the canonical code, which calls for the awaiting the expressed permission from the competent authorities of the church.

4. Although every priest should faithfully watch over the life and interests of the church, in a matter so definite as the political controversy, we should make public declarations as to whether or not a political party is hostile to the religion, either by its propaganda, its platform, its ideals, or intentions, only when called upon or when we consider it prudent to do so.

Want Priests to Keep Out.

Paragraph 3 of the instructions apparently intends to disapprove of members of the clergy who have been elected to congress and who take active part in its sessions on matters not associated with religion. The heads of the church make it plain that no permission for priests to enter politics will be granted. One bishop and four priests are now members of congress.

FIRST '31 VALUES TO BE PUT ON TAX BOOKS THIS WEEK

Assessors Meet Owners to Avoid Disputes.

The first set of values on real estate for the 1931 quadrennial revaluation will be placed on the books of the board of assessors this week, it was learned yesterday. At the same time Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals for the board, declared that the tentative land values for 75 per cent of the city and for three country town districts have been made.

None of these figures were disclosed by the assessors pending a series of meetings with representative groups of property owners and real estate operators from each section of the county. The first of these meetings will be held today and tomorrow, after which the first group of final valuation maps will be made public.

Some Values Increased.

Although the assessors declined to give definite evidence it was reported that the general value of Cook county real state had decreased. However, land in certain portions of the city has increased in value due to the construction of civic improvements and the completion of many valuable buildings both of business and residential types.

As an example of increased value there is the district bounded on the west and south by the river and the north branch, on the east by the lake and on the north by North avenue. On the books of the assessors it is city district No. 11. It probably will be the first district for which the revaluation will be completed.

Within the boundaries are blocks of extremely valuable property, including a portion of the Gold Coast and the equally valuable Streeterville apartment and apartment hotel districts. The completion of the Wabash avenue bridge, the widening of La Salle street, and development of many new buildings within the area has caused a general increase in the property value.

Make Survey of District.

The assessors assigned two expert land appraisers who have been connected with real estate companies and operations in the district for more than ten years to make the value maps. For more than two months the men interviewed property owners, scanned records of sales and leaseholds, and conferred with the real estate agents for property there. At the same time maps of the district with the valuations of owners were obtained by the assessors for comparison.

When this comparison was made it was found that the assessors' figures were substantially lower than those of the property holders.

A group of ten of these taxpayers have been asked to confer with the members of the board tomorrow afternoon before the final valuations are approved. It is one of the series scheduled to allow taxpayers to express their views before the assessments are official, thus eliminating many of the complaints which would be filed later.

PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA TROOPS CLASH; 12 KILLED

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Eight Paraguayan and four Bolivian soldiers were killed in a clash between patrols of the two nations at Fort Zamaclay yesterday, the ministry of war announced in a communique issued tonight.

The communique said a Paraguayan patrol was reconnoitering when it came upon the Bolivians occupying the fort and dislodged them. The Bolivians left four dead at the fort, it said. The Paraguayan patrol later ran upon a company of Bolivian infantry about a half mile away, entrenched and supported by a squadron of cavalry.

The Paraguayan patrol returned to its base, the report continued, with a loss of eight men.

THERE IS NO SUCH THING as "pretty good" or medium grade electric refrigeration. You either have dependable, year-'round refrigeration or you haven't. You want an electric refrigerator that will properly preserve food every day of the year as economically as possible. You know General Electric will do this. Can you afford, then, to experiment with anything less than a General Electric?

DESIGNED RIGHT in the beginning, General Electric has won fame as the "No Service Expense" refrigerator. General Electric had such confidence in its engineering that the entire mechanism is hermetically sealed—in a lifetime supply of oil—in the modern Monitor Top. A General Electric Oil Conditioner keeps the oil as it should be—always at a running temperature. General Electric never needs oiling. No exposed moving parts to collect dust and dirt—to tempt children or amateur mechanics. No danger of injuring the spotlessly clean porcelain "Super-Freezer" when removing ice cubes or frozen desserts.

TIME WILL NOT OBSOLETE IT. Years ahead when the first one was produced, General Electric is still years in advance. General Electric offers improvements on every feature to be found in any other electric refrigerator plus exclusive General Electric features not to be found elsewhere—such as lifetime-service, all-steel cabinets built to withstand "wear-and-tear" . . . food shelves that slide in and out like a drawer . . . no reaching 'way back in the refrigerator for food—no food rubbing your wrist or sleeve.

OVER 54,000 APARTMENTS in Chicago hotel and apartment buildings—rentals ranging from $32.50 to $2000 a month—equipped exclusively with General Electric's. Demand the electric refrigerator that will save you the most money.

Don't wait—Phone Franklin 5720 today—a General Electric refrigerator will be placed in your home on Free Trial—absolutely no obligation on your part.

AUTUMN BEAUTY BLAZES FORTH IN UPPER MICHIGAN

Departed Tourists Miss Glories of Fall.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The frost has touched the lowlands hereabouts, adding new colors to the shores of lakes and the banks of streams. In a district where the tourist trade is the leading industry, civic leaders are pointing to these attractions of autumn in an effort to recall some of the thousands of motorists from Chicago who tour this country in summer.

THE TRIBUNE road car cruised down the eastern coast of Lake Michigan this morning from St. Ignace and found woods tipped with reds, pinks, and yellows. Another frost, due any day now, will leave the trees in the full glory of their autumn garb.

In the upper peninsula the season is more advanced, and the time is ripe for motorists to enjoy the handiwork of Jack Frost. THE TRIBUNE car entered Michigan north of Eagle river where there are many acres of virgin woods and many square miles of luxuriant second growth. Broad hillsides present panoramas as brilliant as forest fires. Daring reds, yellows, and greens are splashed on the landscape with nature's genius.

Good Road Through Wilderness.

A few miles north of the Wisconsin-Michigan line U. S. 2, a modern highway in every respect, was followed eastward through this wilderness. The road crosses the Brule river, which President Calvin Coolidge fished with angle worms. Incidentally, the muskies are reported to be biting this fall.

This section of Wisconsin and Michigan is big game country, according to hunters. This motorist saw three skunks leisurely cross the highway with evident confidence in their peculiar means of self-defense.

Official highway markers read "Spring 500 feet ahead." One of these was inspected. In a fern carpeted hollow was a natural bubbling cup, water pouring up from loose sand with the volume of an ordinary drinking fountain. The water was cold and, like the text book description of H^2O, was really odorless, tasteless, and colorless.

U. S. 2 leads through Crystal Falls and Iron Mountain and enters Escanaba over a new pavement between rows of young elms planted by the American Legion and dedicated as "Memory Lane."

Ferry Across Straits.

North and thence west from Escanaba the route followed U. S. 2 out of the finger of land that stretches around the north end of Lake Michigan to St. Ignace. There were more of these forests in the splendor of requiem pageantry, beautiful and solemn at the funeral of summer, but not depressing because the season before death had fulfilled its functions of producing fruit and seed.

The ferry, operated by the Michigan highway department, was taken for the nine mile crossing of the Straits of Mackinac. One hundred and twenty thousand cars a year make this crossing. The boats pass close to Mackinac Island, once the western outpost of French civilization. They dock at the little town of Mackinaw City on the lower peninsula, a settlement larger and more important than Chicago a century ago. South from Mackinaw City, U. S. 31 was traveled, along the wooded hills on the shores of Lake Michigan, skirting several inland lakes and passing through Petoskey and Charlevoix. It is a little over 300 miles from here to Chicago, less than eight hours drive.

Coal Miners End Strike; 1,000 to Return in Ohio

Millfield, O., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The strike of more than 1,000 Athens county coal miners was ended by a vote of the workers at a meeting addressed by officials of the United Mine Workers here today.

OFFICIALS PLAN WEEK'S CRUSADE ON FIRE PERILS

Massmeetings of school children, civic associations, and trade organizations will be addressed by representatives of the state fire marshal's office during the week of Oct. 4 to 10 on methods of fire prevention. The week has been set aside for fire prevention education in a proclamation issued by Gov. Emmerson.

The governor's proclamation calls upon all citizens to celebrate the week by making a resolution that "no act of theirs shall be the cause of fire." Fire prevention week is an annual event in Illinois.

Under the direction of First Deputy Fire Marshal P. E. Bertram a series of special lectures for children will be presented. Watchfulness and care will be the keynote of the lectures.

At the adult meetings various speakers will emphasize the need for removing possible causes of fire.

The governor's proclamation calls attention to the property loss of $21,815,989 in Illinois last year and the death of 379 persons from fire.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 27.—A total eclipse of the moon yesterday was considered by Bedouins in Palestine and Arabia as the work of the devil. They believe it forebodes a bad year. Peasants prayed, beat drums and tins, shrieked, and produced other weird noises in an effort to frighten Satan away.

Now! Whiten Dull Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days

MODERN dental science has made important new discoveries in lightening dull or yellowish teeth. You can lighten your own teeth—no matter how "off-color" they are—3 shades in 3 days.

Obtain a tube of the special, antiseptic dental cream called KOLYNOS. Then spread it on a DRY toothbrush—no water on the brush, understand—and SCRUB your teeth with a ROTARY movement for about 15 seconds. This creates a heavy antiseptic foam that goes into every crack and crevice, destroying the mouth germs that cause most ugly teeth. Destroying, according to test, 190,000,000 of these germs in that 15 seconds.

In a few days your teeth look shades whiter; your gums pink and coral. You're no longer afraid to smile. KOLYNOS is supplied by warrant to H. R. H. The Prince of Wales, H. R. H. Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania, and many other world-famous celebrities. Discard your present, less scientific way today. Buy a tube of Kolynos.

PARIS in 1900, the year other great Paris exp[illegible] lured the pen of Paul M[illegible] one of the outstanding writers, to a volume of part[illegible] nescence, part research, as th[illegible] 1931 [illegible] ably l[illegible] chr[illegible] of [illegible] day [illegible] down [illegible] chi[illegible] mem[illegible] the [illegible] Colon[illegible] posit[illegible] Paris to [illegible] tog[illegible] fro[illegible] state[illegible] perio[illegible] foibles and fancies of this in[illegible] day.

PAUL MORAND.

Paul Morand was a school b[illegible] in 1900, young enough to ha[illegible] pressed indelibly on his mind p[illegible] which an older youth might n[illegible] takes the trouble to look at, an[illegible] a younger one might have forg[illegible]

The Paris exposition of 190[illegible] scribes with the utmost of cha[illegible] delight. He found it enchant[illegible] carnate and he puts into his [illegible] tion not only his own boyish[illegible] but enough of the reactions [illegible] cognoscenti and the hoi polloi [illegible] populace that wasn't either on[illegible] other to make the reader und[illegible] not only exactly what the ex[illegible] offered to the world, but w[illegible] world offered to the exposit[illegible] is, the France. It broke down [illegible] age-old hatred of the foreig[illegible] one thing, he says, and p[illegible] Paris with its true cosmopol[illegible]

Another memory of 1900 w[illegible] sets down with thrills is the r[illegible] the time when he was take[illegible] good-by to Sarah Bernhardt[illegible] departure for America t[illegible] "L'Aiglon." It was a mêlée [illegible] ing, fittings, arriving and d[illegible] guests, and Sarah waving "[illegible] hanging sleeves of her pale b[illegible] dressing gown, shaking her l[illegible] and crying "in her drawlin[illegible] dental voice, "I am going [illegible] millions; do you understan[illegible] lions!"

But "1900 A. D." is rather [illegible] estimate of the final days o[illegible] tury than it is a volume of [illegible] censes. M. Morand contends [illegible] definitely marked the turn of [illegible] tury, and not 1914, as many [illegible] the end of the century. He [illegible] Paris in 1900 A. It is amazing how few of t[illegible] which were on the tongues [illegible] one in those days are even r[illegible] ble to us today. And that i[illegible] cause we are not French so [illegible] because there were few rea[illegible] names. Even France has [illegible] them, he says. "We of to[illegible] nothing in common with th[illegible] he adds. M. Morand has many h[illegible] things to say about literatu[illegible] in Paris. In that day "t[illegible] way to success in litera[illegible] through politics" he says, a[illegible] "It would have seemed quit[illegible] if Emil Zola or François C[illegible] been elected president of t[illegible] lic."

"Another characteristic o[illegible] the foreign influences which [illegible] themselves felt. . . . The F[illegible] 1900 is illuminated and blind[illegible] powerful beacons which th[illegible] convergent lights upon her [illegible] sia, England, Germany, I[illegible] Scandinavia. The public is [illegible] at once by the irresistible bu[illegible] these new masterpieces; "[illegible] tion" by Tolstoi, "Il F[illegible] D'Annunzio, "Kim" by Kipl[illegible] War of the Worlds" by H. [illegible] "The Jungle Book" and "[illegible] Machine" are classics and [illegible] Kipling and Wells were the [illegible] ers who represented English[illegible] to the French. "Quo Vadis[illegible] orgy in Nero's palace, the [illegible] Rome and the games in th[illegible] for all the world like the [illegible] de Rome picture—was accla[illegible] perfect work of art."

"The theater was a livi[illegible] our literature at the time[illegible] to admirable actors, Sara[illegible] Rejane, Coquelin, and Gu[illegible] pieces became great," he [illegible] "this was the great mom[illegible] pun."

The most amusing part o[illegible] ter on the literature of 19[illegible] in which he quotes from bo[illegible] days which were written [illegible] says were the characteris[illegible] the period. For instance "[illegible] ment Style" was exampl[illegible] gem: "The phonograph! A[illegible] final triumph of Science! GASOLINE ALLEY—THAT'S WHAT CORKY FOUND OUT

Ancient Days of 1900 Relive for This Author

Morand Tells of Paris Fair of That Year.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"1900 A. D." by Paul Morand [Payot]. Published today.

PARIS in 1900, the year of another great Paris exposition, found the pen of Paul Morand, one of the outstanding French writers, in a volume of part reminiscence, part research, as the year 1931 probably will lure a chronicler of a later day to set down his childhood memories of the great Colonial exposition in Paris and to gather together from the state of the period, the style and fancies of this incredible age.

PAUL MORAND.

Paul Morand was a school boy of 13 in 1900, young enough to have imagined infinity on his mind pictures which an older youth might not have seen the trouble to look at, and which a younger one might have forgotten.

The Paris exposition of 1900 he describes with the utmost of charm and delight. He found it enchantment indeed and he puts into his description not only his own boyish thrills, but enough of the reactions of the sophisticated and the hoi polloi and the politico that wasn't either one or the other to make the reader understand not only exactly what the exposition stood for in the world, but what the world offered to the exposition, that is to France. It broke down France's age-old hatred of the foreigner, for one thing, he says, and presented him with its true cosmopolitanism.

Another memory of 1900 which he sets down with thrills is the record of the time when he was taken to say adieu to Sarah Bernhardt on her departure for America to play "Hamlet." It was a mêlée of packing, things, arriving and departing guests, and Sarah waving "the great flapping sleeves of her pale blue satin evening gown, shaking her lace cap" and crying "in her drawling, nasal, aged voice, 'I am going to make silence; do you understand? Milliard!'"

But "1900 A. D." is rather a critical résumé of the final days of a century than it is a volume of reminiscence. M. Morand contends that 1900 definitely marked the turn of the century, and not 1914, as many claim as the end of the century. He pictures Paris in 1900 A. D., its art, its music, its literature, its social life, its politics, its sports, its pleasures, and he has an excellent job of his sketching. In no case does he more than draw in the general outlines of the subject, but he does it with deftness and irony and a certain gayety that is characteristic in his writing.

It is amazing how few of the names which were on the tongues of every one in those days are even recognizable to us today. And that is not because we are not French so much as because there were few really great ones. Even France has forgotten them, he says. "We of today have nothing in common with that time," he adds. "I question the young men of twenty; not one of them has ever heard of Pelletan or of Marcel Habert or of Andre; those names which aroused such tempests of passion, evoke no echoes now. No one talks of 1900 and no one writes of it. Like dishes which are out of fashion, but have not yet acquired the charm of a period, there are certain events which are neither questions of the day nor history."

M. Morand has many interesting things to say about literature in 1900 in Paris. Is that day "the surest way to success in literature was through politics" he says, adding that "it would have seemed quite natural if Emile Zola, or François Coppee had been elected president of the republic."

"Another characteristic of 1900 is the foreign influences which now make themselves felt. . . . The France of 1900 is illuminated and blinded by the powerful beacons which throw their prominent lights upon her from Russia, England, Germany, Italy, and Scandinavia. The public is conquered at once by the irresistible brilliancy if not by the new masterpieces; 'Resurrection' by Tolstoi, 'Il Fuoco' by D'Annunzio, 'Kim' by Kipling, 'The War of the Worlds' by H. G. Wells; 'The Jungle Book' and 'The Time Machine' are classics and up to 1925, Kipling and Wells were the only authors who represented English literature to the French. 'Quo Vadis' with its fire in Nero's palace, the burning of Rome and the games in the Circus—for all the world like the latest Prix de Rome picture—was acclaimed as a perfect work of art."

"The theater was a living part of our literature at the time. Thanks to admirable actors, Sarah, Bartet, Reflon, Coquelin, and Guitry slight pieces became great," he says, and "this was the great moment of the art."

The most amusing part of the chapter on the literature of 1900 is that in which he quotes from books of the days which were written in what he says were the characteristic style of the period. For instance "Advertisese style" was exampled by this sentence: "The phonograph! At last! The final triumph of Science! A simple turn of the wrist and there you have Coquelin giving a monologue in your bedroom. Lifelike and vocal chords of wax. A marvel of nickel. . . . Today every one knows this amazing machine which speaks, sings, laughs, and cries; this machine which is able to preserve for all time the baby's joyous cry or the last word of the grandfather before he goes to his eternal rest."

Good morning!

"The Squaw Man" is like a cat. It always comes back.

In 1907 it made its debut on the Broadway stage with William Faversham in the star rôle, and William S. Hart [the "S" stands for Shakespeare] as Cash Hawkins. Then Lasky turned out a six-reeler featuring Dustin Farnum. Then—remember when it was produced with Elliott Dexter, Ann Little and Herbert Standing? Probably not. Anyhow—if here isn't "The Squaw Man" again! Well, as Greeter Gaw would say, "Welcome to our city!"

The talking version of the old play will probably draw because of the names in the cast—Warner Baxter, Charles Bickford, Eleanor Boardman, Lupe Velez, Roland Young, J. Farrell MacDonald, Raymond Hatton. All of these players were happily chosen with the exception of Lupe Velez, who, it seems to me, is the last person in the world to have been picked for a rôle that demands intense quiet and almost no speech. The volatile little Mexican performs amazingly well, however, her task of NOT being volatile.

You're probably familiar with the story of "The Squaw Man." In case you're not—it is about a titled Englishman who, unjustly suspected of a crime, comes to America under a cloud. He goes west. Here he saves a pretty Indian girl from the unwelcome advances of one Cash Hawkins, an enemy of his own. He earns the maiden's passionate love and gratitude. When Cash would shoot him down, Naturich turns the tables on the villain. She attaches herself to Carston, who, finally wearying of futile attempts to send her back to her people, marries her. And, all the time his heart belongs to a beautiful Lady Diana in England. A son is born of this marriage.

When the boy is about seven years old, Diana and Carston's old friend Sir John come over to bring him good tidings of great joy. They find . . . ?

The story ends on a note of tragedy that, however, presages better things to come.

Considering the fact that there's not a bath-tub in the scenario, Mr. DeMille has done a surprisingly apt job of directing. The picture is not without humor and some of the scenery is grand.

See you tomorrow!

The bride attended Northwestern university. Mr. Craig is an alumnus of the University of Florida. They will reside in Evanston.

Mabel R. Walker Going to Europe for More Voice Work

Just before leaving for Europe for the purpose of further musical study, Mabel Roberts Walker, Negro contralto, gave a song recital at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon. She is a prominent figure of song even in a race that boasts many fine voices. Her singing is the kind intended to lend extra radiance to the aristocratic melodies of the old Italian school, the "Invocazione di Orfeo" from Peri's "Euridice" and Secchi's "Lungi dal caro bene," of which, with the assistance of an uncommonly able accompanist, L. Sterling Todd, she gave a distinguished performance. In works of more florid type her effects are not quite so striking, and this though she has plenty of technical flexibility. Her program also included a group of German works, another of spirituals, in which she is also expert, and a final one of songs in English.

Mexico Seeks Secrets of City of Old Sun God

Gets Clews from Work in Gold, Copper.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Sept. 27.—Mexico's mysterious ancient city, Monte Alban, is to be excavated by the Mexican government and the Mexican National university, beginning next month, when the rainy season lets up. Monte Alban holds as prominent a place in Zapoteca tradition as did ancient Tula among the Toltecs who were driven out of the Valley of Mexico by the barbarian tribes shortly before the Normans invaded England, A. D. 1066, after having been in that valley for some 1,200 years.

Monte Alban was the center of the most noted civilization of the first Zapotecas who invaded Oaxaca and the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. It is believed that civilization coincided in time more or less with that of the Toltecs.

Tradition says the inhabitants of Monte Alban lived in the golden age of the Indians of that region and that their sun god leader brought to them the culture of the sun just as Quetzalcoatl, the wind god, was the bearer of the same kind of culture to the great city of Tula. The same tradition says one of the special gifts of the Zapoteca hero god was the knowledge of smelting and working in gold, silver and copper.

In the days preceding the Spanish conquest of Mexico in 1521, Aztec traders brought to Mexico City frequently the most beautiful gold and silver work and Moctezuma invited a colony of Zapoteca goldsmiths to take up their permanent residence in one of the most flourishing suburbs of the Aztec capital. Undoubtedly much of the very ornate and artistic gold ornaments found by the Spaniards in the great Aztec metropolis at the time of their conquest were the work of the descendants of the ancient artisans of Monte Alban.

The workmen of Monte Alban also had a reputation for turning out the most artistic weaving in all Mexico and their pottery was unsurpassed in design, workmanship and artistic decoration. Much of this ancient pottery has found its way into the chief museums of the old and the new worlds.

The unearthing of Monte Alban promises to be a notable event in Mexican archaeology, since it formed the traditional gateway through which passed untold migrations of numerous races from the uplands of Mexico to Central America. The civilizations of the Zapotecas and that of the Mayas acted and reacted upon one another.

It will be, therefore, of great interest and scientific value to compare the restored Monte Alban with the Maya-Toltec city of Chitzen Itza in Yucatan and with other Maya cities now in the process of exacavation or about to be unearthed.

The marriage of Miss Marianna Rogers Ruffner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Ruffner of Highland Park, to Harrison Tyler Todd, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry D. Todd Jr. of Washington, D. C., took place last Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church in Highland Park. After Nov. 1 the bride and groom will reside at 1110 Union street, Schenectady, N. Y. Gen. Todd commanded the 58th field artillery brigade, 33d division during the world war.

Kay Strozzi, Chicago Girl, in "Silent Witness" Here

Chicago welcomed back one of its own personalities of the theatrical world yesterday as Kay Strozzi, sister of Harold and Sidney Strotz, arrived at the Michigan Central station. Miss Strozzi, who adopted the original spelling of the family name for theater use, was accompanied by Lionel Atwill and other members of the cast of "The Silent Witness," opening here tonight, in which she has the leading feminine rôle. Her last local engagement was with Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife."

Public Welfare Sessions Proposed Throughout State

For the next ten days, beginning today, the extension service of the Illinois Conference on Public Welfare will sponsor a series of meetings in various communities of the state, to acquaint the population of each town with the numerous public welfare projects and their relation to civic life. The schedule includes gatherings at Galesburg, East Moline, Dixon, De Kalb, Mooseheart, Joliet, Ottawa, Kankakee, Danville, Decatur, Belleville, Alton, Quincy, Peoria, Bloomington, and other places.

Many of the leading welfare agencies of the state will assist in making the meetings a success, and prominent speakers will be drawn from the ranks of the educational and welfare workers. Rodney H. Brandon, state superintendent of public welfare, Miss Mary E. Murphy, president of the Illinois Conference on Public Welfare, and Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the Illinois commission on child welfare legislation, will appear on the programs. Dr. R. E. Hieronymous of the University of Illinois will be chairman of the gatherings, as head of the extension service.

Chicagoans Will See Section of Spanish Trail Across Panama

A section of the old Las Cruces trail, which was built across the Isthmus of Panama by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century has been taken up in its entirety and is being shipped to the new Museum of Science and Industry. There it will be placed beside a model of the Panama canal.

Across that trail the Spaniards carried the wealth they wrung from the Incas of Peru. Pirates advanced to the sack of the old City of Panama on it, and Sir Francis Drake made an ill-starred attempt to march its length and seize Spanish wealth.

When gold was discovered in California the sailing Forty-Niners, for the most part, used the ancient road. The Panama railroad followed its line closely. The section of the trail sent to the museum in the old Fine Arts building is of stone and was laid down by the Spaniards.

NEAT CLOTHING AND CLEAR ENGLISH CALLED NECESSITY FOR PASTOR

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—More ministers fail because of "spots on their vests and 'ain't' on their lips" than from any other cause, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes told a class of ?? men who were ordained to the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church today.

The ordination services were conducted as part of the annual central Illinois conference of that church. The conference started Wednesday and will end next Tuesday.

"No man should say he is sanctified to the work of our Lord when he habitually goes around looking like a pig," Bishop Hughes said. "And how can you expect a man to win souls when he makes every intelligent person in his congregation cringe every time he speaks a sentence?"

Bishop Hughes said the first thing a man needs to become a successful minister is a "calling." Cleanliness, neatness and good English, he said, often compensate for lack of other ability.

Thirteen of the candidates today were ordained to the order of elder. The other nine candidates were ordained to the order of deacon.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE first musical comedy of the season came to town last night, bearing the title of "You Said It" and the reputation of prolonged popularity in New York. Its atmosphere is collegiate; its star, part author and part owner, is Lou Holtz, a comedian of eminence in the wise-cracking world, and the Grand Opera house was filled with playgoers to whom his line of patter is a crystal fountain of refreshing humor.

Mr. Holtz undoubtedly has a way with him. One cannot say that he sings, or dances, or acts, with any degree of skill; but he keeps his audience in a gurgle of laughter, which is, no doubt, his principal purpose in life. His specialty is sly comic allusions to traits of Jewish character as found on the sidewalks of Broadway. His vein is often decidedly technical; and apparently he knows all the dialects and folklore of the European sources of Jewish immigration to these shores. I found myself a stranger to some of his merriest quips because of my lack of familiarity with Polish and the smaller cities of Galicia, but I seemed to be in a grievous minority. Nearly every one in attendance at the première appeared to be well grounded in the fundamentals of Polish culture.

Yes, the lad certainly has a way with him—a brash, curbstone, New Yorkish turn of wit, fantastically caricaturing up and coming young Semites of these United States. But last night he was somewhat too racial for me, and I failed to get a chuckle out of him until he began ridiculing the British aristocracy.

The Polish aspect of Mr. Holtz's entertainment is enhanced by the presence in the cast of Miss Lyda Roberti, Warsaw's gift to American musical comedy. She is silver blonde; she has what appears to be an authentic accent; and she is much in evidence as Mr. Holtz's chief auxiliary. A kind of central European naïveté is her stock in trade; and her high moment comes in a jam number called "Sweet and Hot," through which she toddles strangely. She was applauded, but to me she is an acquired taste of the future.

With a technician in Jewish humor as its star, and a pale Polonaise as first soubrette, "You Said It" would appear to be somewhat weak in the typical aspects of American college life, about which its story is written. Nevertheless it works energetically at the standard formula. It contains the fat, funny sophomore without whom no libretto of this type has been complete since "The College Widow"; the earnest tenor who is toiling his way through school; the sinister aristocrat who loves the co-ed who has given her heart to the fraternity house waiter, and all the other stereotypes.

"You Said It" is decidedly synthetic as a college show. It goes through all the necessary and appropriate motions, but it does not achieve the gusto that should accompany a rah-rah musical comedy. Its list of songs contain several numbers that will please the frantic young moderns, and the orchestra squawks, bleats, and rattles away in the up to date night club fashion.

52 Russian Engineers to Study in U. S. Colleges

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Fifty-two young Russian engineers, chosen in a competitive examination, arrived tonight to study for three years in American colleges.

Most of them are qualified electrical, mechanical, metallurgical, chemical, marine, and aeronautical engineers and have passed examinations given under the auspices of American instructors.

They will go to Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Lehigh, Wisconsin, Purdue, Colorado School of Mines, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Carnegie institute.

U. of C. Traces Man's Thought Down the Ages

Seek to Interpret Life in 'Humanities' Course.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In "The Humanities," the fourth and last of the general courses which are being introduced under the new plan of education at the University of Chicago, the students are led along a genetic pathway, from the dawn of human thought to the latest intellectual trends in western civilization. It is a sort of flowering course, feeding on the soil of all the narrowed, objective sciences, a synthesis of the efforts of mankind to express the meaning of life in literature, philosophy and religion.

The syllabus in this course is a compact, original survey of this unfolding process. It is edited by Hayward Keniston, professor of Spanish language, and Ferdinand Schevill, professor of modern history, under the chairmanship of Arthur P. Scott, associate professor of history.

"The term 'humanities,'" it is explained in the introduction, "was first used in the Renaissance to describe the study of the works of the classic writers, 'litterae humaniores,' more human literature.

"We regard the humanities as primarily concerned with the attempts of men to understand and feel at home in the world, whether through magic, religion, philosophy, or scientific thought, and with the expression, particularly in art and literature, of the meanings and values which men have discovered in their experience as individuals and groups.

"We should be provided with a set of spiritual values enabling us to bring a tutored understanding to bear upon the religion, the philosophy, the art, and the literature by means of which our own countrymen offer the latest version of man's eternal hopes, despairs, and dreams—eternal in their essence but ever changing in their fragile, iridescent forms."

The reading of history is an indispensable part of this course, for it is here that one comprehends the time element in human progress. The prehistoric period, it is noted in the syllabus, covered about 99 per cent of the time humanity has been in existence, and it was here that the foundations were laid for all later achievements. Since recorded history there has been an increasing rapidity of change.

Of the ancient world disclosed by geology and biology it is written:

"Near human or barely human beings seem to have existed for hundreds of thousands of years. In the long 'dawn periods' change was slow, and 'progress' consisted at most of learning to communicate by simple speech and to use the crudest tools. By 100,000 B. C., and perhaps earlier, improved tools increased men's control of nature as did the discovery of how to use and later to make fire.

"In the course of some 75,000 years we find evidence that certain new features appeared and somehow became rather widely diffused. Better implements for hunting and fishing and better clothing and shelter made life a little more secure and comfortable. Group life was probably more important.

"We are greatly interested to find that definite burials with food, weapons and ornaments seem to indicate some belief in a life after death. There are evidences that warfare and some exchange of products were not unknown in the Paleolithic [rude stone] age. Decorations, carvings and paintings begin to appear, some of them with an aesthetic appeal to us, across all the intervening centuries.

"Some 10,000 or 20,000 years B. C. we find evidences of new inventions and ways of living so important in their results as to mark a new level of culture. This is conventionally called the New Stone or Neolithic Age, from the polishing of some of the stone tools.

"Other neolithic additions to culture were pottery, weaving, the bow and arrow, dugout canoes and—most revolutionary of all—the domestication of animals and plants. With assured food population increased. Coöperative effort built lake villages, palisaded towns and great stone monuments. We may safely infer that social classes arose, with war chiefs and medicine men, and some sort of nobles, freemen and slaves.

"By 5000 B. C. the main features of the world's climate and topography were much the same as at present. The primary human races and their chief subdivisions had long since been differentiated and were settled in the general regions which have since been their principal homes. The chief families of language must have been already very old. Excavations show that a particularly high neolithic level had been reached in the region around the eastern Mediterranean from the Nile valley to the Persian plateau, and so far as we now know it was somewhere in this region that advanced barbarism gradually became early civilization through the discovery of metals and writing.

"In the favorable, yet not too easy natural environment of the river valleys of the Nile and the Tigris—Euphrates we see, in outline at least, the process of advanced neolithic peoples passing to an early civilized level of group life. Perhaps 4500 to 4000 B. C. is not too early to date this transition.

"Through fortunate accidents, the genius of forgotten inventors and the accumulated experience of generations of unknown craftsmen, a few centers learned to smelt, harden and cast iron. Out of picture writing developed the syllable writing which grew into the apparently independent hieroglyphic and cuneiform systems. Villages and towns grew into towns and city-states."

From this foundation the course enters upon a consideration of the cultures leading to Greek and Roman thought. It passes through the middle ages and the renaissance to the modern world beginning with the eighteenth century.

If Husband Enjoys Gazing at the Gals Gaze, Too, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What would you do if you had a husband who is forever gazing at every attractive female, even when you are out with him?" asks "Embarrassed."

Answer: Gaze with him. Admire the girl, too. Keep an eye peeled for a good looking one that may escape his notice. Anyway, I'd be eye and soul with him on the gazing adventures.

Then, between times, I'd try to remember that while the others just get a gaze, I was getting the clothes, the roof, the food, the position of wife, which is something when you stack it up against what the gazed after get from him. Too, I'd kid myself with the idea that I couldn't be so hard on the eyes, myself, or this pretty-girl connoisseur wouldn't have picked me for first place.

You women who are given to creating scenes over a flirtatious male eye just an eye that can't resist female beauty in any form, aren't on your job. You don't know your men. You take a silly little action and enlarge it into a vice. And before you know it, the thing swings around and hits you on the head.

You actually charge a man with an escapade. You accuse him of being a philanderer, with your jealousies. You plant the idea in the boy's head. And he takes it up as a sort of challenge.

Now if you'd show a little cooperation in his taste for beauty, the punch would go out of the scene.

As you say later in your letter, your husband likes to accuse you of being jealous. Well, you can spoil that fun easily enough.

Then, you say that you realize the women gazed at return the gaze because of gratified vanity, not because they have designs on your husband. Now, you ought to be woman enough to know that when our sex gets itself all trimmed up for the promenade, the most buoying thing that can happen is to get an approving once-over from a male eye. From a couple of male eyes.

And what happens is that the lady goes back home and puts a bit more pep into her household activities. You wouldn't begrudge your sisters that bit of tonic, now, would you, Embarrassed"? Don't you rather like to feel you're not too hard on the eye for a good gaze, yourself?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Eliminate Competition.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I like goes with some of my girl friends, too, but still he says that he likes me.

"MICKEY."

It's possible to like more than one girl at a time, Mickey. See if you can't make yourself more attractive and interesting than the others, and elliminate competition.

Food Talk.

This threatens to be an embarrassing question—have you had your "in-laws" over to dinner lately? No, you say. Well, there is no use indulging in recriminations, but you can make amends this very minute. I planned tomorrow evening's meal with the in-laws in mind. Lift your laggard left hand and take a firm hold of that convenient telephone receiver — and call their number immediately. They would love to come!

We might add casually that the dinner referred to will satisfy dad's thriftiness and mother's fastidiousness, as well as your own sense of hospitality.

Beginning with the meat balls—these are a life saver for you if you have had a busy day. They serve to combine both the meat and the potatoes into one delicious dish, and are infinitely satisfying. No ordinary meat balls, these, either!

Next in order is the salad—an old friend in a new dress. Just make your favorite combination fruit salad with a gelatine base; lemon, orange, or lime flavor is good, and also effective. Put it in a ring mold, or, if you wish to be quite festive, use the individual ring molds. When you remove them from the mold, place the salad rings on a crisp lettuce nest with a generous scoop of whipped mayonnaise in the center.

If you decide on the individual molds, you may want to serve your salad as a first course, and place it on the table before your guests seat themselves. I like to serve most of my salads in this fashion, because people invariably appreciate and relish them more than they do after a hearty meat course. Not a spanking new idea, but a practical one, especially for those without kitchen help.

Last, but never the least, is the perfect squash pie. Don't forget to complement it with a bit of cheese. Now, if your married relatives fail to appreciate your mastery of the cooking science, check them off your list of acquaintances!

STUFFED EGG AND TOMATO SALAD.

2 tablespoons of mayonnaise.
1 teaspoon of vinegar.
¼ teaspoon of salt.
5 tomatoes.

Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise. Take out the yolks; mash, and mix with salt, vinegar, and mayonnaise. Refill the egg cavities and chill thoroughly. Cut each in two lengthwise again. Serve with wedges of skinned tomatoes on nests of crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise rosettes made with a pastry tube.

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS.

¼ pound of pork, cut from the shoulder.
2 large boiled potatoes.
1 egg, hard boiled.
1 small onion.
2 tablespoons of catsup.
Pinch of salt.
Pinch of pepper.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and put through a meat grinder twice. Use the fine knife of the grinder for this. Chop the egg and onion very fine, and add to the meat with the salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Shape into balls about an inch in diameter. Fry in hot butter three minutes, turning the balls to brown well on each side. Then add one-half cup of water to the pan, and steam, closely covered, for ten minutes.

Summer Aftermath, Reclaiming the Skin, Now Faces Femmes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Well, it looks like a long, hard winter for 'ems hasn't been doing right by their faces, hair and figures, lately. To hear the dictators tell it, a gal who doesn't look the "glass of grooming" from head to toe may just as well go into retreat and not come out until the passing of the Second Empire fashions.

Exacting isn't the word for what's before us, what with the new hats, the new dresses, the new shoes, pocketbooks, and the new behavior! A tyrannical mode, that's what I call it, with one straight wisp of hair enough to condemn one as a 1910 model. And an extra pound of flesh [excess, that is] sufficient to kill one's 1932 style completely.

But, cheerio, nothing is so dark as it looks in anticipation. They're just stirring us up with threats of super-exacting modes and things so we will show some activity—a little more activity than usual, that is. We can't get by with less than that.

Anyway, there's that face back from its summer jag, with the skin ofttimes tougher'n its owner ever dreamed of being. Perhaps freckled and red—anyway, not of the soft, lily-white, ladylike quality that the Eugénie woman loved to show with her one-eyed bonnet.

That's probably what you have to look after first. There may be a mess of tan, unbecoming tan that has to be bleached with the help of some good bleaching lotion, of which, incidentally, you'll find good and popular priced ones on the market. I don't see much point in giving out formulae now for beauty lotions, as once was the popular thing to do. In the products of good manufacturers is found perfect skill in choosing and blending ingredients and a long period of study of the needs of modern skins. Too many people are unaware of their skins' needs and in the better beauty places you may have yours and its needs analyzed better than you can do it for yourself. But the point is that you must get busy early on the skin that the summer season has touched not too gently. It takes from six weeks to two months to "reclaim" the least affected ones. And those new styles are crowding in, around and down upon us.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Chilean ambassador was the breakfast guest today of the president of the Georgetown university, Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., as a guessing on the ambassador's return to his post. He formerly was ambassador here for several years. The breakfast was followed by a reception in the new hall of cardinals. There is an exhibition of gorgeous Roman vestments of gold and silver brocades. They are the gift of Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady of New York. The guests at breakfast, which was served at 1 o'clock in the new suite of the president of the university, included the apostolic delegate Archbishop Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi; the Nicaraguan minister, Dr. Don Juan de Sacasa; Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union; the counselor of the Spanish embassy, Señor Oscar Blanco Viel; Dr. William Gerry Morgan, dean of the university medical school.

Mrs. R. P. Lamont, wife of the secretary of commerce, will arrive in the capital tomorrow after a week's visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont Jr., on their ranch in Colorado.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Cobbs and Don Philippe de Rodriquez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom [illegible] in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held [illegible] and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and [illegible] at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill [illegible]. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a [illegible] in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a [illegible], who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and [illegible] shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's [illegible] to her is of a different nature.

INSTALLMENT VII.

THREE KINDS OF WOMEN.

"Don't answer now, Irma. Think it over. Here comes Bill. I'll see [illegible] tomorrow and you can tell me then."

Bill joined Irma and Wallace, talking volubly as usual. It was nice that [illegible] didn't have to listen if your brain was whirling. Irma walked between [illegible] one man. One wanted to marry her. The other didn't want to marry [illegible]. They both had asked her to stay in Thrace. She looked at the street [illegible] which they walked. This was Thrace. There could be friends here, [illegible] no more trooping, no more cheap hotels and dirty restaurants. Bill [illegible]? Suppose neither? Perhaps there was success on the stage still [illegible] if she kept plugging toward it. Certainly she wasn't in love with [illegible] of these men though each had a charm of his own.

It was Bill whom she found herself alone with after the coffee. He had [illegible] manipulated that this would be so.

"Listen, baby," he said to her in the Bartrum lobby. "I have one [illegible] I want to tell you. You remember, don't you, that I said I [illegible]? Well, that doesn't mean that I'll stop if you give me the go-by. [illegible] to tell you that I can use you at the Crystal Moon if you get sick [illegible] shooed by that mug you work for. I can use you as special in- [illegible] and head hostess. That'll pay twenty-five a week which is a darn [illegible] more than sixty-five on the road and there's commissions, gifts and [illegible] and what not in my job, see?"

"Gosh, Bill, you're sweet." She looked up at him and felt a wave of [illegible] thing for him engulf her.

"And I won't pester you either if you take the job, but of course I'll keep [illegible]."

They laughed and separated then. Irma went to her room, Bill's room [illegible] was also. So was Wallace. Three kinds of offers to stay in Thrace. [illegible] she'd come back some day and take one of them up, but she couldn't [illegible] right now as Bill and Wallace seemed to think she could. Impossible [illegible] Phil sat without a dancing partner. Maybe she would come back [illegible] maybe she wouldn't. There was always the chance that she'd take a [illegible] to the road some day and see her name in lights just ahead.

[illegible] in the theater. Phil was still sore. He had hardly spoken [illegible] since Wednesday. That was all right, too. The less he spoke, the [illegible] quarreled. Irma had not slept well. Her mind had been too busy

"Don't be frightened. I'll be back after the show."

[illegible] herself Wallace's wife, Bill's mistress, head hostess of the Crystal [illegible]. [illegible] was in the theater early. The white satin dress looked terribly [illegible]. Even though it had to be packed that night it should be pressed [illegible] for two Saturday shows.

[illegible] she was pressing it when Phil passed her dressing room and paused in [illegible].

"What are you pressing that for? It has to be packed tonight."

"I'm kidding. I thought we were in stock here."

"You needn't think you're going to wear it to that dance contest [illegible]."

"Pish!" Irma flipped a disdainful finger at the ivory satin. "I wouldn't [illegible] of wearing it. The management has presented me with a black lace [illegible] to wear."

"Oh, yeah?" Philippe disappeared. Irma left the make-up shelf upon [illegible] she was ironing and went to the threshold to watch him walk down [illegible]. There was something in the set of his shoulders and the purposeful [illegible] of his tread that aroused her curiosity. He was on the warpath. [illegible] he was knocking on the door behind which Filmore and Mardelle [illegible]. He was going in there to talk about her. It would ease his poor, [illegible] brain to have somebody tell him that he was the whole act.

When [illegible] was at the stage door after the matinée. Doubts had assailed [illegible] during her sleepless night. She was glad to be able to reassure herself [illegible] he was attractive. It would be terrible to think that a funny looking, [illegible] man had proposed to her. But no, he was tall and straight and in [illegible] suggestive of the husband in those problem plays that always [illegible] the first scene laid in Lady Ponsonby's drawing room.

[illegible] in his first words were, "Irma, have you thought it over?"

She shook her head. "Not enough, Wallace. Besides I couldn't leave [illegible], you know."

[illegible] of them noticed that her mention of Phil indicated that she [illegible] considered the matter pretty thoroughly.

"But I still have a chance, Irma?"

He waited.

"Then please think it over today and tell me tonight."

Bill sat with them while they ate. He wasn't hungry, he said. He had [illegible] thinking heavily. Irma wished he would go away. Suppose he mentioned [illegible] Wallace's presence his first offer to her? What would Wallace [illegible] of her? Certainly nothing good.

Both men accompanied Irma to the theater.

Wallace left her at the stage door. He squeezed her hand in parting [illegible] whispered, "I have to go, dear, or I wouldn't leave you with Bill. But [illegible] all right. I've seen him this way lots of times. Don't be frightened. [illegible] be back after the show."

He was gone then to attend a meeting or do one of the million other [illegible] that his position seemed to require. Bill leaned against the rack [illegible] the keys to the dressing rooms hung. He looked down at Irma and [illegible] to keep his gaze steadily upon her face. He couldn't. Occasionally [illegible] looked.

"Your old Graham," he said. "He's got it bad. He's in love. And do [illegible] know with whom? With you."

"Is that really?"

"What? You didn't know that, huh? Well, he's nuts about you. Keeps [illegible] at you all the time. Funny fellow, that Graham. Nice fellow. I [illegible] him. It's all a matter of whether you want to be a wife or not."

"What?"

"Sure. I know he took you to meet his family. A guy don't do that [illegible]. Do you want to be a wife, huh?" He tilted her chin upwards [illegible] and tried to search her face with his wavering eyes. "There's only three [illegible] of women, you know. Who said that first? Certainly it wasn't little [illegible]. Anyhow there's wives, mothers and mistresses. Every woman [illegible] one of those or a blend of two or all three. See? There's no other [illegible] to pick from. Tell me pretty maiden, which are you?"

"I'll take vanilla," Irma said.

"That's just it. There's no vanilla. There's only wives, mothers and [illegible]. If there was vanilla I'd take some myself. You see if you're [illegible] with them it's just too bad. You're supposed to be a mathematician, a [illegible] and a dietitian. You're supposed to be good humored all the [illegible], you're supposed to know where Wally left his keys, his laundry and [illegible]. And besides that Wally will snore and walk in while you're bathing [illegible] tell you that all your clothes are terrible and look worried if you ask for [illegible] more. That's being a wife and I'm not fooling. Some of my [illegible] wives were wives and I know all about it."

"But it must have a sunny side," Irma ventured.

"Sure, it has. The first ten days. They're grand because your husband [illegible] treating you as though you were a mistress. He's attentive, anxious [illegible], respectful of your whims. After that, well, it becomes marriage."

[illegible] swayed slightly and clutched the key rack. "I'd take marriage, [illegible] if I had no imagination," he said. "But I have one. Somehow I can see [illegible] standing in my B. V. D.'s, shaving and swearing, while you flounce in and [illegible] of the bathroom looking for baby's milk of magnesia. No, thanks. I [illegible] you to the old orange blossoms, kid, but I'll still have something [illegible] husband won't have and that's glamour. My God, I'm drunk."

[illegible] doorman clumped into view and settled himself on the rickety [illegible] four feet away from where they stood. He unfolded a newspaper and [illegible] to read.

Irma said, "Well, Bill, I have to go get dressed now. I'll see you at [illegible] eleven."

"O. K., baby. But you're going to be my little girl, aren't you? You're [illegible] to let all City Hall in on your private affairs, are you?"

"You get sober and I'll tell you tonight."

"All right. I'll go drink black coffee and call back for you."

He started away then but was delayed by a new angle on the marriage [illegible]. By the time he left, Irma had to rush in order to be ready.

Mrs. Coolidge Sails Soon for Concerts Abroad

BY THALIA

NEWS of Mrs. Frederic Sprague Coolidge's good works as one of the foremost patrons of music of this era is broadcast throughout the world, but her own private comings and goings are more difficult to discern.

It was just about a year ago now that she was in Chicago and gave her Chicago Festival of Chamber Music in the James Simpson auditorium of the Field museum. This season she is embarked on an even larger enterprise, the presentation of 14 chamber music concerts to be given in European cities, as announced in the columns devoted to music several weeks ago.

Mrs. Coolidge has been at her place in Pittsfield recently and is to sail on Friday for London to make final arrangements for the continental series. It is to open Oct. 10 with a program in Moscow and concludes with one in Naples on Nov. 18. The concerts to be given in Russia, Germany, France, Austria, and Italy are to be devoted to the works of contemporary composers, several of whom are to appear on the programs.

Indications of Mrs. Coolidge's universal importance as a consistent and continuous supporter of music and musicians are many. In a recent Paris TRIBUNE appears the news of the European concerts, and the comment that a few months ago Mrs. Coolidge served on a committee which raised funds for Debussy monuments in Paris. In a Santa Barbara newspaper the concerts again are mentioned, and the fact that Mrs. Coolidge presented the Brosa string quartet in concert in Santa Barbara last spring. And in the New York papers you read about the various activities of the Berkshire music colony which she founded and the annual Berkshire music festival.

Bertha Palmer, Oakleigh T. Lewis Will Be Married Today.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, to Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, son of Mrs. Philip S. Chancellor, is to be solemnized at noon today at the Palmers' summer estate, Hare Forest, at Bar Harbor, Me. The Rev. Albert Wilson of St. Georges-by-the-Sea, Rumson, N. J., an old friend of the bridegroom's parents, is to read the service, which will be followed by a wedding luncheon. The wedding is to be very simple, and the wedding guests will include only members of the families and the Chicagoans who are still at their Bar Harbor places. Miss Palmer's subdeb sister, Miss Pauline, is to be her only attendant, and Dr. Chancellor is to be best man for his son.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Herman H. Kohlsaat, and her uncle and aunt, the Roger Shepards of St. Paul, are to be present, and the summer colonists will include Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick and her daughter, Miss Eleanor, who returned to Bar Harbor this week, after a trip to Chicago; the Harold A. Howards, the Walter Ayers and their daughter, Miss Janet Ayer. It is understood that Mr. Lewis and his bride will come to Chicago to visit her parents during the Christmas holidays.

The Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare society, which has had charge of selling tickets and parking space for the polo games at Oakbrook this summer, is managing the ticket sale for the Central Opera championship polo match, to be known this year as the Tex Crites memorial as a tribute to the late polo player. Two all-star teams, Army players and Oakbrook members, will play the match next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A long list of important patronesses sponsors the match.

Art Institute Will Give Reception on Oct. 29.

Timely topics—The Art Institute's annual reception is to be on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 29, coincident with the opening of the annual exhibition of American Paintings and Sculpture. . . . The marriage of Miss Jean Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Adams, and Samuel Carson Pirie Jr. is to take place the same afternoon at St. Chrysostom's with a reception at the Drake following. . . . More boxes have been sold for the St. Luke's fashion show to be held Oct. 20 than were disposed of by this time last year and also the year before. . . . Junior Leaguers are going to meet Hugh Lofting, author of the book from which their first children's play, "The Strange Adventures of Dr. Doolittle" is taken, when he arrives in Chicago this morning. Rehearsals for the play have already started, and Helen Rend is working on the music. . . . None of the Chicagoans who sometimes go to the annual Meadowbrook polo matches and steeplechase went this year, as far as we could discover.

The Kenwood Social Service club plans to have its annual theater benefit earlier this year than usual, on Monday evening, Oct. 19. The organization is taking over the Third Little Show for that evening, the proceeds to go to the Infant Welfare society. Mrs. Henry W. Jones will be hostess this afternoon for the second meeting of the season.

Personal—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson, who set forth last November for a trip around the world, are to sail from England on Oct. 15 on the last phase of their extended journey . . . The H. Conway Olmsteds (Mary Elizabeth Johnston) went to Honolulu on their wedding trip and are to live at 1209 Astor street after Nov. 1. Mr. Olmsted is with the Continental Illinois bank . . . Two of the bridesmaids in the Johnston-Olmsted wedding, Dorothy Ranney and Jean Stevenson, went up to the Ranneys' place at Harbor Point for an autumn stay . . . Mrs. Karen Stevenson still is in Santa Barbara . . . Potter Palmer III. has bought one of the apartments in the 1260 Astor street building, just diagonally across the street from the 1301 Astor street building, wherein the senior Palmers dwell, for occupancy after his marriage next spring to Miss Rose Saltonstall Movius of Boston . . . Mr. and Mrs. Farley Hopkins and their daughter, Shirley, arrived in Los Angeles last Thursday.

Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury has been having a house party of Maine relatives at Tor court, Pittsfield, before she closes it for the season. Her guests included her brother, Wilder Kimball, Mrs. Kimball, Miss Evaline Kimball, Warren and Miss Madeline Abbott, and Miss Lucile Hicks, all of Rumford Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Brown Caldwell have been visiting the James Ransom Walkers, who also have as their guest Arthur Meeker Jr., who landed from Europe last Wednesday. Mr. Frederick T. West has been moved from the House of Mercy hospital and is convalescing at the Wests' residence, Cout Hill. The Wirt Walkers have returned to Chicago.

FUNDAMENTALISM IS AGAIN SUBMITTED TO EPISCOPALIANS

Denver, Colo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Injection of the fundamentalist-modernist fight into the convention of the Protestant Episcopal church today offered another moot question for delegates already at odds over divorce and other important religious differences.

Henry S. Booth, lay delegate from Detroit, made discussion of the strict interpretation of the Bible possible by offering a resolution in the house of deputies seeking to relieve ministers from the obligation of such a presentment of either creeds or the Bible.

The resolution was not considered kindly by those delegates hopeful of adjournment Wednesday, the tentative date already set.

Appointment of a conference committee to attempt to smooth out divorce opinion differences was a possibility cited by leaders. Creation of such a group was advocated yesterday after a committee of the house of bishops rejected a proposed matrimonial canon, approved Friday by the house of deputies, which would have established ecclesiastical courts with authority to grant communicant rights to divorced persons.

The house of bishops committee offered a substitute proposal which, agreeing in most respects with the deputies' measure, differs as to the status of remarried divorced persons.

Other matters upon which the convention has not definitely acted are numerous.

The so-called High and Low churchmen are not agreed upon the use of the American missal—mass book. A difference of opinion on the wisdom and advisability of retaining the 18th amendment in its present form has been admitted.

The Experiences of Others Are Helpful in Adoption Cases

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

You know how it is when you decide to thin down that pile of newspapers in the back hall or throw away some of the magazines that accumulate so fast on the living room table. Here's an article on Russia you meant to save, and here's that recipe for nut fudge cake that appeared Sunday before last, and you linger over this sketch of one of the new cocky little romantic hats which might be a possible style for you—and first thing you know an hour has gone by and you've scarcely thinned down the pile at all.

In a similar predicament I found myself this morning when I took out a certain folder of letters to look over. They are letters concerning adoption. I wanted to choose several for the column for this week and I found it almost impossible to make a selection. Each one was so eloquent or so helpful, or presented such an important angle that I could scarcely put it aside in favor of another. At last, however, time was running away with me so fast that I stopped before I had gotten very deep and made a choice.

The reason for going over this material lay in the fact that the correspondence has made it necessary to go again into two aspects of the matter of adoption. One is, should an adopted child be told that it is adopted? And the other is, how and what should it be told? The answers, it seemed to me, would be most convincing if presented in the words of foster mothers. So for a few days this week these especially helpful letters will appear in this column.

For those who are inexperienced in handling children the brief reading suggested in our short "Child Management List" will be very helpful. It will be sent out on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fur Trimmed Frocks Smart for Winter Wear

DOROTHY DULIN PARIS

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—In the new Paris fashion parade now passing there are literally hundreds of fur trimmed dresses for almost every hour of the day and evening. The best of these have fur so applied that it can be removed, so that they may be worn with or without.

A clever fur beturnished frock to wear without coat for fall is shown in the sketch today. It is from Paul Poiret, and apart from its fur trimming it has other new style points that I want you to consider.

First of all is the color, which is a warm, light, reddish brown, one of the important daytime shades for this winter. All the rusty reds and browns are favored by Paris style kings and queens. Secondly, there is the material, which is a fine, silky smooth woolen with a tiny diagonal rib, rather widely spaced—this also is most chic.

Thirdly, the silhouette! This, girls, is the 1931 version of the 1860-and-thereabouts, pinched, rounded shoulder, fitted bodice, full [but not crinolined] skirt style. You will find this type of silhouette in the Patou and other great collections besides Poiret's.

The bodice of this pictured model has raglan sleeves that give a sloping, rounded shoulder line, and these sleeves end in removable puffs of darkest brown astrakhan. The scarf, which has looped ends, is held on by a long barette of tortoise shell, and when removed leaves a plain round neckline close to the base of the neck. The waistline is outlined by a wide belt of dark brown astrakhan fastened at the side by hooks and eyes. The skirt is a full circle of cloth trimmed with sunray tucks from waist to hem.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford will shortly leave Hollywood for a 15,000 mile air jaunt into the Brazilian jungles, to the head waters of the Amazon. Doug said today that his plans already are tentatively drawn and combine pleasure with business, in that he will take camera men and sound equipment along, and make a travelog of the expedition. The party will leave in December, and will be carried most of the distance in two amphibian planes over regularly charted air lines.

The first hop will be Los Angeles to Mexico City, via west coast towns in Mexico, then over the Mayan regions and through Central America down the west coast of South America to Santiago, Chile. From Chile they will cross the Andes to Uruguay if the present itinerary is followed, and thence up the Atlantic coast to Rio de Janeiro and to the Amazon.

Victor Fleming, the film director, who is a great friend of Doug, will be in the party. Doug said, "It is problematical whether Mary will fly with us from here down to the South American continent in what seem the least desirable portions of the journey, to her, at least. Mary dislikes flying. In case she doesn't go with us at first, she will join us in some South American city." Fairbanks has virtually quit the making of featured motion pictures in Hollywood, but this does not mean he has decided to stop appearing on the camera, he said, as he thinks the adventure film with an actual travel background is the coming box office wow.

Charles Ruggles, actor and brother of Wesley Ruggles, director, announced the coming marriage of his brother and Arline Judge, 20 year old featured actress in Ruggles' current film, "Are These Our Children," at a buffet dinner last night following the St. Mary's-Southern California football game.

The ceremony will follow the finishing of a picture. Miss Judge is a New York girl with Radio pictures. Wesley Ruggles directed "Cimmaron."

What Lilyan Tashman Wears Is Fashion News

When Hollywood's best dressed actress comes to town, the news isn't where she is going, but what she is wearing. Therefore when Lilyan Tashman, who has defended her title against all comers for the last year or so, arrived in Chicago yesterday on her way to New York, it became of secondary importance that husband Edmund Lowe, of some celluloid renown in his own right, was along.

What really mattered was that the dictator in things sartorial was sporting a chinchilla jacquette over a "spectator sports" dress of gray on smart tailored lines, with a narrow belt and kick pleats at the center front; that her chapeau was a narrow brimmed sport model in gray felt, and that a slender silver anklet gleamed through the film of gray chiffon hose above her gray suede pumps.

TAYLOR HITS 2; BARTON'S DRIVE WINS 2D GAME

Four Pitchers Tune Up for City Series.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Although nothing more than amusement was involved, the Cubs refused to be the genial hosts yesterday before drawing the curtain on the 1931 campaign. Instead they harmonized on a home run theme as their season's record, thereby registering a double triumph over the fifth place Pirates. The scores were 3 to 1 and 8 to 4, giving the Wrigley field occupants 14 victories out of 22 over Pittsburgh for the year and 10 victories in their last 15 attempts.

Both decisions were achieved despite the fact that Manager Hornsby sandwiched the win idea to the proper servicing of his pitchers for the impending city series. Charley Root took charge of the first battle, but after five innings, with a slim lead, gave way to Bob Smith. The latter, although beset with trouble, was able to save Root's 17th victory of the season. Then Guy Bush, also seeking his 17th, came along in the second game, but he was batted off the job and Pat Malone stepped in to pull by a belated rally staged by his mates.

Barton Clears Bases.

The home run theme in which Dan Taylor, Charley Grimm, and Vin Barton played the leads was important enough to account for seven of the runs harvested by the Cubs in the two games. Homers by Taylor and Grimm provided the winning margin in the Root-Smith affair against Heine Meine. Taylor furnished another in the second battle while Glen Spencer was pitching. But it remained for Barton to do it up properly just after Taylor had been banished. With two runs already across in the seventh, the score tied and three on the bases, Barton sent the 13th home run of his brief career out of the park. That's what gave Malone the verdict.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs expended a lot of energy getting one run in the opening inning of the first game. It took three hits and a pass. English and Herman were set down before Cuyler started a scoring incident with a single to right. Bell hit safely in the same direction and Cuyler dashed to third. A pass to Barton filled the bases. Dan Taylor singled and Cuyler scored. Jones caught Grimm's liner.

A pair of hits, one a popup which fooled Herman in short center, put Root on the defensive in the third, but he emerged unscathed. In celebration of this escape D. Taylor socked up with two out in the home half and drove his homer into the right field bleachers. The Cubs also made a threat in the fourth.

Pirates Score in Fourth.

The Pirates picked up another pair of hits off Root in the fourth and this time got a man around to the plate. Traynor got a single on a grounder which baffled Herman. He moved to second on an infield out and home on a Piet's single to center. Piet stole second and continued to third on Bettencourt's wide throw, but Sankey couldn't bring him in. Shortly after Vic Grimm offset the Pitt run. With two out in the fifth he whacked his liner to right, the ball hitting the top of the screen just inside the line and bounding out of the park.

The disturbance that put the decision in the balance for a few minutes in the ninth opened with a single to left by P. Waner. Piet flied out to Grantham, batting for Sankey, lined a hit to short left. Brame batting for Finney and hammered a ball one close to third. Bell knocked it down, recovered and dove for the bag. To all appearances he beat P. Waner easily, but Umpire McGrew viewed differently. Smith didn't let the decision annoy him. He fanned Suhr, batting for Meine, and the game ended on Lloyd Waner's fly to Cuyler.

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 27.—The Green Bay Packers, two time National Professional Football league champions, today scored their third triumph of the year in defense of their title by defeating the Chicago Bears before a record breaking crowd of 13,000. The score was 7 to 0.

It was the Packers' 11th victory over the Bears since they began their series ten years ago.

After punting had dominated play in the first period, the Packers seized upon a scoring opportunity that led to the only touchdown early in the second period. Lintzenich, Bears' half back, fumbled on his own 22 yard line. Dilweg recovered. A five yard gain through the line and a Bears' offside penalty moved the ball to the Bears' 12 yard line. McCrary lost three yards on a buck, but more than made it up on the next play when he crashed off left tackle for nine yards.

Lewellen Goes Over.

Lewellen, who had replaced Hank Bruder in the Packers' back field, then picked up three yards and McCrary added another. He was injured on the play and had to give away to Molenda as the first quarter ended.

Molenda advanced the ball a yard and a half on the first play of the second period and on the next play Lewellen took it over. Dunn, who went in for Fitzgibbon at the beginning of the quarter, added the extra point with a place kick.

The Packers outplayed the Bears practically throughout the game. The Chicagoans never moved nearer the Green Bay goal than the 15 yard line. In the fourth quarter, with a chance to tie the score, H. Grange's valiant effort through passes fell short when his toss on the fourth down dropped incomplete.

Bears' Threat Fails.

In the brief time Dick Nesbitt played the former Drake star gained more ground on two plunges than any other Bear back. In Lintzenich's place in the last minute Nesbitt made two successive rushes for 22 yards and two first downs. Interference was ruled on a pass from Walquist, giving the Bears three straight first downs. This, with their threat in the third quarter, constituted the Chicagoans' greatest menaces.

The Bears tried desperately to continue this offensive in the final minutes, but after they had proceeded to near midfield a pass fell into the arms of Lewellen just as the final whistle sounded.

The Bears' third quarter threat was a procession of passes and line plunges that worked the ball from their own 39 yard line to the Packers' 20 yard line. It ended then when Dilweg and Bowdoin threw Brumbaugh for a 15 yard loss, forcing Lintzenich to kick on the next play.

Penalties Stop Bears.

Penalties interfered with the effectiveness of the Bears' offensive. Time after time when it appeared they were started they suffered an official setback. Seven such penalties cost them 105 yards. The Packers obviously had looked for the Bears' aerial attack as their chief weapon and were well fortified to stop it.

The Packers had several other chances to score, notably in the third quarter, but were repulsed by the heavy Bears' line. The work of Stahlman, Nash, Dilweg and Don Carlos was the feature of the Packers' defense. Englemann, Molenda and Blood, especially Blood, with his punting, were the backfield standouts. Had it not been for that costly fumble the outcome might well have been scoreless.

GIANTS, 14; PROVIDENCE, 7.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The New York Giants opened the National Professional Football league season here today with a 14 to 6 victory over Providence. The Giants scored on a long forward pass, Flenniken to Campbell, and on a short plunge by Flenniken after a 15 yard Providence penalty.

SOX HELP BROWNS TO FIFTH PLACE; LOSE, 10-8, 2-1

Error Costly to Weiland in Second Game.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Browns climbed to fifth place in the American league by whipping the White Sox in a double header today, 10 to 8 and 2 to 1.

The second contest was a duel between Blaeholder and Weiland, the St. Louis hurler winning the decision when his mates scored a run in the eighth.

The winning run came after an error by Kerr, who had a double play made to order. With one out, Schulte singled. Burns then hit a grounder straight to Kerr, who fumbled and both runners were safe. Goslin forced Burns at second and it looked as if Weiland might escape, but Kress doubled to left, scoring Schulte.

Jolley Hits Homer.

The opening game was a slugging affair with first one team and then the other taking the lead. The Browns had a 7 to 4 lead going into the eighth, but a homer by Smead Jolley with a man on, after one run had already been made in the inning, tied the score.

The Browns came back in their half to pound Garland, who had replaced Bowler, for three runs. Two hits, an error, and two walks were bunched in this inning.

FIRST GAME

Sam Gray had a 7 to 4 lead over the Sox going into the eighth, but the Chicagoans tied the score, largely due to Jolley's homer. Watwood, batting for Bowler, singled, and advanced to third on a sacrifice and infield out. Norman, who replaced Reynolds as center fielder in the sixth, singled, scoring Watwood. Jolley followed with a homer over the right field stands and the score was 7 to 7.

The Browns didn't waste time clinching the verdict with three runs off Garland in their half. Gray walked Garland in their half. Gray walked and went to second on Schulte's sacrifice. Burns' double scored Gray. Goslin walked and Kress singled, scoring Burns and sending Goslin to third. Melillo hit to Sullivan, who made a bad throw to second, Goslin scoring. Kress was caught at the plate on Bettencourt's grounder. A walk to Ferrell followed, but Levey fanned.

The Sox gained a 4 to 3 lead when they scored three runs in the third, but the Browns came back, with two in their half.

SECOND GAME

The White Sox were the first to score in the second game, getting a run off George Blaeholder in the fourth inning. Campbell singled to center and after Watwood had fanned, Sullivan singled to right, sending Campbell to third. Norman's fly to center scored Campbell.

The Browns evened the score in the fifth. Melillo's grounder was too hot for Cissell, and it went for a single. Bettencourt walked and Melillo went to third on Bengough's fly to Norman. Levey's fly to Norman scored Melillo.

Blue Falls in Pinch.

The Sox had an opportunity to score in the eighth. With two out Jolley singled to center and went to third on Campbell's third hit, a double to right. But Blue, who took Watwood's place at first in the sixth, fled to Bettencourt, ending the inning.

Kerr's error paved the way for the Browns' winning run in the eighth. After Blaeholder opened the inning with a strike out, Schulte singled through Cissell. Then Burns hit a double play ball to Kerr, who fumbled and both runners were safe. Goslin forced Burns at second, but Kress' double scored Schulte.

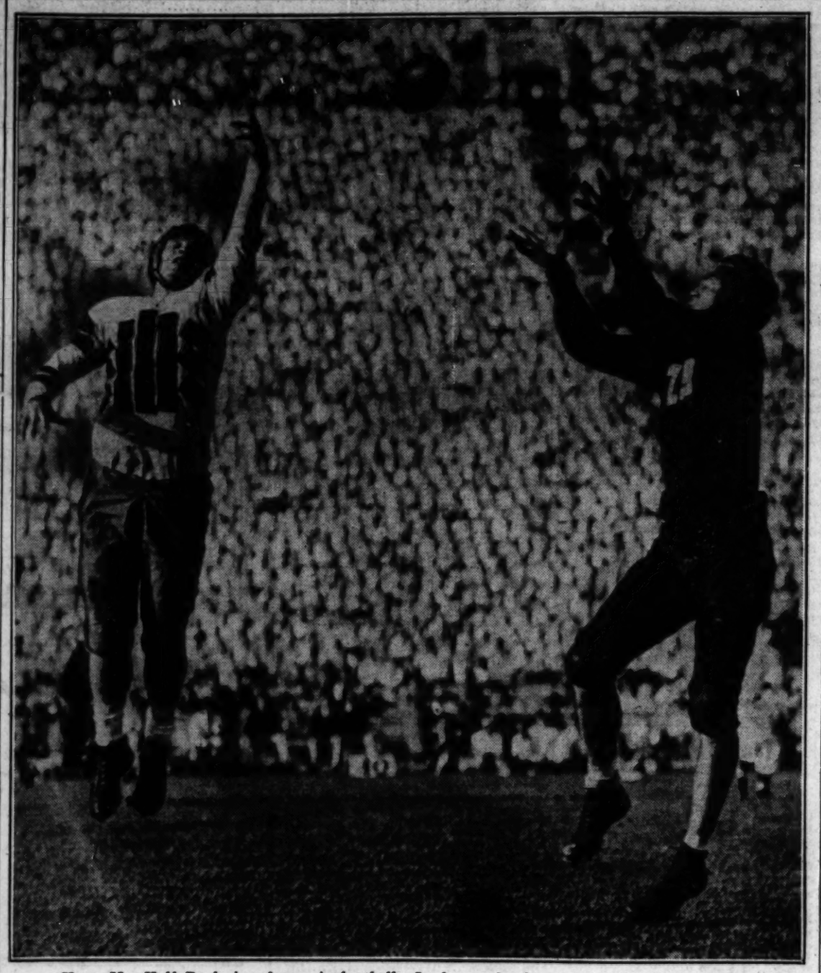
THE PLAY THAT BEAT TROJANS



Here, Mr. Half Back, is a lesson in football. It shows what happens when you allow a pass receiver to get behind you. Gaius Shaver, University of Southern California half back (left) did, and he had no chance to stop Canrinus of St. Mary's (right) from receiving this pass. On this play Canrinus scored the touchdown which beat U. S. C., 13 to 7, Saturday. [Acme Photo.]

Des Moines Beats Wichita Twice in Western Playoff

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Des Moines took a big lead in the Western league playoff by defeating Wichita here in both ends of a double header, winning the afternoon game, 6 to 1, and the nightcap, 6 to 3. Their double victory gave the Imps a lead of 2 to 1 in the series.

35,000 SEE VINES BEAT PERRY IN TENNIS FINAL

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, University of Southern California sophomore, made an impressive comeback here today to defeat Frederick Perry, English Davis cup player, and retain his Pacific southwest tennis title. The scores were 3-10, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

The national singles champion had difficulty in getting his placements and service functioning properly in the first three sets. He was guilty of 23 double faults.

The victory gave Vines his thirteenth championship of the year. Thirty-five thousand spectators, a capacity crowd, cheered as he won.

3 Hit .348 in N. L.; Gehrig Ties Ruth's 46

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The batting and slugging races in the major leagues this year wound up in about as tight a deadlock as any one could ask. The two big battles, the home run race between Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, and the struggle for the batting leadership of the National league ended with no decision, at least until the official averages come out.

Gehrig tied Ruth in the final game by hitting his 46th homer of the season. They were both well ahead of the National league leader, Chuck Klein, who hit 31 for the year. The two leagues had 1,069 homers for the season, some 500 short of the 1930 total.

It took an extra decimal place in the unofficial averages to separate the three National league rivals, Chick Hafey and Jim Bottomley of St. Louis, and Bill Terry of New York, the 1930 National league champion. Bottomley came up on the final day, making four hits in eight trips to the plate, but could not get out of third place. Hafey, with two hits out of eight, and Terry, with one in four tries, lost a little ground, but remained first and second, respectively.

YANKEES POUND GROVE TO DEFEAT A'S IN FINAL, 13-1

Gehrig Hits 46th Homer to Tie Ruth.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Yankees ended the season today by pounding a trio of the Athletics' star pitchers for 20 hits to win, 13 to 1.

Lefty Grove started and was shelled for five runs and eight hits in three innings, to lose his fourth game and his first to the Yankees. He ended the season with 31 victories, to attain the highest percentage of a modern pitcher with a mark of .886. Joe Wood of Boston had .872 in 1912, winning 34 and losing 5. Earnshaw and Walberg followed, and they were treated just as roughly by the Yankee sluggers.

Lou Gehrig hit his 46th homer, to tie Babe Ruth for the season. Dickey and Lazzeri each made four hits to lead the Yankee attack. Score:

FOOTBALL FOR the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The touchdown ordinarily demonstrates complete success for the offense in football. The field goal is a half way measure designed to score when the attack cannot penetrate the defense consistently. The safety, in reality, is a left handed score. It may be considered a penalty on the defense whose misplays or weakness have forced it to down the ball behind its own goal line.

The offense, in nearly all instances, scores a touchdown either by running with the ball or forward passing it. The run may be combined with the pass.

Historically, modern football was invented 25 years ago. On Jan. 12, 1906 a joint rules committee met which selected the forward pass as the instrument football needed to break up the close line play which had caused many injuries and was rapidly losing public favor. The joint committee was organized following a revolt by 28 universities against the accepted style of play.

Rules Framed to Protect Players.

The forward pass has opened up the game. Thousands now see the individual in action unobstructed by a mass of milling players. The spectator still cannot see what happens on a direct smash into the line, but such plays ordinarily are only a small percentage of the offense.

The rule makers also have, with additions from year to year, compiled a code which protects the players as much as is possible in a violent body contact game. These prohibitions and permissions have been balanced so that the attack does not have an advantage which the defense theoretically cannot meet. Whether it can be met physically, of course, is beside the point.

Line play for the defense centers on the use of the hands.

All fans probably know that the players of the team with the ball cannot use their hands or arms except when they are held close to the body. The ball carrier, however, is not denied this right. He can use his hand to ward off tacklers. This restriction has made the offense a team of blockers interposing their bodies in the way of the defending players.

Fellow teammates may not shove or pull the runner.

Piling on Ball Carrier Dangerous.

If the players on the defense hold, the penalty is loss of five yards. Use of the hands is restricted to shoving or pulling blockers out of the way so as to reach the man carrying the ball.

No player at any time is permitted to [1] strike with the fist or elbows, [2] strike with locked hands, [3] with his knee, [4] kick, or [5] strike an opponent's face with the heel, back or side of the hands. These personal fouls, since they injure, are punished with disqualification from the game and loss of half of the distance to the offending team's goal line.

Piling on or jumping on a player with the ball after he has been downed draws a 15 yard penalty.

Unnecessary roughness [the penalty is 15 yards] includes tripping, tackling the runner out of bounds, throwing the runner to the ground purposely after the ball has been declared dead or striking opposing linemen on the head, neck or face with the palm of the hand, unless the blow is accompanied by a forward movement of the body.

On the other side of the ledger the runner is not permitted to crawl along the ground before the ball is called dead. He may get up and run, but crawling is forbidden, since it may lead to the runner's injury. The penalty is five yards. The runner may not hurdle an opponent [jump with both feet], under penalty of 15 yards.

Officials' Signals Are Unsatisfactory.

Unsportsmanlike conduct [profanity, insulting language, and so on] are punishable with loss of 15 yards or in some cases an added disqualification.

These fouls, especially in the line, are not seen by the spectator. They cannot be seen. When these penalties, and others, which have not been detailed, are inflicted, they frequently surprise the spectator whose attention has been centered on the ball

CARDINALS CLOSE BY BEATING REDS TWICE, 6-2, 5-3

Cincinnati Breaks Double Play Record with 195.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, National league champions, closed the season here today with a double victory over the Reds, 6 to 2 and 5 to 3, to make it 20 victories out of the 22 games with the Reds this year.

Bottomley made four hits out of eight times up in the double bill, including a home run in the first game with one on base. The Reds broke their own double play record of 194, made in 1928, when they completed three in the second game, to run the year's total to 195. Scores:

ROBINS WIN, 12-2.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Robins finished in a tie with the Giants on the season series, ten victories to ten defeats, when darkness halted the second game of a season closing double header today after three innings. The Robins won the first game, 12 to 2.

HARRIDGE NAMES M'GOWAN, NALLIN TO UMPIRE SERIES

President William Harridge of the American league yesterday named Richard F. Nallin and William A. McGowan as the junior circuit umpires for the world series.

He also selected Clarence B. Owens and George Hildebrand for the Chicago city series.

KLEM AND STARK NAMED.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, today named William J. Klem and Albert [Dolly] Stark to serve as umpires for the world's series.

Heydler also announced the appointment of Ernest Quigley and George Magerkurth to serve as umpires for the Chicago city series.

South Parks Team Wins A.A.U. Track Championship

Athletes representing the south parks system captured the 31st annual Central A. A. U. track and field meet at Ogden park with 72 points. The Illinois Athletic club placed second with 44, and the German-American Athletic association, third with 35 points.

SMITTY—THE RESCUE PARTY

Three Climb Out of Depths to Mack's World Series Wagon

[This is the last of a series of sketches on the Philadelphia Athletics.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Kicked upstairs from second division clubs, there are three young men on the Athletics' roster who may not even be named in the world series this year, but will get their fair, full shares of the money anyway.

Walte Hoyt, the pitcher; John Heving, the catcher, and Phil Todt, the first baseman, came to the Athletics at the waiver price of $7,500: Hoyt from the Tigers and the other two from the Boston Red Sox. Hoyt, the old boy prodigy, who broke into the major leagues as an apprentice pitcher for the Giants at the age of 17, was having a bad time of it in Detroit this year. He had been a member of that great club of Yankees which won pennants with a stein on the table and a good song ringing clear. But after the Yanks began to come apart he was one of those who had to go and the Tigers got him in a trade.

As to social habits, Hoyt is not the sort of young man whom Connie Mack ordinarily prefers. He likes the night, and if refreshments are flowing he doesn't mind if he do. Back in the great days of the Yankees not many questions were asked of the athletes as long as they produced. One night in St. Louis, when they were going their best, for instance, a group of the athletes came prancing home at 4 a. m., and gathered under Miller Huggins' window to yell, "O, Miller, your ball club is plastered again." Mr. Huggins turned over on the other ear and ignored all this. A great winner can justify his own training methods.

Tigers Ask for Waivers, but Connie Won't Waive.

But at last Huggins died and the Yankees disintegrated and Hoyt was shipped off to the Tigers, where he had no fun and couldn't win games. He was very miserable there and when at last he asked Bucky Harris to release him, Harris thought very well of the idea. So Harris asked for waivers and Connie Mack refused to waive, and that is how he came to spend most of this season with the Athletics and win 11 games. His revival was sudden and due in part to the superior support which the A's gave him and also in part to a rekindling of ambition and confidence.

Connie might keep him another year or so, but he frankly doesn't like Hoyt's attitude toward the game. Waite was so successful so young that he is blasé now and pitching is work, whereas Connie likes players best who regard the game as fun. Then, too, Connie, though he won't plead guilty of prohibition sentiments, prefers a player who doesn't drink anything, ever.

However, here is Hoyt back on a world series club again for his seventh share of the money, and that by a wonderful break of luck. He has made more than $30,000 in world series money alone in the last ten years.

LUCKY

JOHN HEVING. PHIL TODT.

Walter Johnson was pitching longer than that before he ever earned a dime of world series money, and George Sisler never did have the luck to play on a world series team.

Heving and Todt Just a Part of Background.

Heving and Todt are two of those colorless, efficient unfortunates who come along to serve their time out all unnoticed as background to throw the great ones into prominence. The truth about Todt is that he is the most stylish and accurate fielder, all in a quiet way, in ten years' time.

But he can't hit and he has no confidence at bat, so as a ball player he is something like a suit of clothes without the pants.

Heving has been around for several years, a competent journeyman catcher, a quiet drudge known as Honest John. He knows the score at all times, but he works with no more inspiration than a man down a ditch and neither does he hit any too well, so that's how it is about three boys who had no idea of landing in a world series this year until the dice fell right.

CUBS' HOME RUNS BEAT PIRATES IN 2 GAMES, 3-1, 8-4

homer of the day. With a count of one ball and one strike he drove the ball into the space behind the right field screen.

The Pirates started to move out in front in the third when, with one out, Jensen beat out a slow roller toward Bell. He went to third on Suhr's single to right and home on Traynor's force of Suhr, which would have been a double play if English had relayed accurately to Grimm, P. Waner beat out a hit to Herman and when Piet singled to left Traynor scored. Sankey also singled to left and P. Waner registered. Bush then walked Grace as a matter of caution and fanned Spencer to close the inning.

Bell Drives In Cuyler.

The Cubs started off in a boisterous fashion in the fourth, but were suddenly choked off with only one run. Cuyler opened the inning by lining a single to center. Bell crashed one down the right field line and by the time P. Waner finished playing billiards with the ball, Cuyler was across the plate and Bell was on third. The next three batters couldn't bring Bell home.

Just so Mr. Malone might not think too well of himself as a pitcher, the Pirates made three hits and a run in the seventh. Traynor led off with a single to left and P. Waner singled to right. Piet bunted and Hemsley, by a daring play he probably wouldn't have attempted in a game of importance, whipped out Traynor at third. Sankey singled into center to score P. Waner. Grace then flied out and Sankey was caught when he tried to go to second on what otherwise would have been a wild pitch.

Hemsley Starts Winning Rally.

Hemsley bounced a single over Traynor's head in the seventh, and that started the Cubs on the winning rally which Barton completed so effectively with his homer. Malone's grounder to Suhr forced Hemsley and Malone would have been doubled if Sankey had returned the throw properly. Passes to English and Herman filled the bases. Two runs scored on Cuyler's double to right. There was a lull while Brame strolled in from the bull pen to supplant Spencer. The newcomer loaded the bases by walking Bell and Barton promptly cleared 'em with his No. 13 homer into the right field seats.

ANDERSON CALLS NOTRE DAME VARSITY TERRIBLE

Extra Work Likely Before Indiana Game.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—"They looked terrible." That was the way Coach Heartly Anderson today summed up the appearance of the Notre Dame varsity in Saturday's Indiana memorial game.

"The line wasn't blocking, the backs were not hitting the right holes when there were any holes, and team play in general was ragged," Anderson added.

From this it may be gathered there will be plenty of work for Notre Dame this week. The Irish open their season Saturday at Bloomington against Indiana, which stopped Ohio university's 19 game streak. In defeating the Buckeye conference champions, Indiana didn't show a thing, according to the scouts.

Injuries to Mike Koken, left half, and Steve Banas, full back, were both of a minor nature, it was learned today, and both boys will be back in uniform tomorrow. Nick Lukats, injured full back, also is expected to report, although he will not be able to do any heavy work.

"Banas and Brancheau," said Anderson, "both fitted nicely into their positions and they were working Saturday. That is more than I can say for some of the others who seem to have no sure of their positions."

HARD GAME FOR ILLINI

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—St. Louis university looms as a tough opponent for the Illini, who began training tomorrow for their opening game here Saturday. Scheduled to give Illinois experience against the Notre Dame shift which will be met at Purdue Oct. 10, St. Louis, on the basis of the reports of scouts, will be a major contest in itself.

Although the freshmen held the varsity to two touchdowns yesterday, Coach Zuppke was not surprised. The game gave valuable information on the ability of his candidates.

Dave Cook's first appearance in an Illinois suit revealed he has talent, but that he has considerable to learn in all around play. Gil Berry has improved, but must correct a tendency to fumble.

NEBRASKA WORRIES N. U.

Northwestern's pre-season campaign plans of taking Nebraska in stride while preparing for the Notre Dame game a week later have been altered as a result of the power revealed by the Cornhuskers in their victory over South Dakota Saturday.

Henry Kent, who scouted Nebraska, brought back word that the Lincoln team played smart and aggressive football and has a line which outweighs Northwestern's.

The performance of Rhea and Gillette, the Huskers' two giant tackles, was particularly impressive, he said, while the work of Kreisinger, veteran halfback, indicated that he will be the principal threat in the visitors' backfield.

WOLVERINES BRUISED

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Saturday's intra-squad game, which placed Cox, Newman, Jack Heston, and Kutsche on the hospital list, may bring a switch in plans for Michigan's opening games against Central State Teachers and Michigan Normal colleges next week-end. For the beginning of the week, at least, Dunmire or Westover will be at quarterback, Hoser, a regular guard, will get an opportunity to play full back, and Brumbardus will be at half back. Newman, Cox, and Kutsche, the latter a B team quarter back, suffered injuries, while Jack Heston caught the end of a shoe on his nose.

Drills will be confined to one a day from now on, as classes open tomorrow. All practice sessions will be held henceforth.

OHIO EYES CINCINNATI

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The 34 members of Ohio State's football squad still have another week's work to round into shape for their season opener against Cincinnati next Saturday. Starting tomorrow practice will be limited to one a day.

Scrimmage was planned the first four days of this week, but injuries to the first string men probably will cut this down to two, the first being scheduled for tomorrow.

MAROONS UNHARMED

Although his first string players were unequal to the task of winning both games of their double header Saturday, Coach Stagg of the Maroons Saturday expressed satisfaction with the showing in general. He will be on the mark today for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor on Oct. 10.

The Maroons came through the two games without injury. Vinson Sahlin was bumped dizzy in the Hillsdale game and also got a black eye, but he was all right within a few minutes. Loss of any regular would have been a major tragedy for the Maroons, who have just about one line and no backfield supply of outstanding backs.

center. It would be a distinct advantage if all stadia were equipped with public address systems so that the crowd might know the cause for the penalty. A system of signals is satisfactory. Few know the signals used by the officials.

As far as running with the ball is concerned, these, in general, are the methods.

Stated briefly, the teammates of the runner block or remove opponents to permit an advance of the ball carrier. The defending players strive to evade these blockers to reach and halt the ball carrier.

(Tomorrow's article will discuss a fundamental running play illustrating the purpose of offense and how the defense tries to stop the attack).

ST. RITA DEDICATES STADIUM WITH VICTORY

Vincent Daly, Loyola academy half back, breaks through St. Rita's line in the first period of the stadium dedication game at St. Rita yesterday, but Full Back John Ringbauer was waiting for him. St. Rita won, 6 to 0, from the team which beat the south siders for the Catholic High School league football championship last fall. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

St. Rita Preps Beat Loyola Eleven, 6 to 0

St. Rita High school of the south section defeated Loyola academy, its conqueror in the Chicago Catholic High School league championship game last season, 6 to 0, in the dedication of the new St. Rita athletic field yesterday. Ten thousand, including Mayor Cermak, who delivered the dedicatory address, watched the game.

St. Rita scored late in the last quarter after failing on three opportunities in the first and third periods. With the ball on the Loyola 20 yard line Lang threw a pass to Midge McCue, who was stopped on the 5 yard line.

Then, with a minute and 40 seconds to play, John Ringbauer, one of the three regulars in the St. Rita back field, on two plays brought the ball to the 3 yard line, and on his third attempt, went through left guard for a touchdown. The lineup:

ST. GEORGE, 0; DE LA SALLE, 0.

St. George of the north section and De La Salle played to a scoreless tie yesterday at Evanston. It was St. George's second practice game of the season, having defeated the Alumni in the opener.

St. George threatened in the last quarter when Gleason blocked a punt on the De La Salle 10 yard line, but McCready, St. George quarter back, fumbled and the ball was recovered by De La Salle. Lineup:

2 BLACKHAWKS GO TO RANGERS IN HOCKEY DEAL

MONTREAL, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Many veteran players of the National Hockey league will appear in new uniforms this year as the result of the decision of the Ottawa and Philadelphia clubs to suspend activities for a season. It was decided to distribute the players among the other clubs of the circuit.

The clubs which finished lowest in last year's standing were given first choice. Accordingly the Detroit Falcons and New York Americans drew the greatest arrays of talent.

The New York Rangers received an entire Philadelphia front line: Barton, Milks, and Jarvis. The Chicago Blackhawks drew Jerry Lowrey, wing.

Yachtsmen See Ray of Hope in Adequate Harbor Fight

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The fight for adequate harbor space waged by members of the Jackson Park Yacht and the South Shore Power Boat clubs, which share the only south side port for Chicago sailors, finally after thirty years is nearing a measure of success which may be realized in part by the time of the World's Fair.

The hopes of Jackson park yachtsmen rest with the south park commissioners, as government support in the widening and improvement of pleasure yacht harbors is legally impossible. According to George W. Schaeffer, treasurer of the Lake Michigan Yachting association and secretary of the South Shore Power Boat club, federal work in projects of this type is confined altogether to commercial navigation. Pleasure boats are not classed as commercial navigation and government work in connection with pleasure yacht harbors can be achieved only through a constitutional amendment.

Obstacles to Be Overcome.

Jackson park members in the past have expressed their gratitude to the south park board for its aid in improving harbor facilities, but the present project is the most ambitious ever attempted, and offers several obstacles which may be difficult to overcome.

Among these are the extension of the outer drive from 67th street to the Indiana state line; the construction of a municipal filtration plant on the lake front, connecting with the 73d street tunnel, which supplies the greater part of the south side with water, and the necessity of replacing Rainbow beach, which would be eliminated by the outer drive and filtration plant projects. Added to these there is the problem of securing rights from the South Shore Country club and property owners of the district, who would be affected by the changes.

South side sailors see in this improvement scheme an opportunity to realize their dream of a perfect harbor. They have submitted to the south park board a number of plans which, it is hoped, will prove a solution to all other angles of the situation and relieve the congested condition with which they have struggled for a score of years.

Major Points of Resolution.

Among the important points in a resolution adopted in February of this year by the boat owners of the Jackson Park Yacht club and presented to the park board by a committee composed of John R. O'Rourke, Fred W. Weston and Willys T. Miller, are the following:

1. The outer drive now has a continuous unobstructed roadway south to 63d street, where it is necessary for motorists to detour from that point between the two harbors to the stone bridge separating the harbors, thereby forming a bottle neck. This cannot be broken except by bridging the gap between the outer harbor and the lake. When this is completed it will be impossible for sailboats and even moderate sized power craft to enter or leave the harbor.

2. A bond issue was passed at the last election in the amount of $400,000 to repair the Jackson park piers. The boat owners in their resolution suggested the improvement and extension of the Casino pier at 64th street as the north boundary of a new harbor.

3. The resolution also proposed the construction of a system of breakwaters built south from the extended Casino pier to protect the filtration plant, the site of which is still undecided. This would make the north side of the filtration plant the south boundary of the new harbor and at the same time provide suitable space for a new Rainbow beach.

Board Studies Plans.

Several other plans have been submitted, which George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks, states the board is now studying. Among the leading proposals is one submitted by C. W. Kraft, which would extend the new harbor from 64th to 79th street. Mr. Kraft, a member of the Jackson Park Yacht club since 1899, was the leading spirit in inducing the park board to donate the present two harbors to the club at its inception.

The present situation at Jackson park is akin to that of an overcrowded tenement building. The outer harbor is used by the sail yachts of the Jackson Park Yacht club, while the inner lagoon supplies a haven for the South Shore Power Boat club. For 15 years, south side sailors have sought better conditions, but during that period have received no additional harbor space. Yachts of more than 60 feet in length are not permitted to enter the harbor. But for this, the membership of the two clubs might be half again as large. More than 50 applications for mooring space are unfilled at present.

Forced to Go North.

Within the last few years, several boat owners and prospective members of the two clubs have gone to the loop or to the north side to find a suitable harbor for ice boats. E. F. McDonald moored his Thelma and Wawatasee at Jackson park for years because they were within the 60 foot limit, but when he purchased the 81 foot Zenith, he was forced to go north. J. H. Oberfelder, long a south side resident, who would prefer to harbor his Marge III at Jackson park, must put in at the Roosevelt road slip because of the boat's length, 114 feet.

The officers of the Jackson Park Yacht club are T. M. Dunlap, commodore; C. W. Kraft, vice commodore; A. A. Bennett, rear commodore; T. D. Thomas, treasurer, and Mark Wade, secretary. Ralph Green is commodore of the South Shore Power Boat club, with Dr. H. A. Hooper vice commodore; L. N. Thurston, rear commodore; W. L. Erickson, treasurer, and G. W. Schaeffer, secretary.

Van Nortwick Wins, 1 Up, for Kane County Title

John Van Nortwick of Batavia won the Kane county golf championship yesterday by defeating Gene Nelson, assistant professional at the Elgin Golf club, 1 up, in 37 holes on the Elgin course. Van Nortwick, three down at the end of 27 holes, rallied on the last nine to even the match.

Greentree 4 Beats Gaucho Team, 14-13

Port Washington, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Tommy Hitchcock, playing his best polo of the season, led the Greentree four to victory today over the Gauchos, a combination three-quarters Argentine, in the first semi-final of the Monty Waterbury cup handicap tournament.

Hitchcock scored six goals and paved the way for as many others as Greentree, withstanding a last period spurt by the Gauchos, eked out a 15 to 14 victory. Nearly 3,000 spectators saw John Hay [Jock] Whitney score the deciding goal in the last minute of play on a long pass from Hitchcock.

Greentree, a 27 goal combination, conceded the Gauchos three goals, but made up this deficit in three minutes of play on three successive goals by Hitchcock.

Hitchcock scored six goals and Bostwick five to account for all except four of Greentree's total. The Reynals scored eight of the Gauchos' 11 goals from the field. Juan Reynal made five and Jose three.

The final period was the most thrilling. Hitchcock's sixth period spurt had apparently given Greentree a safe lead, 14 to 9, but Jose Reynal scored twice in the seventh chukker and then aided his brother in a rally that tied the score again in the final period. Juan Reynal scored two straight goals to tie the count, but Whitney then got out in front, took a perfect pass from Hitchcock and dribbled it through for the deciding marker.

Erhart Wins Elgin Road Bicycle Race

Favored by a 15-minute handicap, Frank Erhart, 18 years old, won the sixth annual Elgin-to-Chicago bicycle road race yesterday. His time for the 47 miles from Lord's Park in Elgin to the finish line at 21st place and Damen avenue, was 1 hour, 56 minutes and 50 seconds.

Erhart rode for the Barrett Athletic club, which sponsored the race. He lives at 6238 South Park avenue.

Mike Zasada, a 15-year-old rider for the Calumet City Athletic club, finished second, 1 minute and 36 seconds behind the winner.

Although the first ten prizes for best time were captured by scratch riders, none of them could overcome the handicaps. The best time for the race, 1 hour, 50 minutes and 5 seconds, was made by Bobby Thomas of Kenosha, Wis., holder of the national amateur title. He finished 46th.

The race established new records, as the distance was increased about eight miles this year. Seventy-five of the 108 starters finished the race. It was the largest field in the history of the race.

The following, with their handicap advantages and time, were the first ten to finish:

	Hdcp.	Time.
1—Frank Erhart [Barrett A. C.]	*15	1:56:50
2—Mike Zasada [Calumet City A. C.]	15	1:58:36

4—Raymond Ligman [Berwyn Wheelmen]	15	1:58:36 4-5
5—George Peterson [Lake View Health club]	12	1:59:38
6—Joe Lawrence [Calumet City A. C.]	15	1:59:41
7—Bob De Splenter [Henry A. C.]	15	1:59:55
8—J. Sima [Henry A. C.]	12	1:59:56
9—Henry Priebe [Henry A. C.]	12	2:00:00
10—Arvid Anders [Lake View Health club]	12	2:00:01

*Handicap in minutes.

The first ten time prizes were won by the following, all scratch riders:

1—Bobby Thomas [Kenosha, Wis.] 1:50:05
2—Eddie Triest [Barrett A. C.] 1:50:06
3—Gregory Flatow [Barrett A. C.] 1:51:00

FREDERICK WEST, BUSINESS, CIVIC LEADER, IS DEAD

Fails to Recover from Operation in East.

Frederick T. West, formerly of 62 East Division street, died yesterday at his summer home, Court Hill, at Pittsfield, Mass. He had been removed to his summer home two weeks ago after recovery from an operation at the House of Mercy hospital at Pittsfield, but never had regained his strength. Death was due to embolism.

F. T. WEST.

Mr. West was born at Pittsfield March 15, 1855. He was a member of a family prominent in Pittsfield for more than 100 years. He was active in the insurance business in Chicago for many years before his retirement.

Wed to Anna Ogden.

In 1888 Mr. West married Miss Anna S. Ogden, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon D. Ogden of Chicago and Pittsfield, and niece of the late William B. Ogden, first mayor of Chicago.

Mr. West was active in Chicago Y. M. C. A. work. He had been chairman of the central department and at the time of his death was a member of the governing board. He was a member of the governing board of St. Luke's hospital. He also was a vestryman at St. Chrysostom's church, where his death was announced from the pulpit yesterday.

Member of Three Clubs.

Mr. West was a member of the Chicago and University clubs of Chicago and the Country club of Pittsfield. He is survived by the widow, one son, Mahlon Ogden West of Lake Forest; two daughters, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Winnetka and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard of Geneva, N. Y., and a brother, Dr. Frank E. West of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at the home at Pittsfield tomorrow at 4 p. m., with the Rev. Dr. Norman Hutson, formerly of St. Chrysostom's, and the Rev. John Gratton of Pittsfield officiating. A committal service will be held at Graceland cemetery on Wednesday at 4 p. m.

SPEED REPAIRS ON MAIN TO END WATER FAMINE

While citizens of Harvey and six nearby villages sallied forth yesterday with barrels, washtubs, and other containers to beg water from residents of neighboring communities for domestic use, a force of fifty men toiled all day to make emergency repairs to the 36 inch water main which broke Saturday and cut off the suburbs' supply.

The main burst where it passes under the Little Calumet river at 131st and Halsted streets in Riverdale. It will require a week or more to repair the tube, but as an emergency measure a 12 inch pipe is being connected around the break.

The pipe will supply a limited amount of water enough for drinking and cooking purposes in Harvey and the villages of Posen, Dixmoor, Hazel Crest, Markham, South Holland, and Phoenix. Factories in Harvey, however, will have to go without water until the large main is repaired. The Oak Forest infirmary, which gets its normal supply from the main, has wells for emergency use.

ARREST SECOND LEADER IN COW TESTING REVOLT

Veterinarians Work as Troops Stand By.

Tipton, Ia., Sept. 27.—(AP)—E. C. Mitchell, a leader among Cedar county farmers who have opposed administration of the state law requiring tuberculin testing of cattle, today was arrested on a charge of selling a quarantined bull. He was placed in military custody at Camp Moffit.

Mitchell is one of 44 farmers under injunction restraining them from interfering with the tests. His arrest was the second arising from alleged illegal disposition of quarantined cattle, J. W. Lenker, another principal in the anti-testing war, is now facing charges of contempt of court.

Besides continuing the testing today, tests given Thursday were read by veterinarians, who found 19 reactions among the 180 head on which tests were read.

No demonstrations attended the reading of the tests today. While the farmers themselves were at home, no visitors were permitted on any of the farms except the veterinarians and their escort of Iowa National Guardsmen.

Testing went on as usual today, eight squads of veterinarians, each accompanied by an escort of troopers, carrying on the work. Fewer than 300 of the estimated 450 herds in Cedar county now remain to be inoculated.

A conference tomorrow between civil and military authorities will determine the disposition of the Mitchell case.

At Camp Moffit, where more than 1,700 National Guardsmen have been quartered since Tuesday, Sunday was observed with religious services and visitors' day.

Some of the younger Guardsmen and those whose employers have written to Adjutant General W. H. Bailey saying their services are indispensable were released from service today.

Five persons arrested by military police last night as bootlegging suspects were released from the guard house today to Sheriff Foster Maxson of Cedar county. They are charged with illegal possession of intoxicants. Three others are held in the county jail on charges of maintaining a liquor nuisance.

'MELLIE' DUNHAM, OLD TIME FIDDLER WHO TOURED NATION, DIES

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Alanson Mellen ["Mellie"] Dunham, '78, who started a wave of popularity for the old-time dances five years ago, died tonight in a hospital after an illness of two weeks.

Mellie's rise to national prominence was meteoric. For 73 years he had lived in the little town of Norway, where he was born, farming, making snowshoes, and "fiddling" for the local dances.

Then some one in 1925 promoted an "old-time fiddlers' contest" at the local armory and Mellie won over a score or more elderly fiddlers. Agents from Henry Ford sought him out and urged him to go to Detroit to play before the manufacturer. So Mellie and his wife, Emma, affectionately called "Gram," journeyed to Michigan.

Mellie charged Ford three dollars for playing a program of old fashioned dance music because "that was the regular rate for playing out of town."

Then followed a vaudeville contract which took him and "Gram" through the middle west and the east. Everywhere they went they were favorites. The tour netted Mellie and Gram about $20,000. Mellie wore in New York the same clothes he wore in Norway — mackinaw, rubber shoes, woolen shirt, open at the front—and Gram watched over him as carefully in New York as she had in Norway.

Mellie was the grandson of a patriot who served in the revolutionary war and who was among the early settlers of Norway. He was born in the ancestral home, July 29, 1853, and it was there he and Gram, the former Emma Richardson, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

THINK TROUSERS MAY BE CLEW IN COLLINGS CASE

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The languishing inquiry into the murder of Benjamin P. Collings took a new lease of life today with the discovery of two pairs of trousers and other articles which Suffolk county authorities believe belonged to the murderers. They were found in shallow water between Center island and Cove neck, in the narrow passage through which Mrs. Collings says the slayers took her from the cabin cruiser Penguin, on which the murder was committed, to the motor boat Bo-Peep moored off Cove Neck.

If the clothing did belong to the murderers, it gives further corroboration of the widow's bizarre story of piracy, murder, and kidnaping on the night of Sept. 9. One of the strangest and yet most graphic bits in her narrative was her description of the two men—one tall and middle aged and the other youthful—inexplicably changing clothes in the canoe, tossing garments they had on into the water, and putting on other clothing which they fished out of a canvas bag.

The articles were found by Deputy Sheriff Albert Kehlendeck and other searchers. They were covered with sand and seaweed, showing that they had been in the water some time. One pair was medium brown in color, with white stripes. It was long enough for a tall man. The other was dark blue, and the legs were much shorter. In one was a black leather cowhide belt, unusually broad, and fitted with a cheap buckle.

THREE SOLDIERS SLAIN, 5 HURT AS AUTO HITS SQUAD

Fort Snelling, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Three privates of the Third infantry, U. S. A., stationed here, were killed and five others injured late last night when a speeding automobile ran into a squad of soldiers marching on a highway at the fort.

The dead: Henry L. Dodson, Walter J. Rasmussen, and Lester E. Russell. Of the injured, Privates Albert B. Dunlap and R. L. Exceen are not expected to recover.

Two men who gave their names as J. A. Benson, the driver, and O. M. Herring, both of Minneapolis, were arrested and placed in the guardhouse. Fort authorities said the men had been drinking. They are held without charge.

The squad of soldiers had been sent out to look for a man reported lost on the reservation.

FARE LITIGATION COSTLY FOR CITY, RECORDS REVEAL

Experts Paid $250,000 in Six Years.

The hiring of legal experts by the city for the stated purpose of obtaining reductions in the fares of the surface and elevated lines has cost the taxpayers more than $250,000 over a period of six years. The amount expended on fare litigation was revealed yesterday in the records of City Controller Szymczak.

Other records showed that the results obtained by the special attorneys at fees from $50 to $150 a day were practically nothing. In 1920, 1921, and 1922 the public was promised a 5 cent fare on the surface lines by the mayor of that period. The prolonged litigation wound up with the fare at 7 cents.

Effort Renewed in 1927.

Shortly after the same mayor returned to the city hall in 1927 special attorneys again were put on the pay rolls to obtain fare reductions. This time the purpose was to restore the three rides for a quarter rate on the elevated lines. The city lost the decision in the federal District court and the case is now pending before the United States Supreme court.

In prosecuting the fare litigation the services of assistant corporation counsels who were on the regular pay rolls at salaries up to $10,000 a year were seldom employed. Special lawyers, many of whom had favorable political connections, were hired instead.

Another item of expense added to the lawyer hire, according to the records, was the employment of engineers to make appraisals of the transit companies' property. In 1920, for instance, the city paid the Adams Beatty François corporation $269,703 for an appraisal.

Lawyer Gets $150 a Day.

In the 5 cent fare litigation, the records show, Chester E. Cleveland was one of the city's highest paid lawyers. He received $150 a day and on this basis collected $31,162 in 1920, $22,167 in 1921, and $17,900 in 1922, the year the federal court fixed the fare at 7 cents.

Besides the payment to the appraisal company of $269,703, the records show that two engineers were paid high salaries. One of these, George W. Jackson, drew $23,010 in 1921, and the other, Edward Fitzpatrick, was paid $22,740 in 1922.

When the elevated rate case cropped up in 1928 Congressman Frank R. Reid was put on the corporation counsel's pay roll at $100 a day. Records show that on this litigation the congressman collected $6,050 in 1928, $11,450 in 1929, and $4,300 in 1930.

Two Others Employed.

Associated with Reid in the case was Edward C. Higgins, and later Albert H. Veeder was put on the litigation. While the vouchers for Higgins and Veeder do not show what time was spent on the elevated fare case and what time on other transit matters, the amount estimated paid out on the fare case was $32,000.

Hearings were held in the elevated case before Roswell B. Mason, federal master in chancery, and on his report to the federal court the straight ten cent fare was upheld.

Train Kills Husband, 67, as He Walks with Wife

Emil Pahnke, 67 years old, 412 South Wille street, Mount Prospect, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a Chicago and North Western passenger train near Main street in Mount Prospect. He died in a hospital soon afterward. With his wife, Pahnke was walking along the tracks when the train approached. Mrs. Pahnke stepped to one side, but her husband apparently was not aware that the engine was so near.

PARENTS URGE LIFE SENTENCE FOR SON ONLY 23

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Emmett Everitt, 23 years old, described by the police as the youngest criminal ever to be threatened with life imprisonment as a fourth offender, was arraigned in the Morrisania court today on a charge of grand larceny brought by his father, Frank Everitt, a retired tailor living in the Bronx.

Each of young Everitt's previous convictions was on a charge brought against him by his parents and the father was adamant in expressing his determination to press the present accusation, as he signed the complaint in court today. Mrs. Margaret Everitt, the young man's mother, told reporters that her son was "absolutely uncontrollable," and that the chief worry of her husband and herself was that he would bring disgrace on his four brothers.

Mrs. Everitt said her son had been an "impossible handful" since he was two years old.

PROF. COMPTON TO TEST COSMIC RAYS IN EUROPE

Prof. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago physicist, a Nobel prize winner, who returned to Chicago on Saturday after conducting a series of experiments with the cosmic rays in the Rocky mountains, will depart for Europe this evening to conduct further experiments to determine the intensity of the rays in the Alps as compared with the Rockies.

Mrs. Compton will accompany her husband on the trip to Europe. Prof. Compton will attend the international physics conference at Rome from Oct. 11 to 19. At the conclusion of the conference he will go to Zurich for his experiments.

S. L. M'CREIGHT, PHYSICIAN HERE 46 YEARS, IS DEAD

Dr. Samuel L. McCreight, 82 years old, practicing physician in Chicago since 1885, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert O. Butts, 730 Linden avenue, Oak Park.

Dr. McCreight was for many years professor of ophthalmology at the Illinois Post Graduate Medical school. He served on the surgical staff of the Charitable Eye and Ear hospital and was assistant surgeon in the United States health service during the flu epidemic of 1918. He is survived by his wife and daughter. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. from the Postlewait chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery.

GANG SLAYING ERASES CLEW TO PASSARELLA FATE

A possible clew to the fate of Rocco Passarella, former police lieutenant in Melrose Park who has been missing since June 15, was erased Saturday night with the murder of Joseph Pellegreno, 25 years old, "alky" cooker and hoodlum, formerly of the suburb. Police learned yesterday that Passarella was last seen with Pellegreno. Passarella, who had been active in raiding stills in the suburb, met Pellegreno at 17th avenue and Lake street, Melrose Park, entered the latter's automobile and was driven away. Since then the former policeman has not been heard from.

Pellegreno's body was found near Arlington road and Lake street by the Elmhurst police after a gasoline filling station proprietor reported hearing shots fired in the vicinity. The slain man had been shot six times in the head and body. Apparently he had been dragged, after a struggle, from his automobile, which was found abandoned in Melrose Park. The left front window was shattered and a door handle of the car was broken off.

SPAIN MARKET IS UNSETTLED BY ENGLISH CRISIS

See Little Hope of Early Advance.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The world's wheat markets were upset last week by the unsettled condition of business and finances of the British government. The latter's departure from a gold basis has thrown the world's markets into a position from which, it is feared, it may take a considerable time to bring about a healthy readjustment. For the present, fluctuations in stocks and sterling are the most influential factors in the markets. Sterling has dropped to the lowest levels since the war, and the heavy decline in the stock market has created a feeling of uneasiness. Business depression has caused heavy liquidation and declines in the price of agricultural products to below the cost of production, which, it is believed, discounts everything of a depressing nature.

Speculative leaders, as well as the general public, are not sufficiently confident regarding prospects of an advance in the near future to take hold on the buying side in a way that would turn prices upward and hold out expectation. Until this is accomplished, and the stock market is thoroughly liquidated, a good advance in prices is not expected.

A few large traders express the belief that it will be a considerable time before wheat has a good well-sustained advance and conservative interests say that a material change will not come after the first of the year.

Big World Surplus.

Fred Uhlmann of the Uhlmann company says that the overproduction of wheat in the world the last five years has been about 100,000,000 bu a year and that we have gradually accumulated a surplus of 500,000,000 bu too much wheat. He says, further, that Argentina and Australia together have decreased their acreage 2,000,000 acres. It is estimated that the United States will decrease acreage at least 5,000,000 acres, which, combined with an estimated reduction of 2,000,000 acres in Canada, will make a total reduction of 15,000,000 acres ordinarily producing 160,000,000 to 180,000,000 bushels of wheat. "Consequently," says Mr. Uhlmann, "next year we may start to get on a more normal production instead of an overproduction basis and cut into our stocks. If, in addition, the Balkan crops should reduce their acreage there would be only one danger of low prices, namely, Russia."

The impression prevails that an upturn in commodity prices will eventually lead to a general revival of confidence and better times.

Going trades on September wheat were 48¼c; December, 48¼c; March, 51½, and May 52⅝@52⅝c, showing no losses of only ⅛@¼c for the week, after a range of 4c. Prices for the week follow:

	September.	December.	May.

Dwindles in September Corn.

Sales of cash and September corn declined on a liberal scale last week, lowering the price from 41⅝c to 37c, with the close at 38⅛c, a net loss of 2⅜c. In other deliveries net losses were only ⅛@⅜c.

Cash corn was delivered on September sales, the aggregate put out being 1,000,000 bu. These deliveries, with sales made to distributors, have cleaned up practically all the 8,000,000 bu that were taken in on July purchases.

The corn crop is practically made and private estimates due on Friday are expected to show reductions from those of a month ago.

Prices are at a level where the trade is more two-sided, and the market has come into better support on breaks.

Movement from the country is not large as prices are regarded as too low. Prices for the week follow:

	September.	December.	May.
Sat.	39⅝- 41⅝	35⅞- 37¼	39⅝- 41⅛

September Oats Advanced.

Strength in September oats due to buying by cash interests closed them 4c higher than a week ago. Deferred futures, however, were off ⅛@¼c for the same period. Movement to primary markets since Aug. 1 was the smallest in years, aggregating 2,013,000 bu against 42,871,000 bu last year.

Cash oats on the whole are at good premiums over May. Heavy oats are scarce and bring big premiums over September, which closed at 21⅝c, December 23⅝@23c, May 25⅝@25¾c. Prices follow:

	September.	December.	May.
Sat.	20½@21½	21⅝@23	24⅛@25⅝

Rye traders are bullish, but the volume of business is not heavy, with Northwestern operators an important factor on both sides. The close was firm on September at 37¼c, and higher on other deliveries, December being 35⅝c, and May, 41¼c.

Hazelwood Explains Work of Bond Protective Group

Explanation of the work being done by the protective committee for holders of first mortgages sold through the American Bond and Mortgage company is given in a statement issued by Craig B. Hazelwood, chairman of the committee.

Already $80,000,000 of these bonds, in more than 100 issues, are in default and being handled by the protective committee. Of these issues, $15,000,000 have already been reorganized, and bondholders have received $3,900,000 in cash—25 per cent of the face value—plus certificates of ownership of the equities above new first mortgages. The committee is working on the other $65,000,000. Issues are being handled individually.

More than 60,000 bondholders—most of them inexperienced small investors—are involved. An extraordinarily high proportion, 89 per cent of face value, has been deposited with the protective committee. The committee's expenses are held down to 5 per cent of the face of the bonds, with foreclosure fees at reasonable figures, depending on the state where the proceedings are instituted.

Committee Unbiased.

None of the members of this committee were connected in any way with the issuing company or its management. The committee consists of Frank W. Blair, Union Guardian Trust company, Detroit; Frederick G. Curry, the Bank of America, N. A., New York; H. K. Hallett, Atlantic National bank, Boston; Dayton Keith, Chicago; Joseph E. Otis, Central Republic Bank and Trust company; Wallace T. Perkins, Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust company, New York; Walter J. Sugden, Boston, and Mr. Hazelwood of the First National Bank of Chicago, who is chairman.

"Instead of lumping the whole group of properties and trying to handle them at one stroke, we are dealing with them in orderly fashion one by one," Mr. Hazlewood stated. "With so many defaulted issues in the committee's hands, this might seem hopeless. Actually, it is highly effective. When we finish reorganizing a property it has yielded bondholders just as much cash as can safely be obtained now without endangering their equities. With an experienced, successful executive in general supervision of the properties thus held, they are so set up financially that they will 'keep' indefinitely. No distress sales are likely. Most of these properties should eventually yield the bondholders large proportionate returns of the principal on investments which originally looked hopeless. Until a satisfactory offer is received for any one of these properties, it could be held for one year or ten as a self-supporting, independent unit.

Few Issues Hopeless.

"Once such a job is done, the pile of work in the protective committee's office is lowered by so much and we have only to supervise the buildings. We turn to the next issue and handle it just as conclusively. One by one, we are clearing up the situations and making these properties positive assets to the bondholders. A very few of the properties are almost hopeless. Most of them, however, yield substantial cash payments with eventual prospects of considerably more."

When the committee bids in the property at the foreclosure sale, its bid is held as low as possible in the interest of depositing bondholders. The nondepositing bondholder receives in cash his share of the price bid. This is all that he gets. Some few properties have been promptly resold to outside buyers and the bondholders paid off. On one building this procedure yielded bondholders more than 80 cents on the dollar—less shrinkage than is seen in the market price of many bonds of going corporations where no default is in prospect.

More often, however, lacking a ready market the committee incorporates a company to own and operate this one building. If the property is eligible for loan, a first mortgage small enough to be clearly carried by the income of the building is obtained, usually through an insurance company. After withholding enough of the proceeds to pay expenses and supply working capital for the property the committee distributes this cash to bondholders. The investor who has deposited with the committee now receives voting trust certificates representing his equity in the property.

CUDAHY NAMES 2 CONCERNS AS AGENTS IN SOUTH

Announcement was made today of the appointment of Cook & Co. of Memphis, Tenn., and Williamson & Inman, Inc., of Atlanta, Ga., as agents of the Cudahy Packing company for the purchase of southern cotton.

The Cudahy company recently announced it would invest an amount equal to ten per cent of its sales in southern territory between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1 in cotton, "as a means of creating a cash market for a substantial quantity of this year's crop."

"Our policy of buying cotton to help relieve the present situation with reference to the south's principal crop is meeting most favorable response among our southern friends," said E. A. Cudahy Jr., president.

George W. Rossetter & Co. Form Partnership in N. Y.

George W. Rossetter & Co., Chicago certified public accountants, announce the organization in New York City of the new partnership of Rossetter, Cook & Co. The new firm will operate in New York along lines similar to those of the present firm in Chicago. Howard B. Cook, who becomes associated in the new venture, was previously associated with the firm of Haskins & Sells, holding a partnership in that organization for 17 years.

Col. Howard New Head of N. American Car Corp.

Col. N. L. Howard has been elected president of the North American Car Corporation, succeeding Erwin R. Brigham, who has resigned, effective Oct. 1. Col. Howard will continue to serve as chairman of the board. Mr. Brigham will continue as a director and member of the executive committee. He announced that his resignation as president was submitted to permit him to engage in other business.

Aydelott Made Manager of Burlington's West Lines

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Officials of the Burlington railroad company here tonight announced the appointment of James H. Aydelott to succeed Edward Flynn as general manager of the road's lines west of the Missouri river. Aydelott, who will have headquarters at Omaha, formerly was general manager of Texas lines of the Burlington at Fort Worth, Tex. Flynn has been elected vice president in charge of operations of the Chicago office of the road. Flynn's election was effective Sept. 24, and Aydelott will take office Oct. 1.

Railway Wages Hold Up but Labor Is Reduced

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The reductions in wages announced by leading industries last week served to direct attention to the fact that the position of railway labor is in contrast to that in other fields in respect to their relations to managements. Chief among the distinctions is that railway labor is largely organized, with wages determined by contract, and that, lacking agreement between labor and management, these wages cannot be altered without recourse to procedure defined by law.

Should the railway managements attempt to reduce wages now, and should the unions fail to acquiesce, a protracted period of negotiation would follow. Then, should the decision go against the workers, they would be legally free to strike.

As matters stand now, none of the contracts between railway managements and their forces expire within a year. It is said in railroad circles that this situation precludes attempts at wage changes within that period of time.

More Apparent Than Real.

Railway labor leaders, and some railway executive, say that any advantages which members of the brotherhoods may seem to have over workers in other fields are more apparent than real. While wage rates on railways remain at the same levels that prevailed before the depressions, the real wages of railway labor have been drastically curtailed through part time or full unemployment. In some cases, railway men whose seniority rights entitled them to a complete week's employment have foregone working full hours in order to leave positions open for men only partly employed.

Men in executive positions on the railroads, who by the nature of their work are less liable to the fluctuations of labor demand, have in many instances received 10 per cent reductions in salaries. Those affected, however, were not, so far as has been learned, on an hourly basis.

The efficiency of railway labor in recent years has been greatly enhanced by the use of better equipment, and, as a result, the railways moved a record volume of traffic in 1929 with fewer employés than they had ten years before. This situation caused some later leaders to agitate for a shorter week in order that work could be found for more men. Of late, however, little has been heard of this demand.

Cannot Argue Both Ways.

It is pointed out that railway labor cannot argue both ways in respect to their efficiency. If its leaders justify the present scales of pay by reference to the increased productivity of the workers, these leaders cannot at the same time seek to offset the resultant economies to the managements by shortening the duty period, it is argued.

Moreover, it is contended by the managements that longer trains and labor saving devices have not acted to make idle men already at work, but has only acted to prevent new positions from opening for men who might otherwise have worked for the railroads. Reduction of labor forces by failure to hire rather than by dismissals would seem to have become a policy here and abroad. In Great Britain, consolidation of the railroads was not permitted to throw large numbers of employés out of work. Instead, employés were, it is said, kept employed until they reached retirement ages. Their positions were then left unfilled.

Urges British System.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, which is noted for its harmonious relations with labor, recommended that a plan similar to that followed in Great Britain be followed in the consolidation of railroads here.

Under the railway labor act, it is provided that, in the event labor forces and management find themselves in disagreement in the matter of pay, working rules or other subjects, they may have recourse to boards of adjustment created by agreement between railways and employés.

J. M. Mitchell Will Head Mt. Carmel's Merged Banks

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—J. M. Mitchell, a member of the Illinois park board and a banker for 35 years, will head the consolidation of Mt. Carmel's two national banks. The institution will be named the American and First National Bank of Mt. Carmel. The consolidation, it is claimed, will give this city the largest banking institution in southern Illinois, with resources in excess of $3,000,000. Phillip Barnhard, former owner of the Mt. Carmel Public Utilities company, and now a vice president of the Central Public Service company, which recently purchased the local utility, will be vice president of the new banking institution. It is reported the Central company has bought a substantial interest in the new bank. Other officers have not been named.

Study Influence of Gold Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Regardless of what may be the future movement of financial markets, in response to other developments than the suspension of free gold payments by Great Britain, the matter of paramount significance in the last week's story was the calmness with which markets received the news from London.

It may have reflected an underlying belief that England's action, startling as it unquestionably was, did not make the general situation worse than it was already known to be. More probably it indicated sudden recognition of the fact that the desperately pessimistic markets of the last few months, given up to despairing imaginings, had already "discounted" if not overdiscounted all unfavorable possibilities.

Even in the foreign bond market, where many government securities had long ago fallen to "default prices," it quickly came to be understood that the value of foreign bonds payable in American gold coin would not be affected even by outright abandonment of the gold standard by the issuing company.

Other Questions Answered.

The question as to what other consequences would follow England's action was answered last week only slowly and tentatively. That sterling exchange rates would depreciate was a certainty; the extent of depreciation was expected to depend on the burden of remittances to other markets caused by an adverse merchandise trade balance, by payments on the foreign debt, and by financial belief in the duration of the suspension policy, which would itself be bound up with the problem of a balanced or unbalanced budget.

In measuring these influences last week's sterling market moved uncertainly; falling to a nominal $3.70, or

BONDHOLDERS' PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE

To the Holders of Bonds of the City of Asheville, North Carolina; of Buncombe County, North Carolina; and of the several School, Sanitary, Water, Sewer, Road and Bridge Districts of Buncombe County, North Carolina:

Buncombe County, North Carolina, and the several special districts located therein, and the City of Asheville, located in Buncombe County, are in default in the payment of the principal and/or interest of their outstanding bonds. As these defaults are inter-related, a Bondholders' Protective Committee has been formed to conserve the interests of the holders of the outstanding bonds of all of these political organizations, including the outstanding bonds heretofore issued by the Towns of West Asheville, Biltmore, Kenilworth and South Biltmore, which have been annexed by the City of Asheville. The prompt deposit of bonds with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York as Depositary, under the terms of the Deposit Agreement dated September 14, 1931, is strongly urged, as it is believed that the holders of the bonds of all these defaulting communities can best protect their interests by creating a single organization to seek a solution of their common problem.

METAL PRICES REMAIN STEADY AS WAGES DROP

Note Some Increase in Rail Inquiries.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—With demand for steel down to the August level, the trade was chiefly concerned as to the effect of the 10 per cent wage cut. It is predicted that this move by the large steel corporations will allow them to return to a profitable operating basis, but that there is almost no possibility that it will lead to reduced prices.

In the meantime plant operations range from unchanged to slightly lower, as compared with the previous week. Reports of further prospective curtailment by automobile manufacturers are restricting buying from this source. Slightly increased inquiry for rails and standard pipe has developed, while current and prospective awards for structural purposes, principally for public works, remain as the principal sustaining factor. Prices are unchanged. Pig iron continues quiet and steady.

Fair Copper Demand.

The copper market experienced a fairly substantial export demand and moderate domestic buying also developed late in the week. Foreign buying was regarded partly as a move to transfer foreign currency into commodities and on sales abroad so far this month now total almost 15,000 tons. Customs smelters continue to supply home consumers with metal at the basis of 7 cents, while mine producers hold nominally at 7¼ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley. Part of the domestic business has extended into the first quarter of 1932, but forward offerings are restricted.

Tin was unsettled by irregularity of sterling exchange fluctuations and prices eased in sympathy with the lower rates. Business was restricted by uncertainties under which importers make quotations, and their unwillingness to offer except on firm bids.

Lead Is Quiet.

Lead is quiet, smelters continue to quote on a firm basis. Offerings of small quantities at concessions from second hand sources has caused consumers to hold off and business is chiefly for prompt delivery.

Zinc eased slightly on restricted demand and moderately increased outside selling pressure.

Trading in antimony was checked by irregularity of silver as well as foreign exchange. Late advances in the former led to slightly higher asking prices by importers.

EXPECT SOVIET GRAIN HARVEST TO EQUAL 1930

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Grain production in the soviet union for 1931 is expected in authoritative quarters to be approximately equal to that of 1930, which was the largest on record, notwithstanding acknowledged damage to the spring crop in several areas from excessive rainfall.

Although the government thus far has made no estimate of the size of this year's crop, it was considered in informed quarters that the rain damage had offset to a great extent the effect of an increased acreage which was sown and the greatly expanded use of tractors and other mechanized farming implements.

General figures on the progress of the harvest have not been made public, except in terms of acreage reaped, which does not give an indication of the extent of the damage or of the condition of the crops as a whole.

The total acreage reaped up to Sept. 16 was 84,288,000 hectares [208,335,648 acres] or 88.6 per cent of the spring grain area and 48.7 per cent of the winter grain area. In 1930 the total grain harvest amounted to 87,364,480 metric tons, of which 28,360,000 were of wheat, from a total sown area of 281,942,000 acres, of which 8,948,026 acres were in wheat.

B. & O. Train Saves 1 Hour Under New Schedule

Changes in the schedule of the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, effective yesterday, together with previous reductions made a few weeks ago, will cut almost an hour from the running time of this train between Chicago and New York. Changes in the schedules of other passenger trains will also go into effect Sept. 27.

Corn Products Refining.

Please give me your opinion of Corn Products Refining company stock, listed on the New York stock exchange.—J. E. H.

Corn Products Refining company manufactures corn syrup, starch, and kindred products. Waste material is sold to an affiliated company which manufactures prepared feeds and to Commercial Solvents corporation.

About one-third of its output is distributed as package goods under the company's own trademark and the remainder as bulk. Advertising has built up a good market for the package goods. It has been a factor in maintaining a price more stable than that for bulk products and keeping consumption near previous standards. The sale of bulk products is more sensitive to general business conditions.

In 1930 earnings declined mainly because the domestic sales of bulk goods were smaller. Export sales were adversely affected by the lower price of corn abroad. This encouraged foreign manufacture of products in which Corn Products Refining is interested.

Net income from 1925 through 1929, with the exception of 1927, rose steadily. For 1930 net was $13,968,674, or $4.82 per common share, against $15,647,687, or $5.49 per common share, for 1929. Net for 1928 was $12,745,538 and for 1927, $10,690,271.

Profit on sale of securities is excluded from net income. Profit on sale of securities was $99,000 in 1930 and $662,000 in 1929.

For the first half of 1931 net income was $6,494,267, or $1.83 per common share, against $6,641,261, or $2.28 per common share, for the like period of 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $59,328,984 and current liabilities were $6,148,212. Cash and marketable securities [cost] alone were more than $37,000,000. On May 19, 1931, a leading statistical agency stated that between 25 per cent and 30 per cent of investments of the company were railroad securities.

Funded debt and preferred stock outstanding are small and requirements have been earned by large margins. There are outstanding 2,530,000 common shares [par $25].

In the latter part of 1930 the United States government stated it was no longer necessary to label foodstuffs in which corn sirup is used. Corn sugar is usually quoted at a lower price than cane or beet sugar.

The common is on a regular annual dividend basis of $3 per share. Extras in 1930 totaled $1.25 per share and to date in 1931, $1 per share. Both the preferred and common are high grade.

Please tell me whether Telephone Bond and Share company 5 per cent debentures, series A, due 1958, are a safe investment?—Mrs. O. A. K.

FIND EMPLOYE STOCK PLANS ON SEVERE TRIAL

N. Y. Central Reimburses Workers for Loss.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Current conditions in the stock market have provided a test period for employé-stock subscription plans, it was remarked in financial circles last week.

A survey of companies which made these offerings elicited statements that employés who found the price on stock to which they were subscribing was above the market quotation were with few exceptions under no compulsion to continue subscribing. The exceptions were in cases where the contract between company and employés did not provide for withdrawal of installments paid on account of stock purchase.

May Have Money Back.

The New York Central management went to the extent of reminding employés that they could have installments for stock subscriptions returned with 4 per cent interest. This stock was offered to employés at 130. It closed yesterday at 62½. Pennsylvania advised employés who were offered their stock at par of 50 may withdraw installments with 5 per cent interest. Pennsylvania closed at 33.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company has employés subscribing for stock at 130 and 150 in accordance with two offers, the stock closing yesterday at 135. It was said by the company's headquarters that no offer was made to encourage thrift but that employés who wished to withdraw installments for purchases of stock in the market or other purposes could do so and receive 6 per cent interest. Direct purchases of A. T. & T. stock in the open market might conceivably act as a measure of support, it was suggested.

Offered 6 Per Cent Investment.

International Telephone and Telegraph corporation employés subscribing in installments for stock of their company at 50, the offering price to employés, may also withdraw deposits with 6 per cent interest. The last closed at 17¾.

Last January United States Steel corporation employés were offered common stock at 140, the closing price of which yesterday was 77¼. Employés who withdraw from this offer receive 5 per cent on their deposits. At the end of 1930, Bethlehem Steel corporation employés numbering 17,- were buying its preferred stock at 125.

ASKS DEPOSIT OF SOUTHERN BONDS NOW IN DEFAULT

The protective committee, formed in the interests of holders of about $32,- bonds of Asheville, N. C., Buncombe county, and several school, sanitary, water, sewer, road and bridge districts in Buncombe county, has issued a request that holders deposit their bonds promptly with the Chase National bank, as depository, under the terms of a deposit agreement dated Sept. 14, 1931.

Funds received from any community to the committee are to be credited only to the deposited bonds of that community. The agreement provides that no plan involving a compromise or scaling down of the principal amount or interest on the bonds deposited may become effective without the consent of the depositors. The duration of the agreement is five years, or longer if necessary, but not more than ten years.

Principal and interest on various issues of bonds which matured on or after May 1, 1931, are in default and, according to a statement by the committee, such defaults are expected to continue.

Dividends Cut or Passed by 73 Firms During Week

Unfavorable dividend changes in the week ended Sept. 26 again increased over the previous week, says the Standard Statistics company, numbering 73, in comparison with 55 in the previous week. Favorable changes also increased, 34 being reported, against 14 in the preceding week.

Wall Street Watches for Other Developments.

24 per cent below gold parity, recovering to $4.24 and declining again to $3.49. The last named rate was not reached even in war time, when the $4.50 figure of September, 1915, was the lowest until 1919. But sterling was artificially supported, between these dates, by the proceeds of England's foreign borrowing. It went to $2.18 in the disordered financial markets of February, when all such support had been withdrawn and nobody knows what war time price it would have reached if sterling had been left to find its own level.

Awaits Price Action.

England has not yet discovered the advancing home prices for commodities which have usually followed such depreciation in the gold exchange market value of a currency. Silver bullion alone rose rapidly last week. It may have foreshadowed movement of other commodities, but the advance from 12 15-16d per ounce to 19½, a rise of 30 per cent, may have had other causes also, when even the New York price for silver moved up 13 per cent at the same time.

But British prices are at least no longer moving in close touch with our own, a much more emphatic marking up of commodity values may come later. The effect of such a movement on England's own position is more or less conjectural. If British prices were not to be raised equivalently to the fall in sterling, the result would naturally be to stimulate British exports and check imports, because the low sterling rate would make foreign purchases in England relatively advantageous and foreign sales considerably less so. But if prices were eventually to rise in exact proportion to the depreciated exchange, then the important consequences would fall on the internal market.

Reductions in Values.

It would mean reduction of real wages in Great Britain and of the real amount allotted in the dole, but it would also mean reduction in the real value of all payments contracted in current funds before last Monday. In the long run, debtors would gain and creditors lose, which to England might be a doubtful benefit, and it would necessarily curtail the real value of remittance to London on account of large British investments in foreign countries.

The result that will be produced in other countries by this British lapse from free gold payments would not in the nature of things be determined instantly. Markets which had been drawing gold from London must now go elsewhere or do without; yet the markets to which such gold had gone are in nearly all instances already abundantly equipped with gold. The German market, being indebted to Great Britain, should be helped rather than hurt by the depreciation of the currency in which remittances must be made.

BONDS SUFFER SHARP LOSSES IN HEAVY TRADE

Britain's Action Induces Liquidation.

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The bond market contributed its share to the historic financial events of the past week.

Sharp losses occurred throughout the list, although the market toward the close of the period had a fairly steady tone.

The overshadowing influence was the decision of the British government over the previous week-end to go off the gold standard. This action induced wholesale liquidation which resulted in numerous new records for low prices of many individual bonds, the lowest average prices in about a decade and the largest daily turnover, on Thursday, in a year and half. The widest losses occurred on Monday.

Urgent Liquidation.

From the wide losses between sales, especially in the foreign issues, it was apparent that buying orders at prices even approximately near previous sales were absent and that urgent liquidation was the dominating influence.

The suspension of gold exports by the Danish government on Tuesday was a minor bearish influence, promptly reflected in the recession in Danish bonds. Reports of possible similar developments by other Scandinavian countries contributed to the sag in prices.

The nervous fluctuations of other security markets resulting from the same causes encouraged liquidation by interests which destire to maintain strong liquid positions at such times.

U. S. Loans Recede.

Evidence of this condition appeared in the recession in United States treasury and Liberty loans. Several of this group sold at new low prices for this year. The two most recent issues, the treasury 3s of 1951-'55 and the 3½s of 1946-'49, sold at discounts and several of them made net losses of one point or more, which are substantial declines of this group.

With such unsettlement throughout the bond market it was to be expected that offerings of new issues would be at a minimum. Such bonds as were floated consisted of small amounts of municipal issues.

Two reports of an unfavorable nature, which had wide circulation at times, proved groundless. Explanations of the slump in government and gilt edge corporate issues included the fear that the American Legion convention would adopt a resolution demanding immediate cash payment of bonus insurance certificates and that the rediscount rate of the federal reserve bank would be advanced following the rise in acceptance yield rates.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Kansas—Fair Monday, and probably Tuesday; somewhat warmer.

Ohio—Fair with slowly rising temperature Monday; Tuesday fair and warmer.

Minnesota and Nebraska—Fair and slightly warmer Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness.

North Dakota—Generally fair; slightly warmer in east portion Monday; Tuesday scattered showers, followed by cooler in west portion.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY TO HONEST, CAPABLE AND DEPENDABLE MEN.

IF YOU are satisfied with your present standing socially, mentally, and financially, do not call and see me. If you feel that you are not making the amount of money you are entitled to, I can offer you a permanent, profitable position, provided you are sincere in your wish to be successful and are willing to pay for that success with hard work.

EXPERIENCE is not necessary in our business, although selling experience can be quite valuable. We must say that some of our most successful men are men that have had selling experience, but others have never had selling experience but come in here and under our personal training and direction they learn the profession of selling. We instruct you in the simplicity of this profession and enjoy greater a non-competitive and earning power over sales than anything else in the world can offered for a similar service. We have developed a very revolutionized this entire industry by establishing new standards of service. Try by establishing new standards of service.

OUR COMPANY, a $75,000,000 house—an international institution, with branches in 43 countries throughout the world, and the largest of its kind in this particular line, is a necessity in today's present standard of living.

THE FOLLOWING are some of the new men in our company who are making a good income of earning money in this demonstration of earning money in this business:

Cerny, last week $73.00, this week $147.00; Sering hit the $200.00 mark this week; Mr. Gunderson, $74.00 in four hours; Mr. Lombard, $84.00 in four days out; Mr. N. Nelson, $70.00 in first three days out; H. A. Wiche, $97.00 in four days of last week.

WE WILL not go deeper into the earnings of these men, as the quickest way to find proof that there is no such thing as depression in our Company, that our men are earning exceptional opportunities are out earning exceptional opportunities we have to offer. These earnings, of course, are taken at random, offer unquestionable evidence of taking men away from a congested area of living and elevating them socially, financially, and physically.

WE HAVE endeavored to present these facts as clearly as possible. If you are seeking a permanent position with success a with a responsible Company—If you feel men with a desire to grow with a company as to character and good habits, you can qualify as to character and good habits, see Mr. L. W. Faulkner, personnel manager, Suite 11-14 (East end of Hall), 5067 W. Madison-st., or Mr. John H. Wright, at 1046 Wilson-av., Monday, 9-12 and 1-4 p. m.

MEN

A STEADY JOB AND GOOD OPPORTUNITY

We are hiring 18 more men this week to be trained for our business. The men we will employ for these jobs must be the type of men who are capable of bossing themselves and able to run a business for themselves after they have been carefully instructed in same. We have a very fine growing business, nationally known and advertised and one of the finest corporations in America, who have been able to stay on the right side of the ledger for the last twelve months. A large number of our men started with this company without any previous sales experience and are real successful. They are buying their own homes and driving good cars and giving their children college educations.

We have a brand new product that has no competition. If you are between the ages of 25 and 45, have permanent address, man of good character and willing worker of neat appearance, seriously looking for a permanent connection, come in and we will have a heart-to-heart talk. We will tell you frankly after our talk what I think your chances are for making good as other men are doing.

Call from 9 to 12 and 1 to 4:30, ask for Mr. Smith, 7 S. Wacker-dr., Wilder Tower, 10th Floor; Mr. Plambeck, 757 W. 79th-st., Room 302; Mr. Sims, 1140 W. Lake-st., Oak Park. Room 207. Or Mr. Van Hals, 605 Davis-st., Room 210, Evanston, Ill.

THERE IS A NEED FOR MEN to be added to an organization now forging ahead. Men learning, earning, making friends, sales and money. Such men like to talk. Our product reasons as follows:

Could you convince yourself—
Is it possible TO HAVE opportunity to build yourself, learn to value your ability,
earn real money,
Our Mr. Trieschman, $96.31 Thursday and Friday. Mr. Hawks says "pay me $47.15 for Friday." Mr. Whan collects $44 Friday. Mr. Lewis, $62.40. Open Sunday. These men are clean-cut, serious minded, knowing what it means to work hard. Other men selected will be properly trained and directed without cost toward such earnings.

If you are this man
SEE MR. MEADOWS
7341 Cottage Grove, Suite 240-48.

Household's rates are the lowest in Chicago

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the usual Small Loan Rate.

Strictly confidential: husband and wife only need sign; no endorsers.
